BARBERTON POTTERY PREPARING TO BUILD A LARGE ADDITION

It Will Be Devoted to Art Pottery and the Improvement Will Cost $75,000 to $100,000.

Barberton, Sept. 6.—Another manufacturing establishment is to duplicate its present plant. This time it is the Barberton Pottery company, whose initial work has hardly cooled from the kilns. Surprising as this may be, this is the action which was decided upon by the directors of the company at a meeting held in Akron. Work will be begun on the addition immediately and pushed to an early completion. An additional $75,000 to $100,000 will be spent in the increase of the pottery business in this plant, and as a result the 300 men who are now employed in the plant will be increased to 600.

The new addition will be devoted to the manufacture of art ware. One of the greatest experts in this line in America, Samuel Jenks, will be superintendent of the department, he now being engaged by the company.

Since this man has been secured by the company, which was at the time the large art pottery plant at Zanesville was destroyed by fire, the company has been considering the advisability of expanding into this line of work. Mr. Jenks has been experimenting, and the fruits of his labors are such that he convinced the stockholders of the money to be made in an investment in this line, and the final result came when the action announced was taken Wednesday.

The buildings will either be at the side or the rear of the present structure and will be of the most modern make. George G. Pryor, secretary and general manager of the company, when seen about the building of the structure, said: "At the meetings of the board of directors it was decided to double the capacity of the plant. This addition will be for art ware.

"This department will be under the supervision of Samuel Jenks, who is undoubtedly the best authority on colors and glaze in America. He was superintendent of the Zanesville art pottery up to the time it was destroyed by fire. The management of the Barberton pottery lost no time in securing his services.

"The structure of the plant will be of the same character as the one already built, being a thoroughly fire proof building.

"If the new plant is up to the standand of the one already in operation Barberton may well be proud of her new industry, for it has been built without regard to anything save the convenience of making and the ability to make ware both cheap and well."

The stock of the company is held by some well known men. Among the number are H. B. Camp, O. C. Barber, A. M. Barber, F. M. Atterholt, George P. Good, William A. Johnston, E. M. Buel, Ambrose Cartwright, of East Liverpool, and others equally well known.

A high and low grade of work will be turned out. The high grade will be the best on the market. This will be shown by the fact that it is the intention in the fine work to have the name of the artist on each piece.

SALARIED TEAM FOR NEXT SEASON

Prominent Business Man Proposes To Have Ud-to-Date Baseball Here.

BELIEVES IT WOULD PAY

His Plan Is to Form a Stock Company, Hire Manager And Players And Run the Business on Business Principles.

Unless the plans of a most prominent resident of the city fail East Liverpool will next year enjoy the distinction of having one of the strongest amateur base ball teams in the country.

That the fans will support one has been evident not only during the present season, but for years. Among other cities even larger than East Liverpool, where they have salaried teams there are few that give the patronage that local fans contribute. This fact has been carefully considered by the promoter of the new project and he feels confident that he will not lose out. To a News Review reporter, the man, who is prominent in business circles, but who requested that for the present his name be withheld, made the following statement:

"East Liverpool is one of the most enthusiastic sporting towns in the state. It has for years shown a disposition to support any and all things under the sporting head. I believe that the time has come when the people should have a base ball team that it can back with credit and pride. There is but one way for them to have it, and that is to have a team of salaried men, managed by a competent man and run in a manner strictly up-to-date. It is my desire to furnish such a team. I can do it if the people will display their usual amount of interest.

"My plan is simply this: To organize a stock company with a capital of $2,500. The shares will be $1 and one person will be allowed to purchase any number that he desires.. This amount of money is desired only to place the team on a strong financial basis at the outset. It will not necessarily take that amount to equip the team in every way, but it will do no harm to have the amount on hand. From the date that the first game is played money will commence pouring into the treasury. The expense of running the team will of course be great, but when the following estimates are considered it will amount to but little:

"There are five months of base ball in a season. A salaried team can play 12 or 14 weeks at home. Figure at the former. Four games per week. A crowd of not less than 800 will attend each game. In the 48 games the gate receipts will amount to $9,600. The salary to be paid the members of the team will average $50 per month. For the three months on which the estimate is made, figuring on 12 men, the salaries will amount to $1,800. The manager will be paid $100 per month.

"Numerous other expenses will be attached, but they will not aggregate enough to let the cost overreach the cash receipts. There will undoubtedly be a reserve fund on hand while the team is out of the city. It may pay expenses while way, as it usually does, but if it does not, there will be a sufficient fund held back to meet all expense and still have a neat sum to be divided among the stockholders. A board of directors will be appointed and they will elect the manager, captain, treasurer, etc. These estimates are made only in an off-hand way and are based on the lowest calculations.'

No steps will be taken by the promoter of the project until the present season closes, when it is almost assured that the management of the present team will cooperate with the movement. Success is predicted for all who participate in the project. What the people want is a good team, and if they get it they will do their part.

NEW CLAY PLANTS ARE SPRINGING UP

And the Potteries of Trenton Are Constantly Adding to Their Capacity.

EVIIDENCES OF PROSPERITY

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 6.—Trenton is to have another tile company which will cater for some of the trade now enjoyed by the Providential and Trent Tile companies. The name of the new concern is the New Jersey Tile company which filed articles of incorporation at the county clerk's office yesterday.

The company has a capital stock of $50,000, divided into 500 shares of $100 each. The names of the incorporators and the number of shares subscribed by each are: James H. Robinson, 20 shares; William H. Valliner, 20 shares and Katherine A. Robinson, 20 shares, making a paid up capital stock of $6,000. The company proposes erecting a large plant on Muirhead avenue to be devoted to the manufacture of glazed and enameled tile together with the plain embossed and decorated lines. The company will also make a line of earthenware and porcelain specialties. The erection of the present plant will begin at once. The incorporation of the New Jersey Tile company is another of the great advance in clay products during the past year.

The potteries are not only working full time but many are enlarging to meet the demand the large orders have made upon them. During the past three months permits have been taken out for additions to several of the large potteries. The big addition to the plant of the Maddock Pottery company on Third street will be ready for occupancy in about another month. The building is under roof and the kiln shed containing three new sheds is now in use.

The Monument pottery is also building a large addition for the manufacture of earthenware zincs, wash basins and lavatories. The Elite Pottery company's plant in East Trenton which has only been in operation for a month has awarded the contract for erection of another packing shed.

The strength of union potters of this city could not be better estimated than by witnessing their lines in the parade Labor Day. Out of the some 4,000 men in line the potters constituted about 1,000 who represented each of the following locals: sanitary pressers, kilnmen and dippers, turners, throwers and handlers, saggermakers, packers and warehousemen, printers. In the Labor Day parade of 1901, the potters hardly had more than 600 men in line showing an increase of nearly 400 which Vice-President Hutchins has secured since January.

VARYING IDEAS ON THE CODE BILL

East Liverpool Citizens Have Many Different Opinions as to Desirable Law.

PRAISE FOR NASH BILL

Is Spoken By Some, Who Declare It Would Decrease Both Officials Expenses—Legislators Asked to Give the City the Best.

Of the 40 representative citizens who attended the code meeting at city hall last night, no two were of the same opinion with reference to a greater portion of the Nash code as it now reads. To those who were present last evening it is at once apparent that if the views of the legislators are as varied as those expressed at the meeting, no bill, Nash, federal or any other, will be passed this winter.

W. B. Hill was made chairman of the meeting, and about two hours were spent in a discussion of a number of points contained in the measure, and which, it was thought, would materially change the manner of conducting the affairs of East Liverpool.

At the suggestion of J. N. Hanley the chairman read sections of the bill dealing with the legislative portion of the proposed government. The duties of the board of public service were talked over, and all concluded that, while the mayor would be a very powerful official, the plan of placing the police and fire departments in charge of a board was a very good one.

After it had been agreed that the president of council would be the eighth member of council, and that he would have no vote except in the event of a tie or in the absence of some member of the body, it was decided that point was an unimportant one. Seven men expressed themselves as to what the meeting had been called for, and what matters the citizens were interested in. No two of them held the same views. Some one inquired as to the duties of the solicitor and police judge, and the chairman read the clauses. At the conclusion of the reading inquiry was made as to whether the city could afford to pay the salaries provided for in the law, and it was explained by Mr. Hill that there were now 36 men connected with the control of the municipality, while under the proposed law it would require but 22. He thought the new code regulations would not only be more economical, but afford a more satisfactory administration of public affairs.

Dr. Marshall made a few remarks favoring the fee system, and thought the good order of the community would be better looked after if the officials had an inducement in the shape of fees for each arrest. A number of those present could not agree with him.

Mr. Travis said the code was all right, but East Liverpool ought to have something to say with reference to the line of demarkation. He favored 15,000.

J. J. Purinton remarked that a great deal of time was being consumed in a discussion of details, and they were not getting any nearer the real object. He thought the thing to be discussed was whether East Liverpool desired to be a city or a village. If the people favored the latter, then the thing to do was to inform our legislators that we wanted the line fixed at something like 20,000. If we elect to come under the head of a city then let the lawmakers go ahead as they have begun, for we were sure to be in the city class as the bill now reads. He was in favor of the code, and thought the running expenses of the city would not be as high under the law as they are at present. Several citizens agreed with Mr. Purinton, and E. W. Hill took the floor.

Mr. Hill gave it as his opinion that the whole crowd was off the track as to the real question they were there to discuss. It was his belief that it was not a matter of certain sections of the Nash code, but which of the several code bills was best for this city. He rather favored the federal code—that regulation under which Cleveland is governed—and thought the city would receive more benefit from it than by the adoption of the Nash code.

Several men followed Mr. Hill, all stating they knew little of the provisions of Mr. Hill's measure, but that there was but one bill before that meeting—the Nash code—and that it must either be endorsed or rejected.

F. H. Croxall spoke at some length on the financial outlook in case the measure became a law, and put the question in the light that if the proposed new rule was put into effect and would exhaust all our revenue in paying salaries, the citizens of East Liverpool certainly would not favor it.

J. T. Smith raised another point; so did P. J. McKeone, and so it went on for another hour. At the end of that time Mr. Travis thought enough discussion had been indulged in and made a motion that our representatives and senator be requested to vote for the Nash code bill. Mr. Croxall seconded, but the motion was not put for some time. A majority of the citizens present were opposed to the motion as it read, since all were aware the law was not framed by Governor Nash. Many thought the word Nash ought to be stricken from the motion.

H. P. McCarron, to get around the difficulty, amended the motion in this manner: "That we ask our representatives and senator to vote and work for that form of government which, in their judgment, will be best for cities of the smaller size."

Colonel W. C. Watson had an amendment to the amendment and E. W. Hill had three or four substitutes, all written out, but they received no second, and Mr. McCarron's amendment was put, and the motion as amended went through. When it was doctored up and put in shape the sense of the meeting was summed up in something like the following:

"Be it resolved that the senator and representatives of this district are instructed to vote for the code giving the cheapest and best form of home rule government for cities of the size of East Liverpool."

BECAME HOMESICK

Steubenville Boy Who Ran Away Got Tired And Returned to His Home.

Upon being notified a few days since to be on the lookout for William H. Lisely, a boy of 16 years, who ran away from his home in Steubenville, Acting Chief Dawson instituted a search for the missing lad with success. He was informed that the boy might be working around a machine shop and taking the information as a clew the chief kept a close watch among the machinists of the city.

This morning he learned that Lisely had been working at Cain Bros.' shop and that he had left last evening for his home at Steubenville. The boy became repentant and homesick.

HOUSE DISREGARDS GOVERNOR'S WISHES AS TO LEGISLATION

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, Sept. 6.—The house persists in its refusal to abide by the recommendations of Governor Nash. Yesterday the members of that body introduced 10 bills and several resolutions. Speaker McKinnon introduced a resolution to amend the constitution so as to provide for the classification of cities into three classes. If the resolution is adopted the people will vote on it at the fall election in 1903. Representative McDonald, of Montgomery, introduced a resolution providing for the holding of a constitutional convention. The resolution says: "That it is necessary to call a convention to revise, amend or change the constitution of Ohio, and we recommend to the voters of this state to vote at the next election for members of the general assembly, to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1903, for or against such a convention." It was referred to the judiciary committee. It will require a two-thirds vote for adoption.

Representative Meisel, of Cuyahoga, offered a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide that each city over 3,500 may adopt its own charter, subject to the restrictions imposed by the constitutional and general laws regarding assessment and taxation. Guerin, of Erie, introduced two bills, one being his federal code measure and the other a bill to repeal the Longworth board of revision law and giving mayor the power to appoint boards of equalization consisting of four members and the county auditor. Representatives Bracken, of Franklin, introduced a primary election bill. It provides a new plan for the holding of primary elections, placing them under the control of city boards of election and requiring nominees to be placed on the primary ticket by petition. It is designed to eliminate alleged iniquitous features from the present laws.

The other bill offered was only of ordinary importance. The senate convened at the proper time, but adjourned without transacting any business. The body will meet again Monday afternoon. The house adjourned until next Wednesday, but the special committee which has the code bills in tow will hold meetings every day excepting Saturday and Monday. The committee went into session immediately after the house adjourned and heard arguments from city solicitors on the code. There are about 20 bills in the house hopper, but it is in no-wise certain that those not referred to in the governor's message will be considered. The administration supporters have started a movement to have all measures not dealing with the subjects alluded to in the governor's message squelched in committee. Failure to report them back will accomplish this result.

The senate is adhering close to the lines mapped out by the governor in the matter of confining itself to the matters he desires acted upon. The house committee will cut off argu-

NEGOTIATIONS ON FOR BIG FARM

L. I. Aarons Said to Be After the McDonald Land Opposite Walker's.

A PRICE OF $400 AN ACRE

Set By the Owner But No Deal Concluded—Object of the Proposed Purchase Is Not Disclosed And Is Problematical.

It was learned this afternoon from a source that cannot be questioned that quite recently L. I. Aarons, president of the Homer Laughlin China company, made overtures to purchase the McDonald farm, opposite Walker, and near the town of Newell. Just what was to be done with this large farm by Mr. Aarons could not be learned, as that gentleman was not in the city today, and there was no one who could speak for him.

Allen McDonald, when asked today if the report was true that Mr. Aarons was after his mother's farm, said that it was, but that nothing definite had been done in the matter. Mr. McDonald also stated that a price of about $400 an acre was put on the farm and whether a sale would take place could not be told at this time.

His Assailant, Ryan, Goes to Lisbon Jail to Await Court Action.

Salem, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Before Mayor Baker this morning, John Ryan, charged with shooting Edward Mackey with intent to kill, was given a preliminary hearing. The mayor held Ryan under $5,000 bond for the grand jury. The prisoner could not furnish the bail, and will be taken to Lisbon jail this afternoon.

Word from Leetsburg states that Mackey is still living, but is in a critical condition. He passed a restless night.

EAST END

EAST END PEOPLE PROPOSE MAKING DEMAND FOR THEM.

A Prominent Citizen Points Out Existing Dangers and the Need of Action.

The matter of constructing a sewer throughout the East End district will be brought before the attention of the council and sewer commissioners before long. Owing to the fact that the population of the East End is growing so rapidly, the suburb is not in a condition that it should be. Private sewers, constructed to the river bank on Ohio avenue cause quite a large amount of filth to flow into the river, a short distance above the water works pump station, and this is not at all good for the general health of the city. A prominent business man of the East End when asked about this matter this morning said:

"Is is very strange for a city the size of East Liverpool, which boasts of having a council that is always doing something for the benefit of the town, to let the East End go and never mention the sewer question. There is but one thing to do, and that is to go before council in a body and demand that some action be taken in this matter at once. The idea of having a storm water sewer and a house sewer combined is not practicable in the East End. This was tried in the city and was found useless.

"The mouth of the East End sewer when built will have to be built above the head of Babb's island, as it would never do to have a sewer opening along the river on Ohio avenue. In the summer the river is so low that there is no current between the island and the Ohio shore, and refuse would lie in the bed of the river, and a terrible odor would arise.

"Take in Helena, for instance, where new residences are being erected very fast, there is no sewer. Filth is allowed to be dumped almost anywhere, and what is the result? Sickness is caused, deaths result, and why? Because the city officials are not giving the East End the attention they should."

Pleasant Party.

A pleasant party was given last evening at the residence of Miss Hulda Bergner, on Ambrose avenue. Quite a number of young people were present, and one of the enjoyments of the evening was dancing. Refreshments were served.

No Word from Absentees.

Although they left the city Tuesday afternoon, no word has been received from Roy Terrence or Harry Manley, of the East End. Friends of these young men believe they have gone to Akron, where each has relatives, and it is believed they have secured employment in the potteries either at Akron or at Barberton. The boys have not written to other friends in the East End, although young Terrence told his mother some time ago that he proposed to take a pleasure trip this fall.

Arranging for Rally Day.

A meeting of the session of the Second U. P. church will be held in the lecture room of the church next Tuesday evening, when it is expected that some important business matters will be considered. Arrangements are being made by the officials of the Sunday school of this church for the Rally day, which will be observed on Sunday, September 28. The service will be held in the auditorium on that morning, taking the place of the regular church service.

Moved From East Palestine.

The household goods of Abner Angle, of East Palestine, were received in the East End yesterday afternoon. The family will occupy the residence on Railroad street formerly occupied by Elmer A. Stevenson, who recently removed his family to Mechanicstown. Mr. Angle was formerly employed as a fireman at the East Palestine pottery, but is now holding a similar position at Laughlin No. 2.

Revival Meetings May Close.

It is expected that the Free Methodist revival meetings at the Neville Institute will close this evening, though no official announcement has been made. A large number of conversions have been reported, and the season is said to have been a successful one. It will not be long until other churches in the East End will begin to prepare for revival meetings.

Membership is 368.

In the story published in this paper last evening of the growth of the Erie street M. E. church during the past three years, a typographical error occured in the present membership of the church. The membership of the church three years ago was 223, and at the present it is 368, instead of 268, which appeared last evening.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

The warning bell at the Mulberry street crossing of the C. & P. needs repairing. It has been sounding since late last night, with no intermission.

Mrs. Robert Finley, of Sebring, is spending a few days in the East End visiting friends.

A number of new sewer pipe drays were received at the East End sewer pipe works this morning.

Miss Mary Davis, of the East End, who has been visiting friends in the southern part of the state for several weeks, has returned home.

A base ball game was to be played at Columbian park this afternoon at 3 o'clock between the East End Grays and the West End teams.

Care of the Stomach.

At no time of year is it so necessary to be careful of the digestive organs as in summer. Vitality is always at a low ebb during a spell of severe heat, and the stomach needs a tonic. BLOOD WINE is highly recommended, because it aids digestion and gives a normal tone and strength to the whole system. For sale by Will Reed, Hodson's Drugstore.

IMPROVED THE GROUNDS

Teacher And Pupils Busied Themselves While Waiting for Books.

Principal William Dorff, of the Pleasant Heights school, has been occupying his time and that of his pupils while they waited the arrival of the books necessary for use during the coming term, in beautifying the grounds surrounding the school building.

The supply of books is said to be on hand, but they have not yet been furnished to this school. There have been a few recitations, but little if any real progress has been made by the pupils in the week ending with yesterday.

The delay in supplying the books, however, has not affected the work of the term to any great degree, as both teacher and pupils have been busy in other lines.

Mr. Dorff and a number of his older scholars cut grass about the building, and in other ways so improved the appearance of the place that the natives can scarcely realize tnat it once very much resembled a barn 40 miles from nowhere. With several sickles and a rake the grounds surrounding the building were yesterday placed in a conditon most pleasing to the eye.

In addition to this the teacher and pupils have laid out a base ball diamond, and it is probable a number of first-class candidates for positions in the big league will be developed before bad weather sets in.

Coal And Wages Advanced.

Salem, Sept. 6. —(Special)— The strike of the miners employed in the coal banks north of the city, which has been on for a week past pending the signing of the scale by the operators, is reported settled, and the men have returned to work. ST. VINCENT'S DANGER

Should Soufriere Explode the Whole Island Would Be Destroyed.

PELEE'S CRATER IS ENORMOUS.

Entire Country Buried Under Great Depth of Ashes and Impossible to Recover Bodies of Thousands of Dead—Martinique Doomed.

Castries, Island of St. Lucia, Sept. 6. - The captain of the steamer Savan, now here, in confirming early dispatches concerning the terrific explosion of the volcanic Soufriere on the island of St. Vincent on September 3, says his vessel ran into a dense cloud of dust when 20 miles off St. Vincent. The darkness was impenetrable, and he changed his course due west in order to avoid the ashes that fell thick and fast.

The steamer Vare reports that at the recent outbreak of Soufriere there were several more valuable plantations on the island completely destroyed in addition to the towns referred to in earlier dispatches, and it is said that the anxiety and utter dejection of the surviving population is general.

Mouth of Crater Enormous.

The continual eruption of Mont Pelee causes the mouth of its crater to grow in size, and it is now of enormous proportions. One of the adjoining mountain peaks to Pelee has fallen bodily into this awful crater. Clouds are driven away from the vicinity of Pelee, and there is nothing but a great column of flame extending far into the sky. At night it has the appearance of a molton stream standing fixed between the earth and the heavens. The entire country is buried under a great depth of ashes, and it will be impossible to recover the bodies of the thousands of dead.

Doomed to Destruction.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Louis H. Ayme, United States consult at Guadeloupe, who is here on sick leave, says that if Pelee blows its head off it would produce a tidal wave that would be appalling. He believes it would destroy cities and villages along the coast of the chain of islands with a population of 750,000, and which would be practically helpless to save themselves. The island of Martinique he believes to be doomed to total destruction, and Guadeloupe is in a worse predicament.

Many are fond of Tapioca, but dislike the trouble of soaking it. Use Mrs. Austin's Quick Lunch Tapioca. No soaking. 9

Oh, Yes

You wish you had ordered a case of Beer, Ale or Porter for today, but you didn't. It isn't our fault; we had plenty of it ready to deliver at your order. Don't get caught napping again. A postal card or the 'phones do the work.

Well-Known Woman Dead.

Cincinnati, Sept. 6.—Miss Mary Gamble, who died at Cambridge, England, yesterday, was one of the best known women in this city, where she had lived all her life. She leaves an estate worth more than a million dollars. She gave thousands of dollars annually to the support of church and charity institutions.

Pope Confirms Appointment.

Rome, Sept. 6.—The pope has confirmed the appointment of the Right Rev. John M. Farley, the auxiliary bishop of New York, as archbishop of New York, in succession to the late Archbishop Corrigan, and of the Right Rev. George Montgomery, bishop of Los Angeles, Cal., as coadjutor to the Most Rev. Patrick William Riordan, archbishop of San Francisco, the latter with the right of succession.

TWELVE PAGES.

When the Ohio river is improved and opened to navigation all the year—as it must inevitably be sooner or later, and the earlier the better—it will be the people's highway of commerce. No railroad or other corporation can control or monopolize its privileges. The railroads can be and are compelled to leave open and unobstructed the approaches to the stream where such highways are needed. Encroachments upon its banks are forbidden by federal laws, the river being a part of the national domain. The railroads can and do fight competition in transportation and traffic, but they cannot and dare not fight the government.

The outlook for cheap food in the immediate future is very promising. The general aggregate of the cereal crops, if the weather remains favorable for two or three weeks more, will be greater than was ever known before. This will reduce prices, and at the same time give the producers a large income. Cheap and abundant food means prosperity and happiness for the masses of the people. At present food prices are at a higher level on the general average, than for many years past. A downward turn would be very agreeable to millions of working people.

Americans are a reading people and the habit of reading appears to be growing. There are reported by the census 18,226 newspapers and periodicals of all kinds in the United States, an increase of 22.3 per cent. from the census of 1890. Of these 2,226 are dailies; 12,979 weeklies, and 1,817 monthlies. The increase in the circulation of all classes of newspapers has more than kept pace with the growth of the city population of the country, being 22.3 per cent. for all publications and 20.7 for population.

Wellsville council and citizens are awake to the importance of river improvement. So is everybody who wants to see the Ohio valley interests advanced. East Liverpool should take the matter up and make her position plain. The "On to Cairo" platform is a good one to stand on.

The Klondike gold fields show a decreased production this year, despite the fact that scientific methods have largely taken the place of primitive processes. Those who want to make fortunes cheaply and easily will do well to keep away from the Klondike.

Honesty and ability are more essential than any form of municipal code. Still, while a code is being shaped, the work should be well done, with careful regard to both present and future needs.

President Roosevelt will be in Ohio today and tomorrow. He will see prosperity and content in abundance, though it may surprise him if he has read Jom-Johnson's platform.

Surprise is expressed at a September snowstorm in Altoona. But that is nothing. Some of the Pennsylvania politicians have been encountering frosts all summer long.

The Ohio Democratic platform prates loudly of the reform. When did Ohio ever witness any reform under a Democratic administration?

Mr. Watterson's suggestion that the Democratic party retire all its old leaders is superfluous. The people have already retired them.

It takes more than a fortune of $5,000,000 to make a statesman, though Tom Johnson thinks otherwise.

Senator Billy Mason apperas to be the only Illinois man at all excited over his campaign for re-election.

THE SPEED PROGRAM

At the West Virginia State Fair, Next Week, Will Be a Great One.

We are going to discuss the speed program of the twenty-second annual West Virginia State Fair and Exposition, at Wheeling, in this little article.

The opening day for the races is Tuesday, September 9, and they continue for four days. There are sixteen events and the aggregate amount of the purses is $5,950. Throughout the programme is a great one, it having been arranged with the greatest care.

Tuesday is announced a 2:13 pace, for $500; a 2:20 trot, for $400; a 2:30 trot, for $400; and a five-eights mile dash for $100.

Wednesday there is a free-for-all pace, for $500; a 2:23 trot, for $400; a 2:19 pace, for $400, and a three-quarter mile dash for $150.

Thursday is the great racing day. The afternoon starts off with a 2:16 pace, for $500; a 2:17 trot, for $500; the great 2:30 pace for the Board of Trade stakes of $1,000, and a mile run for $150.

Friday will also be a good day, with its 2:26 trot, for $400; a 2:23 pace, for $400; a 2:14 trot, for $500, and a seven-eights mile run for $100.

The entries for these contests have closed and no finer horses were ever gotten together.

Excursion rates on all railroads, a fine Fair and lots of amusement. Go to Wheeling Monday. It will pay you in several ways.

AT THE THEATER

One of the most important announcements of the season is to the effect that "David Harum," with its New York production and an extremely strong cast, will be presented at the Grand tonight. This simple announcement will awaken anticipations of pleasure in the minds of many, for nearly everyone has read Westcott's book and found much enjoyment in it. That they will want to see David, Aunt Polly, Deacon Perkins and the other characters who move through the story on the stage seems but natural. The New York run of the play was a record breaker in the matter of receipts, and it claimed attention there for 16 weeks.

There are some theatrical attractions that are not affected in the least degree by the shifting public taste; one of these being Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the great standard American drama, that has retained its hold upon the public for over a decade. Its first production took place in the Troy museum quite a number of years ago; after which, it was produced at the old National Theater, Chatham street, New York, in January, 1853, where it enjoyed a three years' run to enormous business. It will be presented at the Grand Monday night.

CHURCH RE-OPENING

PRESBYTERIAN EDIFICE REPAIRED AND MUCH IMPROVED.

Pastor Jordan Has Returned and Will Take Up Active Work at Once.

Rev. C. G. Jordan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, returned last evening from his seven weeks vacation which he spent near the lakes. Very much refreshed both mentally and physically, the reverend gentleman has taken up his work with a new vigor and zeal and hopes to make the ensuing year one of the most successful in the history of the church. He will occupy the pulpit tomorrow, both morning and evening.

All regular services will be held tomorrow and next week, the church improvements being practically finished and every thing in readiness for an interrupted work during the year.

Since the suspension of services the improvements added to the already elegant church have made it most beautiful. The interior and exterior have each been repaired and improved in a manner truly commendable. On the outside several hundred dollars have been spent, giving the church the appearance of newness and splendor.

Much more time and money was spent on the inside. New carpets have been laid; the walls have been prettily decorated and many other improvements in the way of re-arrangement of the sections are noticeable.

He left home Thursday morning and toured a section of Bedford county. He was evidently on his way home it is believed that he was held up by highwaymen for the proceeds of the day's sales, that he refused and was struck on the head with some blunt instrument, which crushed in his skull. WELLSVILLE

TAMPERED WITH THE CONTRACT

OHIO RIVER IMPROVEMENT

Contractor Freshwater Granted an Extension of Six Weeks in Order to Complete Certain Street Improvements—A Heated Session.

The meeting of the city council last night was the hottest that has been held in many months. It began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted till after 11 o'clock, and during that time a large amount of important business was disposed of. The meeting was enlivened by hot debates and interesting tilts.

The council placed itself on record as favorable to the movement to improve the Ohio river and render it navigable the year round. It decided to call a big mass meeting and invite every citizens of Wellsville to attend. This gathering will be held in about two weeks. It is the intention to hold the meeting immediately after the repairs on the city hall are completed. The council will do even more. It has decided also to send delegates to Parkersburg, W. Va., to attend the meeting of the Ohio River Improvement committee. The council seems to be unanimously in favor of the building of a dam below the C. & P. railroad station instead of above it as is now intended.

Contractor Freshwater was given an extension of six weeks in which to complete the pavements on Maple alley and Liverpool street. The work should have been completed a month ago. The contractor was delayed through action taken by the council and others. He will pave Liverpool street first. It is a question whether the railway tracks will be put in the middle of that street or on the side. A resolution to place them in the center was voted down last night. Councilman Henderson proposed the change, claiming it was a clever move on the part of other councilmen to delay the improvement. He threatened to make things interesting if something was not done towards finishing the work before cold weather sets in.

Council also authorized the hiring of a number of teams and additional men to assist the street superintendent in his crusade for cleaner streets. The unpaved alleys and streets of Wellsville have been in a deplorable condition for two years. Not until a few days ago did either the council or the board of health make any move to better conditions. Then the board passed a resolution, which council acted on last night.

Resolutions were also passed requiring residents along streets that are being improved to construct suitable stone walks according to specifications made by the city engineer. On several streets there will be some trouble over this, it is believed.

Former City Solicitor Frank L. Wells appeared before the council as attorney representing the Porter Brick company, which has been furnishing some brick for use in Wellsville. City Engineer Leith and Street Inspector Dalton tested the brick. They reported that it was not as good as the brick made by the Vulcan Clay company, of this city. Council then ordered that nothing but Wellsville brick be used on pavements. Mr. Wells asked that a public test of the brick be made. He claimed that the Porter company has manufactured brick for 20 years, and had never before had any condemned. By taking these condemnation proceedings he said the business of the company had been injured. Council appointed a committee of five members to make the public test. It was intimated that there might the some prejudice regarding brick made outside of Wellsville.

For about the hundredth time the old James street retaining wall came up. Council refused to pay for the wall and a committee of three was appointed to investigate. Contractor Rhinehart declared that the contract called for a wall. It was found that the contract in the possession of the city had been altered by unknown parties to exclude any reference to the wall. Rinehart thought he should be paid for the work on the wall. No objection was maded to the bill for paving alone.

A lot of other matters also engaged the attention of council. Included in the big batcth of petitions were a number for improvements to streets.

BOILER MAKERS' UNION

An Organization Effected and Officers Chosen—Thirty-five Members.

The union boiler makers of this city have recently perfected the organization of a new lodge to be known as Silver lodge, No. 310, B. M. & I. & S. B., of America. Thirty-five members have been enrolled. The regular meeting night will be every Wednesday evening in Aten's hall.

The following officers have been selected: President, Geo. Schaidnagle; vice-president, John McGill; secretary, and treasurer, George Kountz.

Nearly all of the members are employed at the Carroll-Porter Boiler works in the West End.

The Church Steeple Going.

The steeple of the United Presbyterian church now presents a very skeleton like appearance since W. C. Breedlaw (colored) and his assistant have torn down all of the slate and under tar paper. Only the wooden frame work and the extreme top piece remain above the belfry and these will probably be taken down by the middle of next week. A modern church spire is to be erected later. The same top piece and bell will be placed upon it. The entire edifice will soon be remodeled.

HARVEST HOME PICNIC

All Hancock County Represented In the Gathering at Rock Springs Today.

The Harvest Home picnic at Rock Springs park today is one of the largest picnics held at the park during the entire season. Every part of the county is represented. New Cumberland, Fairview, and other towns are almost depopulated.

The people flocked to the big picnic by rail, by the street cars, in cabs, carriages and automobiles, on bicycles and on foot. Every one who can earn or borrow a dollar is in Chester today.

An excursion train of 14 coaches came in at 9 o'clock. The regular trains carry seven times the usual number of coaches. These are packed until there is not standing room even on the platforms. Some of prominent citizens of New Cumberland present are: Clerk of the Court Armour Cooper, Sheriff C. F. Allison, Senator J. R. Donehoo, Ex-Senator O. S. Marshall, Judge Campbell and Prosecuting Attorney McKenzie.

The sights and pleasures of the park are being enjoyed by thousands, and hundreds are in East Liverpool taking in the sights of the city. It is a great day for Hancock county.

TWENTY BARRELS

Estimated Production of a New Well on Whitehall Farm Near Fairview.

The oil well drilled by the New Cumberland Oil company on the Whitehall farm near Fairview, came in yesterday. The well is estimated as a 20 barrel producer. Another rig is going up on the Lawrence Glass farm, also near Fairview.

Good For Ten Barrels.

The well on the Rose Kinney farm, which was shot about a week ago, was brought in yesterday, and for several minutes oil was thrown quite a distance in the air before the connections could be made with the tank. The well is owned by the Line Island Oil and Gas company, and is making about ten barrels a day. The same company is drilling a well on the W. H. Kinney farm, and is down about 200 feet. Operations have been suspended until additional casing can be procured, as water was struck and filled the casing then in the hole.

Will Rent Room, if Needed.

There will be no meeting of the Grant district school board to consider the erection of a new building, although such a meeting has been reported scheduled for tonight. The president of the board, Mr. Allison, states that no new buildings will be erected this year. Nothing will be done in the way of securing additional room until after school begins Monday. If it is then found that the present buildings are not large enough to accommodate the pupils a room will be rented somewhere, or else the basement of the present central building will be equipped as for a recitation room.

Epworth League Rally.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church will hold a grand rally Tuesday evening. An excellent program is being prepared. A large crowd is expected at this meeting, not only from Chester, but from the surrounding towns as well. Invitations are extended to the league of the First church of East Liverpool, as well as the leagues of the Georgetown and East End churches.

He won 12 premiums, 8 firsts 3 seconds, and 4 sweepstakes, the premiums amounting to $300. Mr. Pugh's herd bull alone won $65. The herd will next be exhibited at the West Virginia state fair, at Wheeling, then at the Indiana state fair at Indianapolis.

Pleasant Little Party.

The party was one of those enjoyable little affairs where every one feels at home and is ready to have a pleasant time himself and make one for others. Ice cream and cake were served. Music and games were enjoyed by all.

BENEFIT CONCERT

By Anthracite Glee Club Arouses Much Interest Among Union Men.

All arrangements have been completed for the reception of the 10 members of the Anthracite Glee club, which comes to Rock Springs next Tuesday and Wednesday.

A number of the local unions holding meetings since the dates were secured have taken action upon the matter and several will attend the concerts in a body. Manager Maxwell, of the park, has arranged for the singers to perform in conjunction with the orchestra, and their numbers will alternate with the selections from the orchestra.

The pottery workers and other working people are enthusiastic in their support of the striking miners, and an effort will be made to outdo the Pittsburg unionists in the matter of financial support. Wellsville working men are preparing for a visit to the park during the stay of the singers, and arrangements are now being made to select a time when all can come at one time. The glee club will undoubtedly receive a hearty welcome and a patronage which will net them a substantial sum.

TRANSFER OF RIGHTS

For Railway to Be Built By B. & O. Is Still Going On.

Colonel Harry Freese, of Canton, who is prominently connected with the plan for building a Baltimore & Ohio railroad spur from Warwick, near Canton, to Smith's Ferry, over rights of way secured some years ago by the Canton & East Liverpool Railway company, arrived in the city this morning, but when seen by a representative of the News Review he had no statement to make.

Col. Freese is now, as he has been in the past, engaged in closing up the transfer of the rights of way of the old company to the Baltimore & Ohio company. This is tedious work in many respects, and as the gentleman does not devote all his time to this work, progress is necessarily slow.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

STRENUOUS DAYS.

"The kilnmen of today do not work one half as hard as they did when I was working at the trade," said an old pottery workman today, whose hairs are now white, and whose age is past the three score and ten mark. "When I was working in the kiln," said the old gentleman, "we went to work at 7 o'clock in the morning, and worked until 6 o'clock in the evening. Not a pottery in the town in those days had more than two kilns, and in those potteries where there was but one kiln, it seemed more like standing before the rolls in a rolling mill than working in a pottery. On more than one occasion, when I would accidently bump against the door or inside of the kiln, I would blister my arm, so hot was the kiln. Even when we drew the kiln one man could draw but four to ten saggers, and then he would come out and the next man would take his place. The hardest saggers to take from the kiln was the first one the kilnman went after, because he was cool, and he then worked his way toward the door. They do not draw today as in the old times. In the winter time we only worked until dark, but we started at 7 o'clock in the morning just the same. We made from $1 to $1,25 a day then, and the manufacturers paid their men every three months; that is, a settlement in full was made at that time. The Croxall pottery on Second street, was the first to commence to pay its men every two weeks. That was during the war. Two regiments were recruited in this town early in the civil war, and good workmen were scarce. Workers were at a premium. One of the manufacturers who had lost a large number of his workmen by them enlisting said: "We will take every workman from the Croxal pottery." When that firm got wind of the intent a consultation between the partners was held, and it was decided to adopt a new system of paying their men. The employes were called into the office one afternoon, and told that if they would remain with the firm they would receive their wages every two weeks, something that was unheard of in the town before. That was enough. All the men remained with the firm, and it was but a short time until all the manufacturers in the city were compelled to follow the policy adopted by the Croxall company."

THAT ROOFING PLANT.

Information is given out that a plant for the manufacture of roofing tile is to be established at Irondale, and it is stated that certain members of the East Ohio Sewer Pipe company, of that town, are interested. Some months ago the machinery was removed from the tin mill anr it is understood the old buildings will be utilized for the tile factory. As the structures cover considerable area, they would afford ample space for the purpose. For the section of country in which Irondale is located, including Jefferson county, which is considered somewhat of a center for clay-working establishments, the business of manufacturing roofing tile would be rather a new departure, but at the same time there is no apparent reason why the venture should not prove a success, in view of the fact that the Irondale fire clay is of a very plastic character and would doubtless mold satisfactorily in almost any kind of a die. There is also an abundance of this material adjacent to the tin mill property. It is also a matter of fact that roofing tile may be manufactured successfully from this material, and that with a fair margin of profit if the business is properly conducted, as it no doubt would be in this instance, since some of the parties said to be interested in the new enterprise are known to be thorough-going business men.

PRESIDENT HERBERT RESIGNS.

A surprise was occasioned at a meeting of Kilnmen's local, No. 9, last evening at Brotherhood hall when President Richard Herbert tendered his resignation of that office. He was asked to serve out his term, but to this he would not agree. No reason was given for the action of Mr. Herbert, and the local was never more surprised than when the secretary read the resignation. Thomas Neal, a kilnman at the C. C. Thompson pottery, was appointed to fill the unexpired term. Several applications for membership were presented at this meeting and several investigating committees were appointed, which will make reports at the next meeting.

NEW BARBERTON LOCAL.

It is expected that President A. S. Hughes, of the Brotherhood, will soon go to Barberton for the purpose of organizing a new local among the workmen of that shop. When asked today if he had set any date for going there Mr. Hughes said that he had not, but that a local would be organized there soon. When this is done there will not be a town in this part of the country, it is said, where a pottery is located, in which a local of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters cannot be found. This certainly show how the membership of the Brotherhood is increasing.

MACHINERY ARRIVING.

The first of the machinery for the new plant being built by the East Liverpool Brick Manufacturing company arrived at the plant yesterday. There was but one carload, and it will be several days before it can be unloaded from the car and placed in the building. A portion of the engine, boiler and grinding room is about completed, and this is where the first machinery will be placed.

SIX MONTHS OLD.

Although a more detailed account of the improvement that is contemplated to be made at the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery by the East Liverpool Potteries company was published in this column six months ago, from plans prepared by Architect Adolph Fritz, a local paper last evening told the same story, under a four-line head. Truly the News Review files are read with interest.

DID NOT APPEAR.

Although they were expected in the city last Monday, President A. M. Moreland, of the Union Potteries company, of Pittsburg, in company with Vice President Frank W. Fowler, of the same company, they have not appeared at the office of the local plant as yet. They are now expected any day, and upon the most important business, that of making improvements to the Union.

READY TO OPERATE.

The East Ohio Sewer Pipe company, of Irondale, has placed in operation one dry pan and the stiff-mud brick machine and bricks are being turned out for use in constructing additional kilns. It is the purpose to make several kilns of these before sewer pipe making is started. The latter department of the factory, however, is virtually ready to operate.

INNOVATION.

A section of roadway is to be paved near Steubenville with vitrified fire-clay brick, the latter to be furnished by the Toronto Fire Clay company. The total amount of their bid was $12,000, which is $3,000 lower than the figures of a competitive bidder, who was also a local man.

MAKING THIN WARE.

It is reported that the capital stock of the New Castle Pottery company at New Castle will be increased. It is now said that at least two new kilns will be erected instead of one. The company is as busy as can be and has never as yet had a chance to get into the manufacture of the thin ware. It is for this purpose that one of the new kilns will be erected.

DID NOT MATERIALIZE.

Although Packers local, No. 25, held an interesting session last evening, some matters that were expected to be brought before the meeting were deferred for one week. An oversight of some detail work was the cause of this, and much business that was to be transacted last evening will be looked after at the meeting next Friday evening.

KILNDRAWERS' MEETING.

The kilndrawers will meet this evening in Brotherhood hall. It is understood that a number of new members will be obligated at this session.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

The Huntington pottery, the last one on Long Island, is now being dismantled and the buildings torn down. The pottery is said to have been in operation 100 years or over.

The American Land & Devolopment company is opening some clay mines in North Carolina that it is said present clay that for whiteness and quality in burning hard is hard to equal.

The operative potters of Sebring, who took part in the Labor Day parade at Alliance and won the prize of $10, have donated the money to the benefit of the anthracite miners in Pennsylvania.

A few days ago two children built a fire in a barn across the alley from the plant of the Boone Pottery company, Boonsboro, Ia., and thirty minutes later the pottery was destroyed. J. G. Holmes, proprietor, will re-build the plant at once, putting up brick buildings.

CAR BURNED UP

In the Conway Yards—It Was Filled With Freight for This City.

A freight car, containing nothing but freight for merchants of this city, was totally destroyed by fire in the Conway yards yesterday afternoon. A message to this effect was received in this city yesterday afternoon by Station Agent George A. Wassman, but the list of shipments and the consignors was not known in this city.

The loss, however, will not fall to the local merchants, for claims will be presented to the railroad company either by them or by those who made the shipments. The car destroyed was known to railroad men as a transfer car.

BRIDGEVILLES WERE NOT IN IT

East Liverpool Made the Pennsylvania Aggregation Look Very Small.

EXPERIENCE VS. YOUTH

A Good Pitcher With Good Backing Enables the Home Team to Have Everything Its Own Way—Game Abounded in Good Plays.

"They are all right." "Who's all right?" "East Liverpool." "You've said it."

They were certainly playing some. Bridgeville looked like spurious coin when the game was finished. They were not at any time in the wagon. At the end of the first half things had the appearance of an interesting contest, but when the locals got through with their half a far different aspect was presented. From that time on only one team played the true article of the game.

Manager Walsh simply had a good twirler with good backing. He got together one of the festest lineups seen this season. The outfield was there; also the infield. And Gehring's pitching was superb. Three hits only were made off the new man. He sent them over in a style never before seen by the Allegheny county boys. Like a pack of children they beat the wind. What they will do today when they go up against Maley is hard to say.

It was simply a gang of youths against an aggregation of men well acquainted with the game. And there are few that don't like to witness expert playing even if one side is there only as coachers. The locals got the bulk of the errors. But they made up for that in numerous creditable stunts.

Webb alone made a play that was worth the price of admission. It was in the seventh. Kenny had reached first and was speeding toward second when Webb performed the feat that will make him dear to the hearts of at least 400 people. Down through the diamond, with fire flying in every direction, was the ball going that was met by Mayer. Webb was playing close to first base and all thought that he certainly would never connect with the whizzing sphere. But Bibb, ever confident, with lightning rapidity, glided over the smoothness, reached down with his ungloved paw, grabbed the ball, jumped on second, whirled around, and with an unerring aim planted the ball in Grandpa Heckathorn's hands. A double play. And it was made so quickly that half of the fans could not realize exactly what had occurred. Maag went wild over the play and clasped the hero in his arms in a truly romantic manner. This was the first and only real inning.

Peacock landed at first on an error by Webb. Lynch went out. McLaren hit for two bases, scoring Peacock. Maley dropped Callahan's high fly, and McLaren scored. Mayer went out to Chick in middle. Callahan scored on the throw in. C. Kenny was hit. He went out, being forced by F. Mayer. Maag managed to get hit again. Godwin, after making a successful bunt and a pretty slide, was called out.

The crowd almost went up over Dennis' decision. They remembered his failing, however, and let the matter stand with only a few pointed remarks. Reark placed one near the fumbler at third. Nist dropped a pretty hit over second and scored two runs. Heckathorn drove one between first and second. Nist scored. Emmerling walked. Heckathorn scored. Maley went down a fielder's choice. And Emmerling scored on the choice. Webb was hit. Gehring also walked. Maag did not forget to get hit once more and thereby scored Maley. Godwin retired the side on an easy one to third. The rest of the game was all East Liverpool.

Godwin put the usual amount of ginger in the game by his appearance on the field. He had no chances to make any sensational plays. But he did some good work allee samee.

Maag almost made a record. Two runs, three hits, two putouts, five assists and only one error.

Along with his great double Webb got a run, a hit, five putouts, five assists and a ——.

Nist played part of the game in left field and finished up behind the bat. He is all right in either position. In the latter he has a reputation. For a long time he was one of the star catchers in the Three I. league.

Colonel Heckathorn swung that game limb of his in the regular grand stand way. He pulled it along with extraordinary efficiency. One run, two hits, 15 putouts, one assist and a couple of errors. He remains the treasure of the ladies.

Reark and Maley had very few chances.

Considering the fact that it was McCafferty's first attempt, he did excellent work. He bids fair to be a pitcher.

M. Kenny was the whole show among the visitors. He plays a nice game and stands in with the fans.

ORGAN RECITAL

Delighted a Large Audience of Music Lovers at St. Stephen's Church.

Not in many months has there been assembled together in this city so great a number of music loving people as at the free organ recital given last evening at the St. Stephen's Episcopal church. So large was the attendance that extra chairs had to be provided and many besides were compelled to stand.

Mr. Edward Macrum is organist of All Saint's church, New York, and when an opportunity was given to hear him play in this city, his friends who have watched with satisfaction his progress from boyhood, showed their interest by appearing en masse. As is well known the organ in the St. Stephen's church was a gift of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and this is the first of a series of free recitals which will be given once a month throughout the coming winter.

Quite a number of selections were rendered by Mr. Macrum, all of which brought out the full expression of the instrument, and each number was heartily appreciated by the audience. Three solos occured at intervals in the program. Miss Alice Dixon sang "Abide With Me," and Miss Everson sang, "The Hills of God," both in admirable voice. Miss Millicent Thompson literally captivated the hearts of the audience by her renediction of "Come Unto Me." Her voice is magnificent in quality and of broad range. During the intermission a silver collection was taken for the benefit of the church choir. Mr. Macrum was presented with a bouquet of beautiful flowers.

At the conclusion of the program the audience arose and sang the National anthem.

The two and a half year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moneypenny, of Jackson street, came near being killed today while playing in the street near its home. The child was knocked down by a delivery wagon horse, but luckily the horse did not trample on the little one. The child sustained several bruises, none of which are of a serious nature.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature and of Matters About Town.

New Books Ordered—The library board at a meeting last evening recommended the purchase of about 100 new books for children.

No Quorum—The board of health, as usual, failed to get a quorum at last night's meeting. The health officer's report showed 49 births and 18 deaths last month.

Pay Car Here—The pay car of the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad now leaves Allegheny two days earlier than formerly. The car passed through this city this morning, paying the employes their wages for the past month and will return to Allegheny next Tuesday.

Failed to Meet—Owing to the fact that several of the water works trustees were out of the city, no meeting of that board was held last evening, the regular meeting night. Clerk Gipner said today that a session would probably be held just as soon as the absent members returned to this city.

On His Vacation—Physical Director Stephens, of the local Y. M. C. A., has left the city for a two week's vacation. Mr. Stephens will spend his time visiting a number of the larger associations throughout the country, and hopes to profit by the experience. He will return about September 15, at which time the fall and winter work of his department will be taken up.

SURVEYORS CONTINUING THEIR WORK ABOUT NEGLEY.

Believed to Be Working in the Interests of Pittsburg-Cleveland Trolley Project.

Surveyors who have been working on the east side of the north fork of Beaver creek claim they are working in the interest of a street railway company, and thihs is all the information that can be gleaned from them. These surveyors have been working in the vicinity of Fredericktown for some weeks, but they are now directing their lines toward Negley.

It is said these men are members of the same surveying party who have been working in the interest of a Pittsburg company, whose intention is to build a road from Six Mile Ferry to Cleveland. Persons from this city who interviewed some of the surveyors while they were working in the vicinity of Georgetown claim it is the same party which is working toward Negley.

Although many attempts have been made to secure a statement from the heads of the party, these gentlemen refuse to talk, either of who they are representing or of their destination. It may be that the West Point & Northern Railroad company is interested in these surveys, but no statement from representatives of hat company in this city can be obtained.

NEW JERSEY CHARTER

TO BE SECURED FOR GAS CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.

Practical Demonstrations Are a Pronounced Success—Patents Granted.

Practical demonstrations at the plant of the Gas Apparatus and Construction company at Chester were completed last Monday, and the plant is now closed. Two reasons are assigned for this, one of which is that some needed repairs are to be made at the plant at once, and then because Judge Williams, the inventor of the process, has been forced to enter a Pittsburg hospital for the purpose of having another operation performed on his eyes, which will result in his sight being completely restored. The practical demonstration was to last but five weeks, and when that time ended last Monday, gas in its different stages was produced at from 40 to 100 per cent. pure. Judge Williams has been allowed a patent for his process, and the patent papers will be taken out as soon as he is discharged from the hospital.

It is the intention to organize a company under the laws of New Jersey which will hold a half interest in the patent. A trustee will be selected by the local company, which will most likely be a Trust company, and this trust company will look after the sale of rights and do other detail work for the local company. A meeting of the stockholders in this city will be held soon, when all these matters will be considered. The making of gas under the process invented by Judge Williams is pronounced a success.

Charles A. Smith, of this city, who has been spending several days in Cleveland attending the races, returned home this morning.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back For An Old One—How It Is Done In East Liverpool.

Sometimes the back aches with a dull, indescribable feeling making you weary and restless; sometimes pain shoots across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use plastering or rubbing the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. To exchange a bad back for a new and stronger one, follow the example of this East Liverpool citizen.

Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 505 Lisbon street, says: "During the civil war I enlisted and served three years in the Forty-second Ohio infantry. From the exposure during the war I attributed the severe aching and weakness in the loins and muscular rheumatism of recent years which all seemed to center in my kidneys. In the morning when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the paper I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and took them. A few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual and continued as the medicine got thoroughly into my system. I firmly believe that Doan's Kidney Pills will in every case as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Sold by W. & W. pharmacy.

J. G. Cotton writes from New Philadelphia, O., the following praise for the great tonic, LIFE PLANT:—

New Philadelphia, O., Feb. 22, 1902
Life Plant Co.,

Messrs:—Last September I was attacked with Sciatic rheumatism. It was so painful as to allow me to sleep very little, could not stand on my feet ten minutes at a time without severe pain. I was very much alarmed as I had the same trouble a number of years ago and was unable, though attended by the best medical skill, to get rid of it for two and a half years, during which time I could perform no labor. A friend told me that LIFE PLANT was a sure cure for rheumatism. I took two bottles and it cured me; I have had no return of it since. I am not only pleased, but surprised as well at the speedy cure.

Very truly,

THE OLDEST POTTERY A FAMILIAR LANDMARK IN EAST LIVERPOOL

Building, Now the Croxall Property, Erected For Hotel Purposes—A Pottery Since 1844.

What may now be called the oldest pottery building in this city is that located at the corner of Washington and Second street, and owned by the Croxall Pottery company. It is no other than the old "Mansion Pottery." Although originally built for hotel purposes it was never used as such and for years has been used for a clay shop.

It is said that in 1838 this building was erected, but not as it stands today. It has been remodeled to some extent, and when the property was bought by its present owners in 1857, from Salt & Mear, who at that time operated a small yellowware shop, having but one kiln, the pottery was just as large as any in the city. The story of the sale of this old shop is one of interest, and was told by Mr. John Croxall to the News Review today. He said:

"When the firm of Salt & Mear wanted to sell Joseph Cartwright and myself agreed to take the plant. The price I cannot recall just now, but it was somewhere between $75,000 and $9,000. Not one cent of cash changed hands. All they wanted was ware, and we agreed to their demands. We shipped them so many crocks a month until the plant was paid for, and it did not take many years to do this.

"The old plant was operated by Mr. Cartwright and myself for about eight or ten years, and during that time we built an additional kiln, much larger than the kiln the old firm used.

"The old building was built originally by John Patrick who acted in the capacity of a financier and preacher. At that time there were not more than 300 persons residing in the town, and a cross country railroad scheme was put on the market. Patrick established a bank, and then proceeded to organize a company for the purpose of building a railroad from this city to Asthabula. The name of the company is said to have been the East Liverpool and Ashtabula Railway company. Work was commenced on the road out the California Hollow, but the company soon stopped operations and nothing has been heard of the matter since.

"With visions of a railroad the need of an up-to-date hotel was shown. This was built at the corner of Washington and Second streets. The same foundation as laid then is seen by hundreds who pass this building daily. It is one of those foundations that were made to stay, and it is practically as good as the day it was finished."

The firm of Croxall & Cartwright, some years after securing control of the building, made some changes in the architecture and remodeled the roof. Before this was done, space was provided on what today would be called the third floor for sleeping purposes. Mr. Croxall termed this part of the building the chicken loft. It was nothing but one large room, with no partition for single or double rooms, and it was so arranged that, if used for hotel purposes, and the house was crowded, beds could be placed in a row in the "loft" and many beds at that. The laths placed on the building when it was first built are there today. Nothing but strong oak laths were used.

A few changes have been made about the old frame building, but the fact that it was built for hotel purposes is quite evident, when one takes a trip through it. It was in 1844 that the property was sold to Salt & Mear for pottery purposes by Mr. Patrick.

The work done in this building today is most interesting, and, except that will be viewed with interest by those not familiar with the old fashioned way of making pottery.

Mr. Croxall, the senior member of the Croxall Pottery company, is the oldest living manufacturing potter in the west, and, it might be rightly said in the United States. He is now in his 79th year, and he came to this city from England in 1844. He first obtained employment at the old Bennett pottery as a kilnman. In those days firms paid at the rate of $1.25 a day, and made quarterly settlements.

Engineer and Fireman Killed and Flagman Seriously, Perhaps Fatally, Injured.

Pittsburg, Sept. 6.—By the breaking of a coupling in a southbound train on the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston railroad near West Brownsville late Thursday night two men were killed and another fatally injured. The broken section collided with a train that was following.

W. J. Roberts, engineer, 25 years old, of 2703 Carson street, this city, died yesterday afternoon while being taken to the West Penn hospital.

Thomas Burmester, fireman, 23 years old, of Carrick, Pa., died in the West Penn hospital yesterday afternoon.

Samuel McAllister, 28 years old, flagman, of Lenox street, Uniontown, has fracture of skull and many cuts and bruises.

The entire cab of the engine was smashed in. The engineer, fireman and flagman all were buried in the wreckage. Others of the train crew rushed to their assistance and dragged them from the wreck. They were hurried to this city with all speed.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Money Unstable—Railroad Bonds Showed Good Tone.

New York, Sept. 6.—At the opening yesterday the stock market reflected little of Thursday's reactionary tendency, though the undertone was somewhat heavy in view of the unstable money market and lower prices from London. Norfolk and Western's strength was due to favorable forecasts regarding the annual report, and Pennsylvania's gain, which was not long maintained, was attributed to the collapse of the tunnel franchise opposition. The comparative inactivity of Reading common, which was heavy throughout, resulted, it was believed, from the impression that the probable contest for control had been settled. The Chesapeake and Ohio pool was checked by reason of the road's poor showing for the latter part of August, but closed with a fractional gain. Wabash issues advanced on news of a favorable judicial decision.

Irregularity followed another squeeze in call money, which worked nominally as high as 10 per cent, but actually not higher than 8½, and fell off as low as 3½.

The sub-treasury's debit balance at the clearing house of over $1,000,000 was chiefly due to heavy payments for the navy and $250,000 for account of Klondike gold. Today's bank statement will, it is believed, show a further loss of surplus reserves, but is not expected to reflect in full the $6,000,000 loss to the sub-treasury and the interior by local institutions. London was again prominent in yesterday's operations, though selling on balance.

Railroad bonds showed a good tone throughout the day, but the market was less active. Total sales, par value, $3,220,000.

U. S. old 4s, coupon, advanced ⅞ and the new 4s, registered, declined ½ per cent on the last call.

In Course of Settlement.

Constantinople, Sept. 6.—United States Minister John G. A. Leishman, who intended to start with his family on a vacation Wednesday, has postponed his departure from Constantinople until Monday because of a request of the sultan to see the minister before the latter left. All the recent claims of the United States are in course of settlement.

Review of Saratoga Racing

Most Successful Meet In History of Famous Track

"THE AMERICAN ASCOT"

THE racing season just ended at the famous "Queen of Spas," Saratoga, N. Y., was the most successful in the history of the Saratoga racing association from every point of view. The entries and attendance established new records, and horse owners from all parts of the country have carried off goodly shares of rich prizes. "The Ascot of America" is the title applied to the establishment and every person that attended the races will readily state that the com parison with the great English course is not a high flight of imagination, but is justified by facts.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY AND AUGUST BELMONT AT SARATOGA.

[Mr. Whitney is president of the Saratoga Racing association and Mr. Belmont is chairman of the Jockey club.]

The fashionable world was strikingly in evidence at Saratoga—in fact, dominating everything else—and the consensus of opinion is that not even in the days of the old Saratoga Racing association and historic Monmouth park, at Long Branch, N. J., when the two brothers Jerome, the late Pierre Lorillard, the late August Belmont, William H. Travers, David Dunham Withers and John Hunter led the racing way, has so aristocratic an atmosphere pervaded a course on this side of the Atlantic.

To the persons familiar with the Saratoga track of old the innovations in the "new Saratoga" are plainly evident. On all sides are seen the results of the carefully studied plan of improvement outlined and carried into effect by President William C. Whitney, of the association, and his immediate official associates, F. R. Hitchcock, vice president; H. K. Knapp, secretary, and Andrew Miller, treasurer. The board of directors is composed of William C. Whitney, R. T. Wilson, Jr.; T. Hitchcock, F. R. Hitchcock, Andrew Miller, H. K. Knapp, Perry Belmont, W. W. Worden, J. H. Alexandre, Philip J. Dwyer, Jack G. Follansbee, J. H. Bradford and J. G. Heckscher, the first five named comprising the executive committee.

At a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars the grand stand, clubhouse, track and paddock have been renovated and rebuilt, and at the present time there is no course in the country better calculated to charm the eye and satisfy the desire of its patrons. The groves of beautifully foliaged trees, the expansive, well kept greensward and the beds of blossoming flowers form an ensemble inspiring nature lovers, and the harmonious scheme of architecture blends gracefully into the scene.

GEORGE GOULD AND HIS TWO SONS AT THE SPA.

[Mr. Gould may race thoroughbreds. The boys, Kingdon and Jay, are famous as polo players.]

There are three tracks at Saratoga, the dirt track, the turf course, inside the former, and on the level infield is the course for steeplechasers. The turf track will not be used at all this year, for it is the intention to allow the grass to have a full year's growth in order that it may become firmly rooted. From the clubhouse is obtained a superb panoramic view of the three spreading arenas, and its verandas always present a festive scene, with its gathering of jauntily attired men and daintily gowned women. Like the enlarged grand stand now seating 6,000 people, the clubhouse is so situated as to avoid the afternoon sun, which formerly shone directly into the eyes of spectators, causing no little discomfort, and in appointment both buildings are well prepared to provide for the refreshment and convenience of the visitors. The old paddock has been torn down and a new one built, which is 220 feet long, 80 feet wide and contains twenty-five stalls.

On the opposite side of the tracks, across from the clubhouse and grand stand, are the stables of many prominent New Yorkers who race their horses at the spa. This settlement is called "millionaires' row," and under the picturesque, low slanting roofs are sheltered practically every well known equine thoroughbred in the east, and a worthy delegation from the west.

The Saratoga stables have accommodations for about 1,500 horses, almost as many as those that can be housed at Sheepshead Bay, New York, the largest racing establishment in America, and probably the most imposing of the private establishments there is that of August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey club. Mr. Belmont has spent a large fortune on his headquarters there. He has built a half mile track for the exercising of his horse, which encircles his stables, and access to the buildings is had by means of a tunnel under the course, thus permitting his horses to have uninterrupted sway during their training operations. The tunnel is lighted by electricity and connects with the main racing track. The action of Mr. Belmont in establishing a permanent stable at Saratoga on a somewhat elaborate plan is significant of the increased interest in racing affairs at the spa and of the added importance of the position the course has attained under the new regime. Other prominent factors in American racing will doubtless follow Mr. Belmont's example, and these, together with Mr. Whitney's estate there, will form a notably colony.

George Gould created somewhat of a sensation at the spa by stating his intention of buying part of the stable of Clarence H. Mackay, whose retirement from the turf, caused by the death of his father, John W. Mackay, has aroused widespread regret. Should Mr. Gould form a racing stable, he will receive a royal welcome, for he is a thoroughly representative American millionaire sportsman. The eldest son of the late Jay Gould is a striking contrast to his father, who never identified himself with sports, choosing rather to devote his entire attention to his financial interests.

JOCKEY BULLMAN.

[Bullman's work at Saratoga places him close to the top of the list of winning riders.]

The Saratoga races are a splendid preparatory course for the autumn meeting of the Coney Island (New York) Jockey club at Sheepshead Bay. Two-year-olds are particularly catered to at the spa, and a rare opportunity is afforded to form an opinion as to the identity of the probable winner of the Futurity, the stellar two-year-old event run at the opening of the meeting. The Sheepshead Bay races, which are now on, will continue until the middle of September.

ALWAYS THE LAWYER.

Stuck to Legal Phraseology Even While Seasick.

Justice Gegerich of the New York supreme court, who has a fine summer home on Staten island, is very fond of sailing, and a few days ago he invited a friend of his, a lawyer, to go down the bay with him. At the start the wind was quite brisk, but soon freshened into a gale and caused the little craft they were in to toss and roll in a manner that soon caused the lawyer's features to twist into expressive contortions.

Justice Giegerich, noticing his friend's plight, laid a soothing hand on the latter's shoulder and said:

"My dear fellow, can I do anything for you?"

"Yes, your honor," replied the lawyer in plaintive tones, "you will greatly oblige me by overruling this motion."—New York Times.

Women and Jewels.

Jewels, candy, flowers, men—that is the order of a woman's preferences. Jewels form a magnet of mighty power to the average woman. Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous effort to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insiduous consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. Baseball Comment

GENERAL BELIEF THAT BIG LEAGUES ARE TO COMBINE

A Twelve Club Circuit ✣ Details of the Scheme

THE baseball mill is grinding slowly, but surely, and recent developments are such as to warrant the belief that movements of a momentous nature are developing in the relations of the National and American leagues. The principal topic of discussion is the proposed combination of the two leagues into a twelve club circuit. While those "in the know" have been aware for some time that the rival organizations have had such an object in view, the general public was taken wholly by surprise when the information came to the surface.

The gist of the twelve club circuit plan is as follows:

Soden, Brush and Hart compose the executive committee of the National,

BIG JOHN ANDERSON OF THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS.

[Anderson is the hard hitting first base man of the St. Louis Americans who is helping the team considerably in its hard fight for the pennant.]

and, according to the story, it is the intention of the triumvirate to establish one big team in Chicago, St. Louis, Boston and Philadelphia. The consent of the majority of the American league magnates is said to have been secured for the scheme, and the names of Auten of Boston, Hedges of St. Louis and Angus of Detroit are prominently mentioned as being favorable to the scheme.

Committee Favors Plan.

The committee has adopted the scheme and agreed to report favorably on it. Hart has offered to buy or sell Comiskey. Hitches are expected in Philadelphia, Chicago and Cleveland. Philadelphia disapproves of John T. Brush and his workings; Johnson's influence in Cleveland is said to operate against the plan in that city, and Comiskey wants to stay in the game in Chicago. It is understood, however, that Hart has assured Comiskey that whichever buys or sells the baseball war will be stopped in the Windy City.

The National league magnates maintain that the matter can be easily adjusted. They say Auten, of Boston American league franchise, is National league at heart, that the St. Louis public is overwhelmingly in favor of the National league and that the St. Louis and Detroit controllers of stock will buy or sell at a good figure. Hart and Brush are said to have visited all the American league eastern cities with this object in view, and the time is ripe for consolidation.

Details of the Scheme.

A well known Chicago authority says:

"Plans have been laid for some time and nearly matured for the consolidation of these leagues into what will be known hereafter as either the National-American or the American-National league. Immediately after the close of the baseball season, or as soon thereafter as circumstances will permit, a conference of the presidents of the baseball clubs of the two leagues will be called by Mr. Brush. League officials will be barred from the session, only club magnates being admitted. The proposition to end the war between the organizations in an amicable manner will then be presented to them and a vote taken to cast the clubs together into one organization. There are twelve cities in the two circuits now, so that none of them need be dropped."

When asked about the proposed consolidation, Colonel John I. Rogers of the Philadelphia National league club said:

"You can say that it is all news to me, and I cannot believe that such a plan has even been outlined. I did not attend the meeting, so I am not in a position to say whether or not the project was discussed. I do not believe it was and think the story is one of the same kind that retired me from baseball. I have not been offered a price for my stock, nor have I been approached to sell. It is a bad time just now to dispose of baseball holdings. If our club had a chance to win the pennant, we could get a good price for our stock, but with a losing team the value depreciates. I cannot imagine where such reports originate, but they hit wide of the mark.

"I have lately been in communication with a prominent American league magnate, who suggested an amicable arrangement. I told him that such a plan could not be considered until the American league returned what they had stolen from us. First, restitution and then amicable adjustment. If we have peace, it must be with honor."

Mack Has a Laugh.

Connie Mack ridiculed the story of a consolidation. "I think you will find the Philadelphia Athletics at the same old stand next year," said he. "I guess this is another 'white elephant' story. White elephants are attractive things. At least the people like to come out to Twenty-ninth and Columbia avenue to see them, and we have never been asked to give anybody his money back.

"When I saw Ban Johnson in Chicago the other day, he was so jolly over the American league situation that he refused an invitation to come on to Atlantic City; said he was happy enough where he was. This amalgamation story is likely to make Ban laugh so hard that he will take on ten pounds more avoirdupois, and he is so fat now that his life is in danger."

"Dummy" Hoy's Retirement.

William Hoy, better known as the "Dummy," who recently decided to retire from baseball, is one of the most interesting figures that ever graced the national game. He was popular as center fielder on Comiskey's pennant winning White Sox during the seasons of 1900 and 1901 and signed with Cincinnati this year. With the various changes in the Cincinnati reds which finally culminated in the signing of Joe Kelley and the letting out of the veteran manager, "Bid" McPhee, "Dummy" got his release. Almost as soon as he was given his notice he was the recipient of many offers, but those from major league clubs were not high enough, and Hoy has ever declared that he would never again play in minor league company, but would quit the game as soon as he was unable to keep a position in fast company. Hoy began playing ball in 1886 in Oshkosh, Wis., and since that time has played in almost every team in the National league. His longest service in the National was in Cincinnati, where his career finished. He is reputed to be wealthy.

WILLIAM ("DUMMY") HOY, WHO HAS RETIRED.

"The baseball public has a very superficial knowledge of the game," said a seasoned member of the Chicago National league team, "and the estimate of patrons of the relative value of players to a club is positively painful. Why, I have frequently heard a player praised for a performance for which he should have been censured, and again I have seen cases where an infielder was roasted for not handling a grounder cleanly and making a put out when, by a grand effort, he managed to knock it down and prevented a runner from scoring from second."

CYCLING

Arthur Zimmerman has decided to return to the cycle path. He will shortly sail for France, where he has contracted to appear in a number of paced exhibitions and to ride as team mate of the great Jacquelin, whom Zimmerman induced in 1893 to give up his work in a repair shop to race on the cycle track.

Zimmerman's return to racing will be a great surprise. He is now the proprietor of a large hotel at Point Pleasant, N. J., and as mine host made a successful debut.

RUN DOWN.

When a phrase is coined out of world wide human experience it is apt to be brief and expressive. We are "run-down" we say in the endeavor to describe a relaxed physical condition, and all the terminology of medicine could not more expressively describe the actual condition than that every day phrase. It suggests the clock, perfect mechanically, but failing to record the passage of time because it is run-down.

People who have that tired out, run-down feeling will find new life in the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This great medicine is far more than a tonic. It cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food of which alone all physical strength is made.

"The reason I delayed writing was because I wanted to wait one year after I had taken the medicine before giving my statement, and now I can send a good conscientious testimonial," writes Mr. Chas. H. Sergeant, of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio. "During the summer and fall of 1896 I became all 'run-down,' nerves were out of order and stomach out of order. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thanks to you for your advice, I used six bottles; and since I stopped taking it about one year ago, I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and have been able to work every day. My appetite is good, I can eat three square meals a day, and I do not feel that miserable burning in the stomach after eating. My blood and nerves are in good shape, and, well—in fact, I think I am in pretty good running order."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels active and healthy.

Expensive Courtship.

Recently a young Frenchman of good family, but very poor, fell in love with a banker's daughter, and, obtaining a letter of introduction to her father, called on him. He found him at home, and a pleasant conversation followed.

As he talked, however, the young man fumbled with a gold coin, the only money he possessed, and when he rose to take leave he removed it from his waistcoat pocket and put it, without thinking, into his trousers pocket. As he was strolling home he looked for the coin, but, alas, it was not to be found, for there was a small hole in his trousers pocket, and as soon as he had put it in it fell noiselessly on the velvet carpet in the banker's drawing room.

As he sorely needed the money the young man, though much against his will, resolved to go back and inquire about it.

"Yes," said the banker as he entered; "I found a gold coin on the carpet as soon as you left the room, and I was not surprised, for I lost a similar coin in that very place two days ago. This, therefore, is my money, and we will now look for yours."

The banker smiled as he spoke, but the penniless young man turned his back on him and abruptly left the house.

The Gleaners.

The old custom of gleaning in the harvest fields, which recalls the Biblical story of Ruth and Naomi, is not obsolete in England, and in Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and the neighboring counties, as soon as the wheat is gathered in the late days of August, there may be seen in the newly cleared fields numbers of women and children diligently picking up one by one the scattered ears and forming them into neat little sheaves which they carry in their hands until large enough to be bound up. When the daylight fails, all the booty is bound up in cloths and carried home on the heads of the gleaners. At home they thrash it out by hand and sell the grain or use it for their chickens. The gathering of a half peck is usually a full day's work for a child, and often a woman spends a whole day in gathering very little more. Gleaning, however, is looked upon somewhat in the light of a picnic. The mother and children leave home in the morning, take with them food for the day and stay out in the fields until nightfall.

Watch Owner's Pride.

"Then you do not regard him as trustworthy?"

"I should not go so far as to say he is not trustworthy, but he is the kind of man who will set his watch at 11:30 o'clock and then call your attention to the manner in which it keeps time when the 12 o'clock whistle blows."—Washington Star.

Would Prefer It Otherwise.

Lady—Ain't you ashamed to be begging on the street?

Beggar—Well, yes. I'd sooner do it in de pulpit or at a church fair, but fate is ag'in me.—Judge.

Crown Jewel Tragedies

Precious Baubles The Cause of Many Crimes

The famous jewels of the earth, some of which ornament the crowns of European monarchs, have nearly all been the cause of crimes. The immense wealth represented by a sparkling stone seems to arouse man's cupidity and tempt him to commit the most brutal acts to gain its possession.

Among the British crown jewels there is one stone which far outshines the rest. This is the famous Kohinoor, or Mountain of Light. Its history can be traced back to the thirteenth century, but it was not until the famous Mogul emperor in the eighteenth century possessed it that exciting events began to cluster around it.

THE CAPTAIN THREW THE MAN INTO THE SEA.

When Nadir the Conqueror seized the treasury at Delhi, the great diamond was found to be missing. A woman betrayed to him the secret that Mohammed, the Mogul emperor, was wearing it hidden in his turban.

Nadir hit on a clever trick to seize the stone without further quarreling. At a grand festival he took advantage of an oriental custom to ask the emperor to exchange turbans. The unlucky Mohammed had no choice. He gave the turban and stone up quietly. After Nadir's death the gem passed to his son, Shah Rokh, who was in his turn conquered by Aga Mohammed. This scoundrel put the unfortunate Rokh to frightful tortures to make him give up the secret of where he had hidden the gem. At last he blinded him, but even then the wretched man held out. In a fury Mohammed had Rokh's head shaved and poured upon it boiling oil. The miserable man died under the torture without revealing the whereabouts of the diamond.

Another of its owners, Shah Zaman, hid the stone and was tortured by his brother to show where it was hidden. He, too, died without letting it be known. After his death it was discovered quite by accident imbedded in the plaster of the murdered man's cell and worn by the murderer, Shah Seyali. Will it be believed that his victim's fate overtook Seyali? He lost his eyes, but kept the stone.

Runjit Singh was the Kohinoor's next owner. He, too, gained it by force and fraud. When his time came to die, so convinced was this ruler that the stone brought with it nothing but ruin that he ordered it to be placed in the eye of an idol, but as he was signing the warrant he died, and after his death the great diamond fell into English hands.

Every crown jewel in Europe possesses at least one world famous diamond, and there is not one of them the record of which is not stained with crime. Even that which has had the fewest adventures, the enormous Braganza of Portugal, was found by convicts. It is a Brazilian stone and is, if genuine, by far the greatest diamond in the world. It weighs 1,680 carats, which would make its value $28,224,000.

But it is whispered it may be nothing but a white topaz.

No royal stone has been responsible for worse villainy than the Pitt, now known as the Regent diamond. It was found by a slave in India in 1701. It weighed 401 carats.

To hide it its finder wounded his leg and hid the gem in the bandage. He escaped to the coast with his prize. There he met a sea captain, to whom he confided his story. The captain inveigled the slave aboard his ship, stole the stone and threw the wretched man into the sea.

The captain then sold the stone to a diamond merchant for $5,000 and drank himself to death. The latter sold it to Mr. Pitt for $100,000. It proved the plague of his life. He was constantly haunted with the fear of being robbed. So he sold it to France, and it became one of the crown jewels of that country. It was afterward valued at $2,400,000.

During the revolution it was stolen from the Garde Meuble, but soon after an anonymous letter declared that it was hidden in a ditch in the Champs Elysees, and there, sure enough, it was found. After being pledged to the Dutch government it was again recovered and is still among the remnants of republican France's crown jewels.

Among the jewels of the Austro-Hungarian empire is a yellow diamond of enormous size and purest luster. It is known as the Florentine or Austrian yellow. It is one of the oldest diamonds known, its early history being hidden in the mists of antiquity. Once it belonged to Charles the Bold of Burgundy. He lost it at the battle of Morat in 1476. It was picked up by a peasant, who took it for a crystal and sold it for a few pence.

Its new owner, a priest, got a few shillings for it from a merchant of Berne named May. The latter knew he had a prize and sold it for 20,000 crowns to the Fugger family. Then Henry VIII. of England bought it, but his daughter Mary gave it to her husband, Philip of Spain, and through him it reached Austria.

The Great Sancy's early history, like that of the Florentine, is wrapped in mystery, but few things are more curious in the history of crown jewels than the way in which the diamond gravitated back to its original Indian house.

Once it adorned the cap of Henry III. of France. This monarch had become quite bald at the age of twenty-six and wore the cap to conceal this deficiency. From him it passed to Henry IV., who sent it to Switzerland to raise money on it. On the way the servant who carried it was waylaid and murdered, but not until he had swallowed the diamond. The Sancy then became the property of Queen Elizabeth of England, and for a century it graced British diadems until James II. sold it in 1695 to Louis XIV., and it became a French crown jewel.

Stolen at the same time as the Regent, it was next heard of in the possession of the Demidoffs in Russia and was by them sold to a Swiss named Leveat. A quarrel took place about the price and ended in a celebrated lawsuit in 1832. The Demidoffs won the suit and later sold the stone to the famous Parsee merchant, Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy. In 1867 it was again back in Paris for sale. It was an Indian rajah who bought it, and for the third time the Great Sancy is on its native soil.

Girl Caught Bullet With Her Teeth

Rosa J. Starrett, a thirteen-year-old girl of Bath, Me., is the heroine of a most remarkable feat.

Rosa actually caught with her teeth a .32 caliber bullet fired from a pistol held within two feet of her face, and that shapeless piece of metal dropped harmless from her mouth as the frightened child recovered from the shock and cried out to her mother.

Rosa is the daughter of Woodbury Starrett, a ship carpenter, and assists her mother at light housework when not at school. Mr. and Mrs. William Lounsbury, who had been boarding at the Starrett house, recently removed to another part of the city. Immediately upon the departure of Mrs. Lounsbury Rosa, accompanied by her brother Royal, eleven years of age, went to the vacant room. The boy noticed a revolver on the bureau. Rosa picked up the weapon, saw that it was loaded and replaced it, but the little brother took it up and moved to the window to examine it.

As they stood, scarcely two feet apart, the boy pulled the trigger, and the self acting revolver was discharged.

The bullet entered at the right side of the girl's mouth, cutting a furrow nearly an inch in length along the top of the lower lip, and struck the eye-tooth in the jaw. The tooth was splintered into fine pieces, while the next tooth was removed as smoothly and artistically as it could have been pulled by the highest priced dentist.

Two more teeth were knocked from the jaw, but not completely severed, and there the bullet stopped.

Surgical skill has already removed most of the powder marks from her face, and only a scar where the bullet entered her lip and the vacancy caused by the loss of the four teeth will remain as permanent reminders of an accident which could not be repeated without fatal results once in a million times.

The bullet is flattened to a ragged piece of metal, showing clearly the marks of the broken teeth. But for the remarkable fact that it struck the jaw exactly in line with the row of teeth and proceeded along that line so accurately that it struck each succeeding tooth squarely, and so did not swerve to either side, it must have made a terrible wound.

Hare and Dog Both Dead.

Last year during one of the courses run for the Waterloo cup a dog was seen to collapse suddenly and lie down. On reaching the spot the judges found that the animal was quite dead. Heart disease had killed it. More remarkable still, a few yards in front lay the hare, untouched, but also stone dead from a similar cause.

What Carlyle Wrote of Tennyson.

Tennyson in his prime was thus described by Thomas Carlyle to Ralph Waldo Emerson on Aug. 5, 1844: "One of the finest looking men in the world A great shock of rough, dusty dark hair; bright, laughing, hazel eyes; massive aquiline face—most massive, yet most delicate, of sallow brown complexion, almost Indian looking; clothes cynically loose, free and easy; smokes infinite tobacco. His voice is musically metallic, fit for loud laughter and piercing wail and all that may lie between speech and speculation free and plenteous. I do not meet in these late decades such company over a pipe."

When the Cat Was Sacred.

In the middle ages brute animals formed as prominent a part in the devotional ceremonies of the time as they had in the old religion of Egypt. The cat Elurus was embalmed after death and buried in the city of Bubastis because, according to Herodotus, Diana Bubastis, the chief diety of the place, was said to have transformed herself into a cat when the gods fled into Egypt.

Breathing of Insects.

Insects generally breathe through special pores in various parts of their bodies, and if these pores are closed by oil they are suffocated. Any one may test this by dropping sweet oil on the thorax or back of a wasp. It very soon dies. For this reason oil has been found one of the best things to use for the destruction of insects.

BARBERTON POTTERY PREPARING TO BUILD A LARGE ADDITION

It Will Be Devoted to Art Pottery and the Improvement Will Cost $75,000 to $100,000.

Barberton, Sept. 6.—Another manufacturing establishment is to duplicate its present plant. This time it is the Barberton Pottery company, whose initial work has hardly cooled from the kilns. Surprising as this may be, this is the action which was decided upon by the directors of the company at a meeting held in Akron. Work will be begun on the addition immediately and pushed to an early completion. An additional $75,000 to $100,000 will be spent in the increase of the pottery business in this plant, and as a result the 300 men who are now employed in the plant will be increased to 600.

The new addition will be devoted to the manufacture of art ware. One of the greatest experts in this line in America, Samuel Jenks, will be superintendent of the department, he now being engaged by the company.

Since this man has been secured by the company, which was at the time the large art pottery plant at Zanesville was destroyed by fire, the company has been considering the advisability of expanding into this line of work. Mr. Jenks has been experimenting, and the fruits of his labors are such that he convinced the stockholders of the money to be made in an investment in this line, and the final result came when the action announced was taken Wednesday.

The buildings will either be at the side or the rear of the present structure and will be of the most modern make. George G. Pryor, secretary and general manager of the company, when seen about the building of the structure, said: "At the meetings of the board of directors it was decided to double the capacity of the plant. This addition will be for art ware.

"This department will be under the supervision of Samuel Jenks, who is undoubtedly the best authority on colors and glaze in America. He was superintendent of the Zanesville art pottery up to the time it was destroyed by fire. The management of the Barberton pottery lost no time in securing his services.

"The structure of the plant will be of the same character as the one already built, being a thoroughly fire proof building.

"If the new plant is up to the standand of the one already in operation Barberton may well be proud of her new industry, for it has been built without regard to anything save the convenience of making and the ability to make ware both cheap and well."

The stock of the company is held by some well known men. Among the number are H. B. Camp, O. C. Barber, A. M. Barber, F. M. Atterholt, George P. Good, William A. Johnston, E. M. Buel, Ambrose Cartwright, of East Liverpool, and others equally well known.

A high and low grade of work will be turned out. The high grade will be the best on the market. This will be shown by the fact that it is the intention in the fine work to have the name of the artist on each piece.

SALARIED TEAM FOR NEXT SEASON

Prominent Business Man Proposes To Have Ud-to-Date Baseball Here.

His Plan Is to Form a Stock Company, Hire Manager And Players And Run the Business on Business Principles.

Unless the plans of a most prominent resident of the city fail East Liverpool will next year enjoy the distinction of having one of the strongest amateur base ball teams in the country.

That the fans will support one has been evident not only during the present season, but for years. Among other cities even larger than East Liverpool, where they have salaried teams there are few that give the patronage that local fans contribute. This fact has been carefully considered by the promoter of the new project and he feels confident that he will not lose out. To a News Review reporter, the man, who is prominent in business circles, but who requested that for the present his name be withheld, made the following statement:

"East Liverpool is one of the most enthusiastic sporting towns in the state. It has for years shown a disposition to support any and all things under the sporting head. I believe that the time has come when the people should have a base ball team that it can back with credit and pride. There is but one way for them to have it, and that is to have a team of salaried men, managed by a competent man and run in a manner strictly up-to-date. It is my desire to furnish such a team. I can do it if the people will display their usual amount of interest.

"My plan is simply this: To organize a stock company with a capital of $2,500. The shares will be $1 and one person will be allowed to purchase any number that he desires.. This amount of money is desired only to place the team on a strong financial basis at the outset. It will not necessarily take that amount to equip the team in every way, but it will do no harm to have the amount on hand. From the date that the first game is played money will commence pouring into the treasury. The expense of running the team will of course be great, but when the following estimates are considered it will amount to but little:

There are five months of base ball in a season. A salaried team can play 12 or 14 weeks at home. Figure at the former. Four games per week. A crowd of not less than 800 will attend each game. In the 48 games the gate receipts will amount to $9,600. The salary to be paid the members of the team will average $50 per month. For the three months on which the estimate is made, figuring on 12 men, the salaries will amount to $1,800. The manager will be paid $100 per month.

"Numerous other expenses will be attached, but they will not aggregate enough to let the cost overreach the cash receipts. There will undoubtedly be a reserve fund on hand while the team is out of the city. It may pay expenses while way, as it usually does, but if it does not, there will be a sufficient fund held back to meet all expense and still have a neat sum to be divided among the stockholders. A board of directors will be appointed and they will elect the manager, captain, treasurer, etc. These estimates are made only in an off-hand way and are based on the lowest calculations.'

No steps will be taken by the promoter of the project until the present season closes, when it is almost assured that the management of the present team will cooperate with the movement. Success is predicted for all who participate in the project. What the people want is a good team, and if they get it they will do their part.

NEW CLAY PLANTS ARE SPRINGING UP

And the Potteries of Trenton Are Constantly Adding to Their Capacity.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 6.—Trenton is to have another tile company which will cater for some of the trade now enjoyed by the Providential and Trent Tile companies. The name of the new concern is the New Jersey Tile company which filed articles of incorporation at the county clerk's office yesterday.

The company has a capital stock of $50,000, divided into 500 shares of $100 each. The names of the incorporators and the number of shares subscribed by each are: James H. Robinson, 20 shares; William H. Valliner, 20 shares and Katherine A. Robinson, 20 shares, making a paid up capital stock of $6,000. The company proposes erecting a large plant on Muirhead avenue to be devoted to the manufacture of glazed and enameled tile together with the plain embossed and decorated lines. The company will also make a line of earthenware and porcelain specialties. The erection of the present plant will begin at once. The incorporation of the New Jersey Tile company is another of the great advance in clay products during the past year.

The potteries are not only working full time but many are enlarging to meet the demand the large orders have made upon them. During the past three months permits have been taken out for additions to several of the large potteries. The big addition to the plant of the Maddock Pottery company on Third street will be ready for occupancy in about another month. The building is under roof and the kiln shed containing three new sheds is now in use.

The Monument pottery is also building a large addition for the manufacture of earthenware zines, wash basins and lavatories. The Elite Pottery company's plant in East Trenton which has only been in operation for a month has awarded the contract for erection of another packing shed.

The strength of union potters of this city could not be better estimated than by witnessing their lines in the parade Labor Day. Out of the some 4,000 men in line the potters constituted about 1,000 who represented each of the following locals: sanitary pressers, kilnmen and dippers, turners, throwers and handlers, saggermakers, packers and warehousemen, printers. In the Labor Day parade of 1901, the potters hardly had more than 600 men in line showing an increase of nearly 400 which Vice-President Hutchins has secured since January.

VARYING IDEAS ON THE CODE BILL

East Liverpool Citizens Have Many Different Opinions as to Desirable Law.

PRAISE FOR NASH BILL

Is Spoken By Some, Who Declare It Would Decrease Both Officials Expenses—Legislators Asked to Give the City the Best.

Of the 40 representative citizens who attended the code meeting at city hall last night, no two were of the same opinion with reference to a greater portion of the Nash code as it now reads. To those who were present last evening it is at once apparent that if the views of the legislators are as varied as those expressed at the meeting, no bill, Nash, federal or any other, will be passed this winter.

W. B. Hill was made chairman of the meeting, and about two hours were spent in a discussion of a number of points contained in the measure, and which, it was thought, would materially change the manner of conducting the affairs of East Liverpool.

At the suggestion of J. N. Hanley the chairman read sections of the bill dealing with the legislative portion of the proposed government. The duties of the board of public service were talked over, and all concluded that, while the mayor would be a very powerful official, the plan of placing the police and fire departments in charge of a board was a very good one.

After it had been agreed that the president of council would be the eighth member of council, and that he would have no vote except in the event of a tie or in the absence of some member of the body, it was decided that point was an unimportant one. Seven men expressed themselves as to what the meeting had been called for, and what matters the citizens were interested in. No two of them held the same views. Some one inquired as to the duties of the solicitor and police judge, and the chairman read the clauses. At the conclusion of the reading inquiry was made as to whether the city could afford to pay the salaries provided for in the law, and it was explained by Mr. Hill that there were now 36 men connected with the control of the municipality, while under the proposed law it would require but 22. He thought the new code regulations would not only be more economical, but afford a more satisfactory administration of public affairs.

Dr. Marshall made a few remarks favoring the fee system, and thought the good order of the community would be better looked after if the officials had an inducement in the shape of fees for each arrest. A number of those present could not agree with him.

Mr. Travis said the code was all right, but East Liverpool ought to have something to say with reference to the line of demarkation. He favored 15,000.

J. J. Purinton remarked that a great deal of time was being consumed in a discussion of details, and they were not getting any nearer the real object. He thought the thing to be discussed was whether East Liverpool desired to be a city or a village. If the people favored the latter, then the thing to do was to inform our legislators that we wanted the line fixed at something like 20,000. If we elect to come under the head of a city then let the lawmakers go ahead as they have begun, for we were sure to be in the city class as the bill now reads. He was in favor of the code, and thought the running expenses of the city would not be as high under the law as they are at present. Several citizens agreed with Mr. Purinton, and E. W. Hill took the floor.

Mr. Hill gave it as his opinion that the whole crowd was off the track as to the real question they were there to discuss. It was his belief that it was not a matter of certain sections of the Nash code, but which of the several code bills was best for this city. He rather favored the federal code—that regulation under which Cleveland is governed—and thought the city would receive more benefit from it than by the adoption of the Nash code.

Several men followed Mr. Hill, all stating they knew little of the provisions of Mr. Hill's measure, but that there was but one bill before that meeting—the Nash code—and that it must either be endorsed or rejected.

F. H. Croxall spoke at some length on the financial outlook in case the measure became a law, and put the question in the light that if the proposed new rule was put into effect and would exhaust all our revenue in paying salaries, the citizens of East Liverpool certainly would not favor it.

J. T. Smith raised another point; so did P. J. McKeone, and so it went on for another hour. At the end of that time Mr. Travis thought enough discussion had been indulged in and made a motion that our representatives and senator be requested to vote for the Nash code bill. Mr. Croxall seconded, but the motion was not put for some time. A majority of the citizens present were opposed to the motion as it read, since all were aware the law was not framed by Governor Nash. Many thought the word Nash ought to be stricken from the motion.

H. P. McCarron, to get around the difficulty, amended the motion in this manner: "That we ask our representatives and senator to vote and work for that form of government which, in their judgment, will be best for cities of the smaller size."

Colonel W. C. Watson had an amendment to the amendment and E. W. Hill had three or four substitutes, all written out, but they received no second, and Mr. McCarron's amendment was put, and the motion as amended went through. When it was doctored up and put in shape the sense of the meeting was summed up in something like the following:

"Be it resolved that the senator and representatives of this district are instructed to vote for the code giving the cheapest and best form of home rule government for cities of the size of East Liverpool."

BECAME HOMESICK

Steubenville Boy Who Ran Away Got Tired And Returned to His Home.

Upon being notified a few days since to be on the lookout for William H. Lisely, a boy of 16 years, who ran away from his home in Steubenville, Acting Chief Dawson instituted a search for the missing lad with success. He was informed that the boy might be working around a machine shop and taking the information as a clew the chief kept a close watch among the machinists of the city.

This morning he learned that Lisely had been working at Cain Bros.' shop and that he had left last evening for his home at Steubenville. The boy became repentant and homesick.

HOUSE DISREGARDS GOVERNOR'S WISHES AS TO LEGISLATION

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, Sept. 6.—The house persists in its refusal to abide by the recommendations of Governor Nash. Yesterday the members of that body introduced 10 bills and several resolutions. Speaker McKinnon introduced a resolution to amend the constitution so as to provide for the classification of cities into three classes. If the resolution is adopted the people will vote on it at the fall election in 1903. Representative McDonald, of Montgomery, introduced a resolution providing for the holding of a constitutional convention. The resolution says: "That it is necessary to call a convention to revise, amend or change the constitution of Ohio, and we recommend to the voters of this state to vote at the next election for members of the general assembly, to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1903, for or against such a convention." It was referred to the judiciary committee. It will require a two-thirds vote for adoption.

Representative Meisel, of Cuyahoga, offered a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide that each city over 3,500 may adopt its own charter, subject to the restrictions imposed by the constitutional and general laws regarding assessment and taxation. Guerin, of Erie, introduced two buls, one being his federal code measure and the other a bill to repeal the Longworth board of revision law and giving mayor the power to appoint boards of equalization consisting of four members and the county auditor. Representatives Bracken, of Franklin, introduced a primary election bill. It provides a new plan for the holding of primary elections, placing them under the control of city boards of election and requiring nominees to be placed on the primary ticket by petition. It is designed to eliminate alleged iniquitous features from the present laws.

The other bill offered was only of ordinary importance. The senate convened at the proper time, but adjourned without transacting any business. The body will meet again Monday afternoon. The house adjourned until next Wednesday, but the special committee which has the code bills in tow will hold meetings every day excepting Saturday and Monday. The committee went into session immediately after the house adjourned and heard arguments from city solicitors on the code. There are about 20 bills in the house hopper, but it is in nowise certain that those not referred to in the governor's message will be considered. The administration supporters have started a movement to have all measures not dealing with the subjects alluded to in the governor's message squelched in committee. Failure to report them back will accomplish this result.

The senate is adhering close to the lines mapped out by the governor in the matter of confining itself to the matters he desires acted upon. The house committee will cut off argu-

NEGOTIATIONS ON FOR BIG FARM

L. I. Aarons Said to Be After the McDonald Land Opposite Walker's.

A PRICE OF $400 AN ACRE

Set By the Owner But No Deal Concluded—Object of the Proposed Purchase Is Not Disclosed And Is Problematical.

It was learned this afternoon from a source that cannot be questioned that quite recently L. I. Aarons, president of the Homer Laughlin China company, made overtures to purchase the McDonald farm, opposite Walker, and near the town of Newell. Just what was to be done with this large farm by Mr. Aarons could not be learned, as that gentleman was not in the city today, and there was no one who could speak for him.

Allen McDonald, when asked today if the report was true that Mr. Aarons was after his mother's farm, said that it was, but that nothing definite had been done in the matter. Mr. McDonald also stated that a price of about $400 an acre was put on the farm and whether a sale would take place could not be told at this time.

MAN SHOT AT SALEM STILL ALIVE, BUT SUFFERING MUCH.

His Assailant, Ryan, Goes to Lisbon Jail to Await Court Action.

Salem, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Before Mayor Baker this morning, John Ryan, charged with shooting Edward Mackey with intent to kill, was given a preliminary hearing. The mayor held Ryan under $5,000 bond for the grand jury. The prisoner could not furnish the bail, and will be taken to Lisbon jail this afternoon.

Word from Leetsburg states that Mackey is still living, but is in a critical condition. He passed a restless night.

EAST END

EAST END PEOPLE PROPOSE MAKING DEMAND FOR THEM.

A Prominent Citizen Points Out Existing Dangers and the Need of Action.

The matter of constructing a sewer throughout the East End district will be brought before the attention of the council and sewer commissioners before long. Owing to the fact that the population of the East End is growing so rapidly, the suburb is not in a condition that it should be. Private sewers, constructed to the river bank on Ohio avenue cause quite a large amount of filth to flow into the river, a short distance above the water works pump station, and this is not at all good for the general health of the city. A prominent business man of the East End when asked about this matter this morning said:

"Is is very strange for a city the size of East Liverpool, which boasts of having a council that is always doing something for the benefit of the town, to let the East End go and never mention the sewer question. There is but one thing to do, and that is to go before council in a body and demand that some action be taken in this matter at once. The idea of having a storm water sewer and a house sewer combined is not practicable in the East End. This was tried in the city and was found useless.

"The mouth of the East End sewer when built will have to be built above the head of Babb's island, as it would never do to have a sewer opening along the river on Ohio avenue. In the summer the river is so low that there is no current between the island and the Ohio shore, and refuse would lie in the bed of the river, and a terrible odor would arise.

"Take in Helena, for instance, where new residences are being erected very fast, there is no sewer. Filth is allowed to be dumped almost anywhere, and what is the result? Sickness is caused, deaths result, and why? Because the city officials are not giving the East End the attention they should."

Pleasant Party.

A pleasant party was given last evening at the residence of Miss Hulda Bergner, on Ambrose avenue. Quite a number of young people were present, and one of the enjoyments of the evening was dancing. Refreshments were served.

No Word from Absentees.

Although they left the city Tuesday afternoon, no word has been received from Roy Terrence or Harry Manley, of the East End. Friends of these young men believe they have gone to Akron, where each has relatives, and it is believed they have secured employment in the potteries either at Akron or at Barberton. The boys have not written to other friends in the East End, although young Terrence told his mother some time ago that he proposed to take a pleasure trip this fall.

Arranging for Rally Day.

A meeting of the session of the Second U. P. church will be held in the lecture room of the church next Tuesday evening, when it is expected that some important business matters will be considered. Arrangements are being made by the officials of the Sunday school of this church for the Rally day, which will be observed on Sunday, September 28. The service will be held in the auditorium on that morning, taking the place of the regular church service.

Moved From East Palestine.

The household goods of Abner Angle, of East Palestine, were received in the East End yesterday afternoon. The family will occupy the residence on Railroad street formerly occupied by Elmer A. Stevenson, who recently removed his family to Mechanicstown. Mr. Angle was formerly employed as a fireman at the East Palestine pottery, but is now holding a similar position at Laughlin No. 2.

Revival Meetings May Close.

It is expected that the Free Methodist revival meetings at the Neville Institute will close this evening, though no official announcement has been made. A large number of conversions have been reported, and the season is said to have been a sucessful one. It will not be long until other churches in the East End will begin to prepare for revival meetings.

Membership is 368.

In the story published in this paper last evening of the growth of the Erie street M. E. church during the past three years, a typographical error occured in the present membership of the church. The membership of the church three years ago was 223, and at the present it is 368, instead of 268, which appeared last evening.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

The warning bell at the Mulberry street crossing of the C. & P. needs repairing. It has been sounding since late last night, with no intermission.

Mrs. Robert Finley, of Sebring, is spending a few days in the East End visiting friends.

A number of new sewer pipe drays were received at the East End sewer pipe works this morning.

Miss Mary Davis, of the East End, who has been visiting friends in the southern part of the state for several weeks, has returned home.

A base ball game was to be played at Columbian park this afternoon at 3 o'clock between the East End Grays and the West End teams.

Care of the Stomach.

At no time of year is it so necessary to be careful of the digestive organs as in summer. Vitality is always at a low ebb during a spell of severe heat, and the stomach needs a tonic. BLOOD WINE is highly recommended, because it aids digestion and gives a normal tone and strength to the whole system. For sale by Will Reed, Hodson's Drugstore.

IMPROVED THE GROUNDS

Teacher And Pupils Busied Themselves While Waiting for Books.

Principal William Dorff, of the Pleasant Heights school, has been occupying his time and that of his pupils while they waited the arrival of the books necessary for use during the coming term, in beautifying the grounds surrounding the school building.

The supply of books is said to be on hand, but they have not yet been furnished to this school. There have been a few recitations, but little if any real progress has been made by the pupils in the week ending with yesterday.

The delay in supplying the books, however, has not affected the work of the term to any great degree, as both teacher and pupils have been busy in other lines.

Mr. Dorff and a number of his older scholars cut grass about the building, and in other ways so improved the appearance of the place that the natives can scarcely realize that it once very much resembled a barn 40 miles from nowhere. With several sickles and a rake the grounds surrounding the building were yesterday placed in a conditon most pleasing to the eye.

In addition to this the teacher and pupils have laid out a base ball diamond, and it is probable a number of first-class candidates for positions in the big league will be developed before bad weather sets in.

Coal And Wages Advanced.

Salem, Sept. 6. —(Special)— The strike of the miners employed in the coal banks north of the city, which has been on for a week past pending the signing of the scale by the operators, is reported settled, and the men have returned to work. The miners get an increase. Dealers have advanced the price of coal from 9 cents to 10 cents a bushel.

Chas. F. Craig, corner Market and Fifth streets has a selected line of rubber water bottles, syringes, atomizers, gloves, etc., which he is selling at a very low price, considering the quality of the rubber.

ST. VINCENT'S DANGER

Should Soufriere Explode the Whole Island Would Be Destroyed.

PELEE'S CRATER IS ENORMOUS.

Entire Country Buried Under Great Depth of Ashes and Impossible to Recover Bodies of Thousands of Dead—Martinique Doomed.

Castries, Island of St. Lucia, Sept. 6. —The captain of the steamer Savan, now here, in confirming early dispatches concerning the terrific explosion of the volcanic Soufriere on the island of St. Vincent on September 3, says his vessel ran into a dense cloud of dust when 20 miles off St. Vincent. The darkness was impenetrable, and he changed his course due west in order to avoid the ashes that fell thick and fast.

The steamer Vare reports that at the recent outbreak of Soufriere there were several more valuable plantations on the island completely destroyed in addition to the towns referred to in earlier dispatches, and it is said that the anxiety and utter dejection of the surviving population is general.

Mouth of Crater Enormous.

The continual eruption of Mont Pelee causes the mouth of its crater to grow in size, and it is now of enormous proportions. One of the adjoining mountain peaks to Pelee has fallen bodily into this awful crater. Clouds are driven away from the vicinity of Pelee, and there is nothing but a great column of flame extending far into the sky. At night it has the appearance of a molten stream standing fixed between the earth and the heavens. The entire country is buried under a great depth of ashes, and it will be impossible to recover the bodies of the thousands of dead.

Doomed to Destruction.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Louis H. Ayme, United States consult at Guadeloupe, who is here on sick leave, says that if Pelee blows its head off it would produce a tidal wave that would be appalling. He believes it would destroy cities and villages along the coast of the chain of islands with a population of 750,000, and which would be practically helpless to save themselves. The island of Martinique he believes to be doomed to total destruction, and Guadeloupe is in a worse predicament.

Coroner—J. L. STRAUGHN

TWELVE PAGES.

When the Ohio river is improved and opened to navigation all the year—as it must inevitably be sooner or later, and the earlier the better—it will be the people's highway of commerce. No railroad or other corporation can control or monopolize its privileges. The railroads can be and are compelled to leave open and unobstructed the approaches to the stream where such highways are needed. Encroachments upon its banks are forbidden by federal laws, the river being a part of the national domain. The railroads can and do fight competition in transportation and traffic, but they cannot and dare not fight the government.

The outlook for cheap food in the immediate future is very promising. The general aggregate of the cereal crops, if the weather remains favorable for two or three weeks more, will be greater than was ever known before. This will reduce prices, and at the same time give the producers a large income. Cheap and abundant food means prosperity and happiness for the masses of the people. At present food prices are at a higher level on the general average, than for many years past. A downward turn would be very agreeable to millions of working people.

Americans are a reading people and the habit of reading appears to be growing. There are reported by the census 18,226 newspapers and periodicals of all kinds in the United States, an increase of 22.3 per cent. from the census of 1890. Of these 2,226 are dailies; 12,979 weeklies, and 1,817 monthlies. The increase in the circulation of all classes of newspapers has more than kept pace with the growth of the city population of the country, being 22.3 per cent. for all publications and 20.7 for population.

Wellsville council and citizens are awake to the importance of river improvement. So is everybody who wants to see the Ohio valley interests advanced. East Liverpool should take the matter up and make her position plain. The "On to Cairo" platform is a good one to stand on.

The Klondike gold fields show a decreased production this year, despite the fact that scientific methods have largely taken the place of primitive processes. Those who want to make fortunes cheaply and easily will do well to keep away from the Klondike.

Honesty and ability are more essential than any form of municipal code. Still, while a code is being shaped, the work should be well done, with careful regard to both present and future needs.

President Roosevelt will be in Ohio today and tomorrow. He will see prosperity and content in abundance, though it may surprise him if he has read Jom Johnson's platform.

Surprise is expressed at a September snowstorm in Altoona. But that is nothing. Some of the Pennsylvania politicians have been encountering frosts all summer long.

The Ohio Democratic platform prates loudly of the reform. When did Ohio ever witness any reform under a Democratic administration?

Mr. Watterson's suggestion that the Democratic party retire all its old leaders is superfluous. The people have already retired them.

It takes more than a fortune of $5,000,000 to make a statesman, though Tom Johnson thinks otherwise.

Senator Billy Mason apperas to be the only Illinois man at all excited over his campaign for re-election.

At the West Virginia State Fair, Next Week, Will Be a Great One.

We are going to discuss the speed program of the twenty-second annual West Virginia State Fair and Exposition, at Wheeling, in this little article.

The opening day for the races is Tuesday, September 9, and they continue for four days. There are sixteen events and the aggregate amount of the purses is $5,950. Throughout the programme is a great one, it having been arranged with the greatest care.

Tuesday is announced a 2:13 pace, for $500; a 2:20 trot, for $400; a 2:30 trot, for $400; and a five-eights mile dash for $100.

Wednesday there is a free-for-all pace, for $500; a 2:23 trot, for $400; a 2:19 pace, for $400, and a three-quarter mile dash for $150.

Thursday is the great racing day. The afternoon starts off with a 2:16 pace, for $500; a 2:17 trot, for $500; the great 2:30 pace for the Board of Trade stakes of $1,000, and a mile run for $150.

Friday will also be a good day, with its 2:26 trot, for $400; a 2:23 pace, for $400; a 2:14 trot, for $500, and a seven-eights mile run for $100.

The entries for these contests have closed and no finer horses were ever gotten together.

Excursion rates on all railroads, a fine Fair and lots of amusement. Go to Wheeling Monday. It will pay you in several ways.

AT THE THEATER

One of the most important announcements of the season is to the effect that "David Harum," with its New York production and an extremely strong cast, will be presented at the Grand tonight. This simple announcement will awaken anticipations of pleasure in the minds of many, for nearly everyone has read Westcott's book and found much enjoyment in it. That they will want to see David, Aunt Polly, Deacon Perkins and the other characters who move through the story on the stage seems but natural. The New York run of the play was a record breaker in the matter of receipts, and it claimed attention there for 16 weeks.

There are some theatrical attractions that are not affected in the least degree by the shifting public taste; one of these being Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the great standard American drama, that has retained its hold upon the public for over a decade. Its first production took place in the Troy museum quite a number of years ago; after which, it was produced at the old National Theater, Chatham street, New York, in January, 1853, where it enjoyed a three years' run to enormous business. It will be presented at the Grand Monday night.

CHURCH RE-OPENING

Pastor Jordan Has Returned and Will Take Up Active Work at Once.

Rev. C. G. Jordan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, returned last evening from his seven weeks vacation which he spent near the lakes. Very much refreshed both mentally and physically, the reverend gentleman has taken up his work with a new vigor and zeal and hopes to make the ensuing year one of the most successful in the history of the church. He will occupy the pulpit tomorrow, both morning and evening.

All regular services will be held tomorrow and next week, the church improvements being practically finished and every thing in readiness for an interrupted work during the year.

Since the suspension of services the improvements added to the already elegant church have made it most beautiful. The interior and exterior have each been repaired and improved in a manner truly commendable. On the outside several hundred dollars have been spent, giving the church the appearance of newness and splendor.

Much more time and money was spent on the inside. New carpets have been laid; the walls have been prettily decorated and many other improvements in the way of re-arrangement of the sections are noticeable.

SKULL CRUSHED IN.

Standard Oil Driver Held Up by Highwaymen.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 6.—Chauncey Potter, of Gaysport, this county, was found Thursday night along the road near Loysburg, Bedford county, unconscious and with his skull crushed in. Potter was the driver of one of the Standard Oil company's tank wagons and made frequent trips through the country retailing the oil. He left home Thursday morning and toured a section of Bedford county. He was evidently on his way home. It is believed that he was held up by highwaymen for the proceeds of the day's sales, that he refused and was struck on the head with some blunt instrument, which crushed in his skull. Potter is being cared for at Loysburg.

Word from there last night was to the effect that he could not recover.

WELLSVILLE

TAMPERED WITH THE CONTRACT

Contractor Freshwater Granted an Extension of Six Weeks in Order to Complete Certain Street Improvements—A Heated Session.

The meeting of the city council last night was the hottest that has been held in many months. It began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted till after 11 o'clock, and during that time a large amount of important business was disposed of. The meeting was enlivened by hot debates and interesting tilts.

The council placed itself on record as favorable to the movement to improve the Ohio river and render it navigable the year round. It decided to call a big mass meeting and invite every citizens of Wellsville to attend. This gathering will be held in about two weeks. It is the intention to hold the meeting immediately after the repairs on the city hall are completed. The council will do even more. It has decided also to send delegates to Parkersburg, W. Va., to attend the meeting of the Ohio River Improvement committee. The council seems to be unanimously in favor of the building of a dam below the C. & P. railroad station instead of above it as is now intended.

Contractor Freshwater was given an extension of six weeks in which to complete the pavements on Maple alley and Liverpool street. The work should have been completed a month ago. The contractor was delayed through action taken by the council and others. He will pave Liverpool street first. It is a question whether the railway tracks will be put in the middle of that street or on the side. A resolution to place them in the center was voted down last night. Councilman Henderson proposed the change, claiming it was a clever move on the part of other councilmen to delay the improvement. He threatened to make things interesting if something was not done towards finishing the work before cold weather sets in.

Council also authorized the hiring of a number of teams and additional men to assist the street superintendent in his crusade for cleaner streets. The unpaved alleys and streets of Wellsville have been in a deplorable condition for two years. Not until a few days ago did either the council or the board of health make any move to better conditions. Then the board passed a resolution, which council acted on last night.

Resolutions were also passed requiring residents along streets that are being improved to construct suitable stone walks according to specifications made by the city engineer. On several streets there will be some trouble over this, it is believed.

Former City Solicitor Frank L. Wells appeared before the council as attorney representing the Porter Brick company, which has been furnishing some brick for use in Wellsville. City Engineer Leith and Street Inspector Dalton tested the brick. They reported that it was not as good as the brick made by the Vulcan Clay company, of this city. Council then ordered that nothing but Wellsville brick be used on pavements. Mr. Wells asked that a public test of the brick be made. He claimed that the Porter company has manufactured brick for 20 years, and had never before had any condemned. By taking these condemnation proceedings he said the business of the company had been injured. Council appointed a committee of five members to make the public test. It was intimated that there might the some prejudice regarding brick made outside of Wellsville.

For about the hundredth time the old James street retaining wall came up. Council refused to pay for the wall and a committee of three was appointed to investigate. Contractor Rinehart declared that the contract called for a wall. It was found that the contract in the possession of the city had been altered by unknown parties to exclude any reference to the wall. Rinehart thought he should be paid for the work on the wall. No objection was maded to the bill for paving alone.

A lot of other matters also engaged the attention of council. Included in the big bateth of petitions were a number for improvements to streets.

An Organization Effected and Officers Chosen—Thirty-five Members.

The union boiler makers of this city have recently perfected the organization of a new lodge to be known as Silver lodge, No. 310, B. M. & I. & S. B., of America. Thirty-five members have been enrolled. The regular meeting night will be every Wednesday evening in Aten's hall.

The following officers have been selected: President, Geo. Schaidnagle; vice-president, John McGill; secretary, and treasurer, George Kountz.

Nearly all of the members are employed at the Carroll-Porter Boiler works in the West End.

The Church Steeple Going.

The steeple of the United Presbyterian church now presents a very skeleton like appearance since W. C. Breedlaw (colored) and his assistant have torn down all of the slate and under tar paper. Only the wooden frame work and the extreme top piece remain above the belfry and these will probably be taken down by the middle of next week. A modern church spire is to be erected later. The same top piece and bell will be placed upon it. The entire edifice will soon be remodeled.

Awarded a Contract.

C. C. Ewing has been awarded the contract for furnishing the city with his new patent flush tank feeder which was invented by him and has proven to be a very successful invention. He is to receive $490 for furnishing about 40 flush tanks to the city. The feeders are said to pay for themselves inside of thirty days in the saving of water.

Favorable Action Taken.

Council last evening took favorable action on the petition of Burgess & Co., stilt manufacturers, who have purchased the old soap factory for improving the county road known as Hill street. It is said the company proposes to erect a large addition to the main plant on the Hill street side in due time.

An excursion train of 14 coaches came in at 9 o'clock. The regular trains carry seven times the usual number of coaches. These are packed until there is not standing room even on the platforms. Some of prominent citizens of New Cumberland present are: Clerk of the Court Armour Cooper, Sheriff C. F. Allison, Senator J. R. Donehoo, Ex-Senator O. S. TWENTY BARRELS

Estimated Production of a New Well on Whitehall Farm Near Fairview.

The oil well drilled by the New Cumberland Oil company on the Whitehall farm near Fairview, came in yesterday. The well is estimated as a 20 barrel producer. Another rig is going up on the Lawrence Glass farm, also near Fairview.

Good For Ten Barrels.

The well on the Rose Kinney farm, which was shot about a week ago, was brought in yesterday, and for several minutes oil was thrown quite a distance in the air before the connections could be made with the tank. The well is owned by the Line Island Oil and Gas company, and is making about ten barrels a day. The same company is drilling a well on the W. H. Kinney farm, and is down about 200 feet. Operations have been suspended until additional casing can be procured, as water was struck and filled the casing then in the hole.

Will Rent Room, if Needed.

There will be no meeting of the Grant district school board to consider the erection of a new building, although such a meeting has been reported scheduled for tonight. The president of the board, Mr. Allison, states that no new buildings will be erected this year. Nothing will be done in the way of securing additional room until after school begins Monday. If it is then found that the present buildings are not large enough to accommodate the pupils a room will be rented somewhere, or else the basement of the present central building will be equipped as for a recitation room.

BENEFIT CONCERT

By Anthracite Glee Club Arouses Much Interest Among Union Men.

All arrangements have been completed for the reception of the 10 members of the Anthracite Glee club, which comes to Rock Springs next Tuesday and Wednesday.

A number of the local unions holding meetings since the dates were secured have taken action upon the matter and several will attend the concerts in a body. Manager Maxwell, of the park, has arranged for the singers to perform in conjunction with the orchestra, and their numbers will alternate with the selections from the orchestra.

The pottery workers and other working people are enthusiastic in their support of the striking miners, and an effort will be made to outdo the Pittsburg unionists in the matter of financial support. Wellsville working men are preparing for a visit to the park during the stay of the singers, and arrangements are now being made to select a time when all can come at one time. The glee club will undoubtedly receive a hearty welcome and a patronage which will net them a substantial sum.

TRANSFER OF RIGHTS

For Railway to Be Built By B. & O. Is Still Going On.

Colonel Harry Freese, of Canton, who is prominently connected with the plan for building a Baltimore & Ohio railroad spur from Warwick, near Canton, to Smith's Ferry, over rights of way secured some years ago by the Canton & East Liverpool Railway company, arrived in the city this morning, but when seen by a representative of the News Review he had no statement to make.

Col. Freese is now, as he has been in the past, engaged in closing up the transfer of the rights of way of the old company to the Baltimore & Ohio company. This is tedious work in many respects, and as the gentleman does not devote all his time to this work, progress is necessarily slow.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

STRENUOUS DAYS.

"The kilnmen of today do not work one half as hard as they did when I was working at the trade," said an old pottery workman today, whose hairs are now white, and whose age is past the three score and ten mark. "When I was working in the kiln," said the old gentleman, "we went to work at 7 o'clock in the morning, and worked until 6 o'clock in the evening. Not a pottery in the town in those days had more than two kilns, and in those potteries where there was but one kiln, it seemed more like standing before the rolls in a rolling mill than working in a pottery. On more than one occasion, when I would accidently bump against the door or inside of the kiln, I would blister my arm, so hot was the kiln. Even when we drew the kiln one man could draw but four to ten saggers, and then he would come out and the next man would take his place. The hardest saggers to take from the kiln was the first one the kilnman went after, because he was cool, and he then worked his way toward the door. They do not draw today as in the old times. In the winter time we only worked until dark, but we started at 7 o'clock in the morning just the same. We made from $1 to $1.25 a day then, and the manufacturers paid their men every three months; that is, a settlement in full was made at that time. The Croxall pottery on Second street, was the first to commence to pay its men every two weeks. That was during the war. Two regiments were recruited in this town early in the civil war, and good workmen were scarce. Workers were at a premium. One of the manufacturers who had lost a large number of his workmen by them enlisting said: 'We will take every workman from the Croxal pottery.' When that firm got wind of the intent a consultation between the partners was held, and it was decided to adopt a new system of paying their men. The employes were called into the office one afternoon, and told that if they would remain with the firm they would receive their wages every two weeks, something that was unheard of in the town before. That was enough. All the men remained with the firm, and it was but a short time until all the manufacturers in the city were compelled to follow the policy adopted by the Croxall company."

THAT ROOFING PLANT.

Information is given out that a plant for the manufacture of roofing tile is to be established at Irondale, and it is stated that certain members of the East Ohio Sewer Pipe company, of that town, are interested. Some months ago the machinery was removed from the tin mill anr it is understood the old buildings will be utilized for the tile factory. As the structures cover considerable area, they would afford ample space for the purpose. For the section of country in which Irondale is located, including Jefferson county, which is considered somewhat of a center for clay-working establishments, the business of manufacturing roofing tile would be rather a new departure, but at the same time there is no apparent reason why the venture should not prove a success, in view of the fact that the Irondale fire clay is of a very plastic character and would doubtless mold satisfactorily in almost any kind of a die. There is also an abundance of this material adjacent to the tin mill property. It is also a matter of fact that roofing tile may be manufactured successfully from this material, and that with a fair margin of profit if the business is properly conducted, as it no doubt would be in this instance, since some of the parties said to be interested in the new enterprise are known to be thorough-going business men.

PRESIDENT HERBERT RESIGNS.

A surprise was occasioned at a meeting of Kilnmen's local, No. 9, last evening at Brotherhood hall when President Richard Herbert tendered his resignation of that office. He was asked to serve out his term, but to this he would not agree. No reason was given for the action of Mr. Herbert, and the local was never more surprised than when the secretary read the resignation. Thomas Neal, a kilnman at the C. C. Thompson pottery, was appointed to fill the unexpired term. Several applications for membership were presented at this meeting and several investigating committees were appointed, which will make reports at the next meeting.

NEW BARBERTON LOCAL.

It is expected that President A. S. Hughes, of the Brotherhood, will soon go to Barberton for the purpose of organizing a new local among the workmen of that shop. When asked today if he had set any date for going there Mr. Hughes said that he had not, but that a local would be organized there soon. When this is done there will not be a town in this part of the country, it is said, where a pottery is located, in which a local of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters cannot be found. This certainly show how the membership of the Brotherhood is increasing.

MACHINERY ARRIVING.

The first of the machinery for the new plant being built by the East Liverpool Brick Manufacturing company arrived at the plant yesterday. There was but one carload, and it will be several days before it can be unloaded from the car and placed in the building. A portion of the engine, boiler and grinding room is about completed, and this is where the first machinery will be placed.

SIX MONTHS OLD.

Although a more detailed account of the improvement that is contemplated to be made at the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery by the East Liverpool Potteries company was published in this column six months ago, from plans prepared by Architect Adolph Fritz, a local paper last evening told the same story, under a four-line head. Truly the News Review files are read with interest.

DID NOT APPEAR.

Although they were expected in the city last Monday, President A. M. Moreland, of the Union Potteries company, of Pittsburg, in company with Vice President Frank W. Fowler, of the same company, they have not appeared at the office of the local plant as yet. They are now expected any day, and upon the most important business, that of making improvements to the Union.

READY TO OPERATE.

The East Ohio Sewer Pipe company, of Irondale, has placed in operation one dry pan and the stiff-mud brick machine and bricks are being turned out for use in constructing additional kilns. It is the purpose to make several kilns of these before sewer pipe making is started. The latter department of the factory, however, is virtually ready to operate.

INNOVATION.

A section of roadway is to be paved near Steubenville with vitrified fire-clay brick, the latter to be furnished by the Toronto Fire Clay company. The total amount of their bid was $12,000, which is $3,000 lower than the figures of a competitive bidder, who was also a local man.

MAKING THIN WARE.

It is reported that the capital stock of the New Castle Pottery company, at New Castle will be increased. It is now said that at least two new kilns will be erected instead of one. The company is as busy as can be and has never as yet had a chance to get into the manufacture of the thin ware. It is for this purpose that one of the new kilns will be erected.

DID NOT MATERIALIZE.

Although Packers local, No. 25, held an interesting session last evening, some matters that were expected to be brought before the meeting were deferred for one week. An oversight of some detail work was the cause of this, and much business that was to be transacted last evening will be looked after at the meeting next Friday evening.

KILNDRAWERS' MEETING.

The kilndrawers will meet this evening in Brotherhood hall. It is understood that a number of new members will be obligated at this session.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

The Huntington pottery, the last one on Long Island, is now being dismantled and the buildings torn down. The pottery is said to have been in operation 100 years or over.

The American Land & Devolopment company is opening some clay mines in North Carolina that it is said present clay that for whiteness and quality in burning hard is hard to equal.

The operative potters of Sebring, who took part in the Labor Day parade at Alliance and won the prize of $10, have donated the money to the benefit of the anthracite miners in Pennsylvania.

A few days ago two children built a fire in a barn across the alley from the plant of the Boone Pottery company, Boonsboro, Ia., and thirty minutes later the pottery was destroyed. J. G. Holmes, proprietor, will re-build the plant at once, putting up brick buildings.

The idea most prevalent is that the Nash code will be the one adopted, although in a much changed state. Senator Connell was the only member of the Columbiana county delegation present on Friday. Representatives Buell and Crist knew little or nothing would be done and probably stayed away on that account.

Cleveland was selected for the next tournament. There were eight players and each took part in seven games.

The Leetonia Tool company has filed a certificate with the secretary of state changing its location from Leetonia to Salem and its name to that of the Salem Tool company. CAR BURNED UP

In the Conway Yards—It Was Filled With Freight for This City.

A freight car, containing nothing but freight for merchants of this city, was totally destroyed by nre in the Conway yards yesterday afternoon. A message to this effect was received in this city yesterday afternoon by Station Agent George A. Wassman, but the list of shipments and the consignors was not known in this city.

The loss, however, will not fall to the local merchants, for claims will be presented to the railroad company either by them or by those who made the shipments. The car destroyed was known to railroad men as a transfer car.

BRIDGEVILLES WERE NOT IN IT

East Liverpool Made the Pennsylvania Aggregation Look Very Small.

EXPERIENCE VS. YOUTH

A Good Pitcher With Good Backing Enables the Home Team to Have Everything Its Own Way—Game Abounded in Good Plays.

"They are all right." "Who's all right?" "East Liverpool." "You've said it."

They were certainly playing some. Bridgeville looked like spurious coin when the game was finished. They were not at any time in the wagon. At the end of the first half things had the appearance of an interesting contest, but when the locals got through with their half a far different aspect was presented. From that time on only one team played the true article of the game.

Manager Walsh simply had a good twirler with good backing. He got together one of the festest lineups seen this season. The outfield was there; also the infield. And Gehring's pitching was superb. Three hits only were made off the new man. He sent them over in a style never before seen by the Allegheny county boys. Like a pack of children they beat the wind. What they will do today when they go up against Maley is hard to say.

It was simply a gang of youths against an aggregation of men well acquainted with the game. And there are few that don't like to witness expert playing even if one side is there only as coachers. The locals got the bulk of the errors. But they made up for that in numerous creditable stunts.

Webb alone made a play that was worth the price of admission. It was in the seventh. Kenny had reached first and was speeding toward second when Webb performed the feat that will make him dear to the hearts of at least 400 people. Down through the diamond, with fire flying in every direction, was the ball going that was met by Mayer. Webb was playing close to first base and all thought that he certainly would never connect with the whizzing sphere. But Bibb, ever confident, with lightning rapidity, glided over the smoothness, reached down with his ungloved paw, grabbed the ball, jumped on second, whirled around, and with an unerring aim planted the ball in Grandpa Heckathorn's hands. A double play. And it was made so quickly that half of the fans could not realize exactly what had occurred. Maag went wild over the play and clasped the hero in his arms in a truly romantic manner. This was the first and only real inning.

Peacock landed at first on an error by Webb. Lynch went out. McLaren hit for two bases, scoring Peacock. Maley dropped Callahan's high fly, and McLaren scored. Mayer went out to Chick in middle. Callahan scored on the throw in. C. Kenny was hit. He went out, being forced by F. Mayer. Maag managed to get hit again. Godwin, after making a successful bunt and a pretty slide, was called out.

The crowd almost went up over Dennis' decision. They remembered his failing, however, and let the matter stand with only a few pointed remarks. Reark placed one near the fumbler at third. Nist dropped a pretty hit over second and scored two runs. Heckathorn drove one between first and second. Nist scored. Emmerling walked. Heckathorn scored. Maley went down a fielder's choice. And Emmerling scored on the choice. Webb was hit. Gehring also walked. Maag did not forget to get hit once more and thereby scored Maley. Godwin retired the side on an easy one to third. The rest of the game was all East Liverpool.

Godwin put the usual amount of ginger in the game by his appearance on the field. He had no chances to make any sensational plays. But he did some good work allee samee.

Maag almost made a record. Two runs, three hits, two putouts, five assists and only one error.

Along with his great double Webb got a run, a hit, five putouts, five assists and a ——.

Nist played part of the game in left field and finished up behind the bat. He is all right in either position. In the latter he has a reputation. For a long time he was one of the star catchers in the Three I. league.

Colonel Heckathorn swung that game limb of his in the regular grand stand way. He pulled it along with extraordinary efficiency. One run, two hits, 15 putouts, one assist and a couple of errors. He remains the treasure of the ladies.

Reark and Maley had very few chances.

Considering the fact that it was McCafferty's first attempt, he did excellent work. He bids fair to be a pitcher.

M. Kenny was the whole show among the visitors. He plays a nice game and stands in with the fans.

THE MODERN IDEA OF THE RATIONAL CURE OF INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA

Has Been the Study of the Doctors of the Old School and the Doctors of the New School, and both proclaim that nothing is more effective to the digestive organs than pure pepsin in order to get all the nutriment out of the food partaken of and assimulated to the system.

NEXT COMES

the proclamation that it this treatment is accompanied by a proper tonic to meet the effects of the unusual work upon the digestive organs such as pure port wine.

Then the Worst Case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia

must succumb to the combined action of pepsin and port wine, The happy thought of such a common-sense remedy is represented in

ORGAN RECITAL

Delighted a Large Audience of Music Lovers at St. Stephen's Church.

Not in many months has there been assembled together in this city so great a number of music loving people as at the free organ recital given last evening at the St. Stephen's Episcopal church. So large was the attendance that extra chairs had to be provided and many besides were compelled to stand.

Mr. Edward Macrum is organist of All Saint's church, New York, and when an opportunity was given to hear him play in this city, his friends who have watched with satisfaction his progress from boyhood, showed their interest by appearing en masse. As is well known the organ in the St. Stephen's church was a gift of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and this is the first of a series of free recitals which will be given once a month throughout the coming winter.

Quite a number of selections were rendered by Mr. Macrum, all of which brought out the full expression of the instrument, and each number was heartily appreciated by the audience. Three solos occured at intervals in the program. Miss Alice Dixon sang "Abide With Me," and Miss Everson sang, "The Hills of God," both in admirable voice. Miss Millicent Thompson literally captivated the hearts of the audience by her renediction of "Come Unto Me." Her voice is magnificent in quality and of broad range. During the intermission a silver collection was taken for the benefit of the church choir. Mr. Macrum was presented with a bouquet of beautiful flowers.

At the conclusion of the program the audience arose and sang the National anthem.

MOVING NORTHWARD

SURVEYORS CONTINUING THEIR WORK ABOUT NEGLEY.

Believed to Be Working in the Interests of Pittsburg-Cleveland Trolley Project.

Surveyors who have been working on the east side of the north fork of Beaver creek claim they are working in the interest of a street railway company, and thihs is all the information that can be gleaned from them. These surveyors have been working in the vicinity of Fredericktown for some weeks, but they are now directing their lines toward Negley.

It is said these men are members of the same surveying party who have been working in the interest of a Pittsburg company, whose intention is to build a road from Six Mile Ferry to Cleveland. Persons from this city who interviewed some of the surveyors while they were working in the vicinity of Georgetown claim it is the same party which is working toward Negley.

Although many attempts have been made to secure a statement from the heads of the party, these gentlemen refuse to talk, either of who they are representing or of their destination. It may be that the West Point & Northern Railroad company is interested in these surveys, but no statement from representatives of hat company in this city can be obtained.

NEW JERSEY CHARTER

Practical Demonstrations Are a Pronounced Success—Patents Granted.

Practical demonstrations at the plant of the Gas Apparatus and Construction company at Chester were completed last Monday, and the plant is now closed. Two reasons are assigned for this, one of which is that some needed repairs are to be made at the plant at once, and then because Judge Williams, the inventor of the process, has been forced to enter a Pittsburg hospital for the purpose of having another operation performed on his eyes, which will result in his sight being completely restored. The practical demonstration was to last but five weeks, and when that time ended last Monday, gas in its different stages was produced at from 40 to 100 per cent. pure. Judge Williams has been allowed a patent for his process, and the patent papers will be taken out as soon as he is discharged from the hospital.

It is the intention to organize a company under the laws of New Jersey which will hold a half interest in the patent. A trustee will be selected by the local company, which will most likely be a Trust company, and this trust company will look after the sale of rights and do other detail work for the local company. A meeting of the stockholders in this city will be held soon, when all these matters will be considered. The making of gas under the process invented by Judge Williams is pronounced a success.

Charles A. Smith, of this city, who has been spending several days in Cleveland attending the races, returned home this morning.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back For An Old One—How It Is Done In East Liverpool.

Sometimes the back aches with a dull, indescribable feeling making you weary and restless; sometimes pain shoots across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use plastering or rubbing the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. To exchange a bad back for a new and stronger one, follow the example of this East Liverpool citizen.

Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says: "During the civil war I enlisted and served three years in the Forty-second Ohio infantry. From the exposure during the war I attributed the severe aching and weakness in the loins and muscular rheumatism of recent years which all seemed to center in my kidneys. In the morning when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the paper I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and took them. A few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual and continued as the medicine got thoroughly into my system. I firmly believe that Doan's Kidney Pills will in every case as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

BY THE USE OF LIFE PLANT.

J. G. Cotton writes from New Philadelphia, O., the following praise for the great tonic, LIFE PLANT:—

New Philadelphia, O., Feb. 22, 1902.
Life Plant Co.,

Messrs:—Last September I was attacked with Sciatic rheumatism. It was so painful as to allow me to sleep very little, could not stand on my feet ten minutes at a time without severe pain. I was very much alarmed as I had the same trouble a number of years ago and was unable, though attended by the best medical skill, to get rid of it for two and a half years, during which time I could perform no labor. A friend told me that LIFE PLANT was a sure cure for rheumatism. I took two bottles and it cured me; I have had no return of it since. I am not only pleased, but surprised as well at the speedy cure.

Very truly,

THE OLDEST POTTERY A FAMILIAR LANDMARK IN EAST LIVERPOOL

Building, Now the Croxall Property, Erected For Hotel Purposes—A Pottery Since 1844.

What may now be called the oldest pottery building in this city is that located at the corner of Washington and Second street, and owned by the Croxall Pottery company. It is no other than the old "Mansion Pottery." Although originally built for hotel purposes it was never used as such and for years has been used for a clay shop.

It is said that in 1838 this building was erected, but not as it stands today, it has been remodeled to some extent, and when the property was bought by its present owners in 1857, from Salt & Mear, who at that time operated a small yellowware shop, having but one kiln, the pottery was just as large as any in the city. The story of the sale of this old shop is one of interest, and was told by Mr. John Croxall to the News Review today. He said:

"When the firm of Salt & Mear wanted to sell Joseph Cartwright and myself agreed to take the plant. The price I cannot recall just now, but it was somewhere between $75,000 and $9,000. Not one cent of cash changed hands. All they wanted was ware, and we agreed to their demands. We shipped them so many crocks a month until the plant was paid for, and it did not take many years to do this.

"The old plant was operated by Mr. Cartwright and myself for about eight or ten years, and during that time we built an additional kiln, much larger than the kiln the old firm used.

"The old building was built originally by John Patrick who acted in the capacity of a financier and preacher. At that time there were not more than 300 persons residing in the town, and a cross country railroad scheme was put on the market. Patrick established a bank, and then proceeded to organize a company for the purpose of building a railroad from this city to Asthabula. The name of the company is said to have been the East Liverpool and Ashtabula Railway company. Work was commenced on the road out the California Hollow, but the company soon stopped operations and nothing has been heard of the matter since.

"With visions of a railroad the need of an up-to-date hotel was shown. This was built at the corner of Washington and Second streets. The same foundation as laid then is seen by hundreds who pass this building daily. It is one of those foundations that were made to stay, and it is practically as good as the day it was finished."

The firm of Croxall & Cartwright, some years after securing control of the building, made some changes in the architecture and remodeled the roof. Before this was done, space was provided on what today would be called the third floor for sleeping purposes. Mr. Croxall termed this part of the building the chicken loft. It was nothing but one large room, with no partition for single or double rooms, and it was so arranged that, if used for hotel purposes, and the house was crowded, beds could be placed in a row in the "loft" and many beds at that. The laths placed on the building when it was first built are there today. Nothing but strong oak laths were used.

A few changes have been made about the old frame building, but the fact that it was built for hotel purposes is quite evident, when one takes a trip through it. It was in 1844 that the property was sold to Salt & Mear for pottery purposes by Mr. Patrick.

The work done in this building today is most interesting, and, except that will be viewed with interest by those not familiar with the old fashioned way of making pottery.

Mr. Croxall, the senior member of the Croxall Pottery company, is the oldest living manufacturing potter in the west, and, it might be rightly said in the United States. He is now in his 79th year, and he came to this city from England in 1844. He first obtained employment at the old Bennett pottery as a kilnman. In those days firms paid at the rate of $1.25 a day, and made quarterly settlements.

Engineer and Fireman Killed and Flagman Seriously, Perhaps Fatally, Injured.

Pittsburg, Sept. 6.—By the breaking of a coupling in a southbound train on the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston railroad near West Brownsville late Thursday night two men were killed and another fatally injured. The broken section collided with a train that was following.

W. J. Roberts, engineer, 25 years old, of 2703 Carson street, this city, died yesterday afternoon while being taken to the West Penn hospital.

Thomas Burmester, fireman, 23 years old, of Carrick, Pa., died in the West Penn hospital yesterday afternoon.

Samuel McAllister, 28 years old, flagman, of Lenox street, Uniontown, has fracture of skull and many cuts and bruises.

The entire cab of the engine was smashed in. The engineer, fireman and flagman all were buried in the wreckage. Others of the train crew rushed to their assistance and dragged them from the wreck. They were hurried to this city with all speed.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Money Unstable—Railroad Bonds Showed Good Tone.

New York, Sept. 6.—At the opening yesterday the stock market reflected little of Thursday's reactionary tendency, though the undertone was somewhat heavy in view of the unstable money market and lower prices from London. Norfolk and Western's strength was due to favorable forecasts regarding the annual report, and Pennsylvania's gain, which was not long maintained, was attributed to the collapse of the tunnel franchise opposition. The comparative inactivity of Reading common, which was heavy throughout, resulted, it was believed, from the impression that the probable contest for control had been settled. The Chesapeake and Ohio pool was checked by reason of the road's poor showing for the latter part of August, but closed with a fractional gain. Wabash issues advanced on news of a favorable judicial decision.

Irregularity followed another squeeze in call money, which worked nominally as high as 10 per cent, but actually not higher than 8½, and fell off as low as 3½.

The sub-treasury's debit balance at the clearing house of over $1,000,000 was chiefly due to heavy payments for the navy and $250,000 for account of Klondike gold. Today's bank statement will, it is believed, show a further loss of surplus reserves, but is not expected to reflect in full the $6,000,000 loss to the sub-treasury and the interior by local institutions. London was again prominent in yesterday's operations, though selling on balance.

Railroad bonds showed a good tone throughout the day, but the market was less active. Total sales, par value, $3,220,000.

U. S. old 4s, coupon, advanced ⅛ and the new 4s, registered, declined ½ per cent on the last call.

In Course of Settlement.

Constantinople, Sept. 6.—United States Minister John G. A. Leishman, who intended to start with his family on a vacation Wednesday, has postponed his departure from Constantinople until Monday because of a request of the sultan to see the minister before the latter left. All the recent claims of the United States are in course of settlement.

Review of Saratoga Racing

Most Successful Meet In History of Famous Track

"THE AMERICAN ASCOT"

THE racing season just ended at the famous "Queen of Spas," Saratoga, N. Y., was the most successful in the history of the Saratoga racing association from every point of view. The entries and attendance established new records, and horse owners from all parts of the country have carried off goodly shares of rich prizes. "The Ascot of America" is the title applied to the establishment and every person that attended the races will readily state that the com parison with the great English course is not a high flight of imagination, but is justified by facts.

The fashionable world was strikingly in evidence at Saratoga—in fact, dominating everything else—and the consensus of opinion is that not even in the days of the old Saratoga Racing association and historic Monmouth park, at Long Branch, N. J., when the two brothers Jerome, the late Pierre Lorillard, the late August Belmont, William H. Travers, David Dunham Withers and John Hunter led the racing way, has so aristocratic an atmosphere pervaded a course on this side of the Atlantic.

To the persons familiar with the Saratoga track of old the innovations in the "new Saratoga" are plainly evident. On all sides are seen the results of the carefully studied plan of improvement outlined and carried into effect by President William C. Whitney, of the association, and his immediate official associates, F. R. Hitchcock, vice president; H. K. Knapp, secretary, and Andrew Miller, treasurer. The board of directors is composed of William C. Whitney, R. T. Wilson, Jr.; T. Hitchcock, F. R. Hitchcock, Andrew Miller, H. K. Knapp, Perry Belmont, W. W. Worden, J. H. Alexandre, Philip J. Dwyer, Jack G. Follansbee, J. H. Bradford and J. G. Heckscher, the first five named comprising the executive committee.

At a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars the grand stand, clubhouse, track and paddock have been renovated and rebuilt, and at the present time there is no course in the country better calculated to charm the eye and satisfy the desire of its patrons. The groves of beautifully foliaged trees, the expansive, well kept greensward and the beds of blossoming flowers form an ensemble inspiring nature lovers, and the harmonious scheme of architecture blends gracefully into the scene.

GEORGE GOULD AND HIS TWO SONS AT THE SPA.
[Mr. Gould may race thoroughbreds. The boys, Kingdon and Jay, are famous as polo players.]

There are three tracks at Saratoga, the dirt track, the turf course, inside the former, and on the level infield is the course for steeplechasers. The turf track will not be used at all this year, for it is the intention to allow the grass to have a full year's growth in order that it may become firmly rooted. From the clubhouse is obtained a superb panoramic view of the three spreading arenas, and its verandas always present a festive scene, with its gathering of jauntily attired men and daintily gowned women. Like the enlarged grand stand now seating 6,000 people, the clubhouse is so situated as to avoid the afternoon sun, which formerly shone directly into the eyes of spectators, causing no little discomfort, and in appointment both buildings are well prepared to provide for the refreshment and convenience of the visitors. The old paddock has been torn down and a new one built, which is 220 feet long, 80 feet wide and contains twenty-five stalls.

On the opposite side of the tracks, across from the clubhouse and grand stand, are the stables of many prominent New Yorkers who race their horses at the spa. This settlement is called "millionaires' row," and under the picturesque, low slanting roofs are sheltered practically every well known equine thoroughbred in the east, and a worthy delegation from the west.

The Saratoga stables have accommodations for about 1,500 horses, almost as many as those that can be housed at Sheepshead Bay, New York, the largest racing establishment in America, and probably the most imposing of the private establishments there is that of August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey club. Mr. Belmont has spent a large fortune on his headquarters there. He has built a half mile track for the exercising of his horse, which encircles his stables, and access to the buildings is had by means of a tunnel under the course, thus permitting his horses to have uninterrupted sway during their training operations. The tunnel is lighted by electricity and connects with the main racing track. The action of Mr. Belmont in establishing a permanent stable at Saratoga on a somewhat elaborate plan is significant of the increased interest in racing affairs at the spa and of the added importance of the position the course has attained under the new regime. Other prominent factors in American racing will doubtless follow Mr. Belmont's example, and these, together with Mr. Whitney's estate there, will form a notably colony.

George Gould created somewhat of a sensation at the spa by stating his intention of buying part of the stable of Clarence H. Mackay, whose retirement from the turf, caused by the death of his father, John W. Mackay, has aroused widespread regret. Should Mr. Gould form a racing stable, he will receive a royal welcome, for he is a thoroughly representative American millionaire sportsman. The eldest son of the late Jay Gould is a striking contrast to his father, who never identified himself with sports, choosing rather to devote his entire attention to his financial interests.

JOCKEY BULLMAN.
[Bullman's work at Saratoga places him close to the top of the list of winning riders.]

The Saratoga races are a splendid preparatory course for the autumn meeting of the Coney Island (New York) Jockey club at Sheepshead Bay. Two-year-olds are particularly catered to at the spa, and a rare opportunity is afforded to form an opinion as to the identity of the probable winner of the Futurity, the stellar two-year-old event run at the opening of the meeting. The Sheepshead Bay races, which are now on, will continue until the middle of September.

ALWAYS THE LAWYER.

Stuck to Legal Phraseology Even While Seasick.

Justice Giegerich of the New York supreme court, who has a fine summer home on Staten island, is very fond of sailing, and a few days ago he invited a friend of his, a lawyer, to go down the bay with him. At the start the wind was quite brisk, but soon freshened into a gale and caused the little craft they were in to toss and roll in a manner that soon caused the lawyer's features to twist into expressive contortions.

Justice Giegerich, noticing his friend's plight, laid a soothing hand on the latter's shoulder and said:

"My dear fellow, can I do anything for you?"

"Yes, your honor," replied the lawyer in plaintive tones, "you will greatly oblige me by overruling this motion."—New York Times.

Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous effort to make or save the money to purchase them. If a woman will risk her health to get a coveted gem, then let her fortify herself against the insiduous consequences of coughs, colds and bronchial affections by the regular use of Dr. Boschee's German Syrup. It will promptly arrest consumption in its early stages and heal the affected lungs and bronchial tubes and drive the dread disease from the system. Baseball Comment

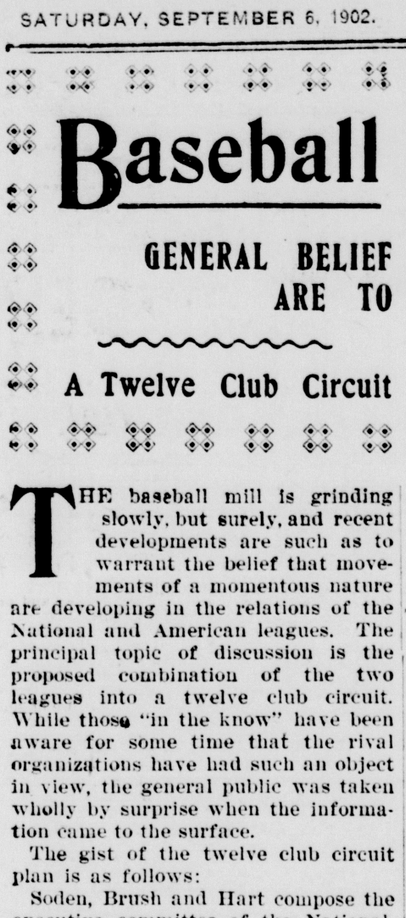
A Twelve Club Circuit ✣ Details of the Scheme

THE baseball mill is grinding slowly, but surely, and recent developments are such as to warrant the belief that movements of a momentous nature are developing in the relations of the National and American leagues. The principal topic of discussion is the proposed combination of the two leagues into a twelve club circuit. While those "in the know" have been aware for some time that the rival organizations have had such an object in view, the general public was taken wholly by surprise when the information came to the surface.

The gist of the twelve club circuit plan is as follows:

Soden, Brush and Hart compose the executive committee of the National,



BIG JOHN ANDERSON OF THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS.

and, according to the story, it is the intention of the triumvirate to establish one big team in Chicago, St. Louis, Boston and Philadelphia. The consent of the majority of the American league magnates is said to have been secured for the scheme, and the names of Auten of Boston, Hedges of St. Louis and Angus of Detroit are prominently mentioned as being favorable to the scheme.

Committee Favors Plan.

The committee has adopted the scheme and agreed to report favorably on it. Hart has offered to buy or sell Comiskey. Hitches are expected in Philadelphia, Chicago and Cleveland. Philadelphia disapproves of John T. Brush and his workings; Johnson's influence in Cleveland is said to operate against the plan in that city, and Comiskey wants to stay in the game in Chicago. It is understood, however, that Hart has assured Comiskey that whichever buys or sells the baseball war will be stopped in the Windy City.

The National league magnates maintain that the matter can be easily adjusted. They say Auten, of Boston American league franchise, is National league at heart, that the St. Louis public is overwhelmingly in favor of the National league and that the St. Louis and Detroit controllers of stock will buy or sell at a good figure. Hart and Brush are said to have visited all the American league eastern cities with this object in view, and the time is ripe for consolidation.

Details of the Scheme.

A well known Chicago authority says:

"Plans have been laid for some time and nearly matured for the consolidation of these leagues into what will be known hereafter as either the National-American or the American-National league. Immediately after the close of the baseball season, or as soon thereafter as circumstances will permit, a conference of the presidents of the baseball clubs of the two leagues will be called by Mr. Brush. League officials will be barred from the session, only club magnates being admitted. The proposition to end the war between the organizations in an amicable manner will then be presented to them and a vote taken to cast the clubs together into one organization. There are twelve cities in the two circuits now, so that none of them need be dropped."

When asked about the proposed consolidation, Colonel John I. Rogers of the Philadelphia National league club said:

"You can say that it is all news to me, and I cannot believe that such a plan has even been outlined. I did not attend the meeting, so I am not in a position to say whether or not the project was discussed. I do not believe it was and think the story is one of the same kind that retired me from baseball. I have not been offered a price for my stock, nor have I been approached to sell. It is a bad time just now to dispose of baseball holdings. If our club had a chance to win the pennant, we could get a good price for our stock, but with a losing team the value depreciates. I cannot imagine where such reports originate, but they hit wide of the mark.

"I have lately been in communication with a prominent American league magnate, who suggested an amicable arrangement. I told him that such a plan could not be considered until the American league returned what they had stolen from us. First, restitution and then amicable adjustment. If we have peace, it must be with honor."

Mack Has a Laugh.

Connie Mack ridiculed the story of a consolidation. "I think you will find the Philadelphia Athletics at the same old stand next year," said he. "I guess this is another 'white elephant' story. White elephants are attractive things. At least the people like to come out to Twenty-ninth and Columbia avenue to see them, and we have never been asked to give anybody his money back.

"When I saw Ban Johnson in Chicago the other day, he was so jolly over the American league situation that he refused an invitation to come on to Atlantic City; said he was happy enough where he was. This amalgamation story is likely to make Ban laugh so hard that he will take on ten pounds more avoirdupois, and he is so fat now that his life is in danger."

"Dummy" Hoy's Retirement.

William Hoy, better known as the "Dummy," who recently decided to retire from baseball, is one of the most interesting figures that ever graced the national game. He was popular as center fielder on Comiskey's pennant winning White Sox during the seasons of 1900 and 1901 and signed with Cincinnati this year. With the various changes in the Cincinnati reds which finally culminated in the signing of Joe Kelley and the letting out of the veteran manager, "Bid" McPhee, "Dummy" got his release. Almost as soon as he was given his notice he was the recipient of many offers, but those from major league clubs were not high enough, and Hoy has ever declared that he would never again play in minor league company, but would quit the game as soon as he was unable to keep a position in fast company. Hoy began playing ball in 1886 in Oshkosh, Wis., and since that time has played in almost every team in the National league. His longest service in the National was in Cincinnati, where his career finished. He is reputed to be wealthy.

"The baseball public has a very superficial knowledge of the game," said a seasoned member of the Chicago National league team, "and the estimate of patrons of the relative value of players to a club is positively painful. Why, I have frequently heard a player praised for a performance for which he should have been censured, and again I have seen cases where an infielder was roasted for not handling a grounder cleanly and making a put out when, by a grand effort, he managed to knock it down and prevented a runner from scoring from second."

CYCLING

Arthur Zimmerman has decided to return to the cycle path. He will shortly sail for France, where he has contracted to appear in a number of paced exhibitions and to ride as team mate of the great Jacquelin, whom Zimmerman induced in 1893 to give up his work in a repair shop to race on the cycle track.

Zimmerman's return to racing will be a great surprise. He is now the proprietor of a large hotel at Point Pleasant, N. J., and as mine host made a successful debut.

RUN DOWN.

When a phrase is coined out of world wide human experience it is apt to be brief and expressive. We are "run-down" we say in the endeavor to describe a relaxed physical condition, and all the terminology of medicine could not more expressively describe the actual condition than that every day phrase. It suggests the clock, perfect mechanically, but failing to record the passage of time because it is run-down.

People who have that tired out, run-down feeling will find new life in the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This great medicine is far more than a tonic. It cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food of which alone all physical strength is made.

"The reason I delayed writing was because I wanted to wait one year after I had taken the medicine before giving my statement, and now I can send a good conscientious testimonial," writes Mr. Chas. H. Sergeant, of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio. "During the summer and fall of 1896 I became all 'run-down,' nerves were out of order and stomach out of order. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thanks to you for your advice, I used six bottles, and since I stopped taking it about one year ago, I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and have been able to work every day. My appetite is good, I can eat three square meals a day, and I do not feel that miserable burning in the stomach after eating. My blood and nerves are in good shape, and, well—in fact, I think I am in pretty good running order."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels active and healthy.

Expensive Courtship.

Recently a young Frenchman of good family, but very poor, fell in love with a banker's daughter, and, obtaining a letter of introduction to her father, called on him. He found him at home, and a pleasant conversation followed.

As he talked, however, the young man fumbled with a gold coin, the only money he possessed, and when he rose to take leave he removed it from his waistcoat pocket and put it, without thinking, into his trousers pocket. As he was strolling home he looked for the coin, but, alas, it was not to be found, for there was a small hole in his trousers pocket, and as soon as he had put it in it fell noiselessly on the velvet carpet in the banker's drawing room.

As he sorely needed the money the young man, though much against his will, resolved to go back and inquire about it.

"Yes," said the banker as he entered; "I found a gold coin on the carpet as soon as you left the room, and I was not surprised, for I lost a similar coin in that very place two days ago. This, therefore, is my money, and we will now look for yours."

The banker smiled as he spoke, but the penniless young man turned his back on him and abruptly left the house.

The Gleaners.

The old custom of gleaning in the harvest fields, which recalls the Biblical story of Ruth and Naomi, is not obsolete in England, and in Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and the neighboring counties, as soon as the wheat is gathered in the late days of August, there may be seen in the newly cleared fields numbers of women and children diligently picking up one by one the scattered ears and forming them into neat little sheaves which they carry in their hands until large enough to be bound up. When the daylight fails, all the booty is bound up in cloths and carried home on the heads of the gleaners. At home they thrash it out by hand and sell the grain or use it for their chickens. The gathering of a half peck is usually a full day's work for a child, and often a woman spends a whole day in gathering very little more. Gleaning, however, is looked upon somewhat in the light of a picnic. The mother and children leave home in the morning, take with them food for the day and stay out in the fields until nightfall.

Watch Owner's Pride.

"Then you do not regard him as trustworthy?"

"I should not go so far as to say he is not trustworthy, but he is the kind of man who will set his watch at 11:59 o'clock and then call your attention to the manner in which it keeps time when the 12 o'clock whistle blows."—Washington Star.

Would Prefer It Otherwise.

Crown Jewel Tragedies

Precious Baubles The Cause of Many Crimes

The famous jewels of the earth, some of which ornament the crowns of European monarchs, have nearly all been the cause of crimes. The immense wealth represented by a sparkling stone seems to arouse man's cupidity and tempt him to commit the most brutal acts to gain its possession.

Among the British crown jewels there is one stone which far outshines the rest. This is the famous Kohinoor, or Mountain of Light. Its history can be traced back to the thirteenth century, but it was not until the famous Mogul emperor in the eighteenth century possessed it that exciting events began to cluster around it.

THE CAPTAIN THREW THE MAN INTO THE SEA.

When Nadir the Conqueror seized the treasury at Delhi, the great diamond was found to be missing. A woman betrayed to him the secret that Mohammed, the Mogul emperor, was wearing it hidden in his turban.

Nadir hit on a clever trick to seize the stone without further quarreling. At a grand festival he took advantage of an oriental custom to ask the emperor to exchange turbans. The unlucky Mohammed had no choice. He gave the turban and stone up quietly. After Nadir's death the gem passed to his son, Shah Rokh, who was in his turn conquered by Aga Mohammed. This scoundrel put the unfortunate Rokh to frightful tortures to make him give up the secret of where he had hidden the gem. At last he blinded him, but even then the wretched man held out. In a fury Mohammed had Rokh's head shaved and poured upon it boiling oil. The miserable man died under the torture without revealing the whereabouts of the diamond.

Another of its owners, Shah Zaman, hid the stone and was tortured by his brother to show where it was hidden. He, too, died without letting it be known. After his death it was discovered quite by accident imbedded in the plaster of the murdered man's cell and worn by the murderer, Shah Seyali. Will it be believed that his victim's fate overtook Seyali? He lost his eyes, but kept the stone.

Runjit Singh was the Kohinoor's next owner. He, too, gained it by force and fraud. When his time came to die, so convinced was this ruler that the stone brought with it nothing but ruin that he ordered it to be placed in the eye of an idol, but as he was signing the warrant he died, and after his death the great diamond fell into English hands.

Every crown jewel in Europe possesses at least one world famous diamond, and there is not one of them the record of which is not stained with crime. Even that which has had the fewest adventures, the enormous Braganza of Portugal, was found by convicts. It is a Brazilian stone and is, if genuine, by far the greatest diamond in the world. It weighs 1,680 carats, which would make its value $28,224,000.

But it is whispered it may be nothing but a white topaz.

No royal stone has been responsible for worse villainy than the Pitt, now known as the Regent diamond. It was found by a slave in India in 1701. It weighed 401 carats.

To hide it its finder wounded his leg and hid the gem in the bandage. He escaped to the coast with his prize. There he met a sea captain, to whom he confided his story. The captain inveigled the slave aboard his ship, stole the stone and threw the wretched man into the sea.

The captain then sold the stone to a diamond merchant for $5,000 and drank himself to death. The latter sold it to Mr. Pitt for $100,000. It proved the plague of his life. He was constantly haunted with the fear of being robbed. So he sold it to France, and it became one of the crown jewels of that country. It was afterward valued at $2,400,000.

During the revolution it was stolen from the Garde Meuble, but soon after an anonymous letter declared that it was hidden in a ditch in the Champs Elysees, and there, sure enough, it was found. After being pledged to the Dutch government it was again recovered and is still among the remnants of republican France's crown jewels.

Among the jewels of the Austro-Hungarian empire is a yellow diamond of enormous size and purest luster. It is known as the Florentine or Austrian yellow. It is one of the oldest diamonds known, its early history being hidden in the mists of antiquity. Once it belonged to Charles the Bold of Burgundy. He lost it at the battle of Morat in 1476. It was picked up by a peasant, who took it for a crystal and sold it for a few pence.

Its new owner, a priest, got a few shillings for it from a merchant of Berne named May. The latter knew he had a prize and sold it for 20,000 crowns to the Fugger family. Then Henry VIII. of England bought it, but his daughter Mary gave it to her husband, Philip of Spain, and through him it reached Austria.

The Great Sancy's early history, like that of the Florentine, is wrapped in mystery, but few things are more curious in the history of crown jewels than the way in which the diamond gravitated back to its original Indian house.

Once it adorned the cap of Henry III. of France. This monarch had become quite bald at the age of twenty-six and wore the cap to conceal this deficiency. From him it passed to Henry IV., who sent it to Switzerland to raise money on it. On the way the servant who carried it was waylaid and murdered, but not until he had swallowed the diamond. The Sancy then became the property of Queen Elizabeth of England, and for a century it graced British diadems until James II. sold it in 1695 to Louis XIV., and it became a French crown jewel.

Stolen at the same time as the Regent, it was next heard of in the possession of the Demidoffs in Russia and was by them sold to a Swiss named Leveat. A quarrel took place about the price and ended in a celebrated lawsuit in 1832. The Demidoffs won the suit and later sold the stone to the famous Parsee merchant, Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy. In 1867 it was again back in Paris for sale. It was an Indian rajah who bought it, and for the third time the Great Sancy is on its native soil.

Girl Caught Bullet With Her Teeth

Rosa J. Starrett, a thirteen-year-old girl of Bath, Me., is the heroine of a most remarkable feat.

Rosa actually caught with her teeth a .32 caliber bullet fired from a pistol held within two feet of her face, and that shapeless piece of metal dropped harmless from her mouth as the frightened child recovered from the shock and cried out to her mother.

Rosa is the daughter of Woodbury Starrett, a ship carpenter, and assists her mother at light housework when not at school. Mr. and Mrs. William Lounsbury, who had been boarding at the Starrett house, recently removed to another part of the city. Immediately upon the departure of Mrs. Lounsbury Rosa, accompanied by her brother Royal, eleven years of age, went to the vacant room. The boy noticed a revolver on the bureau. Rosa picked up the weapon, saw that it was loaded and replaced it, but the little brother took it up and moved to the window to examine it.

As they stood, scarcely two feet apart, the boy pulled the trigger, and the self acting revolver was discharged.

The bullet entered at the right side of the girl's mouth, cutting a furrow nearly an inch in length along the top of the lower lip, and struck the eye-tooth in the jaw. The tooth was splintered into fine pieces, while the next tooth was removed as smoothly and artistically as it could have been pulled by the highest priced dentist.

Two more teeth were knocked from the jaw, but not completely severed, and there the bullet stopped.

Surgical skill has already removed most of the powder marks from her face, and only a scar where the bullet entered her lip and the vacancy caused by the loss of the four teeth will remain as permanent reminders of an accident which could not be repeated without fatal results once in a million times.

The bullet is flattened to a ragged piece of metal, showing clearly the marks of the broken teeth. But for the remarkable fact that it struck the jaw exactly in line with the row of teeth and proceeded along that line so accurately that it struck each succeeding tooth squarely, and so did not swerve to either side, it must have made a terrible wound.

Hare and Dog Both Dead.

Last year during one of the courses run for the Waterloo cup a dog was seen to collapse suddenly and lie down. On reaching the spot the judges found that the animal was quite dead. Heart disease had killed it. More remarkable still, a few yards in front lay the hare, untouched, but also stone dead from a similar cause.

What Carlyle Wrote of Tennyson.

Tennyson in his prime was thus described by Thomas Carlyle to Ralph Waldo Emerson on Aug. 5, 1844: "One of the finest looking men in the world. A great shock of rough, dusty dark hair; bright, laughing, hazel eyes; massive aquiline face—most massive, yet most delicate, of sallow brown complexion, almost Indian looking; clothes cynically loose, free and easy; smokes infinite tobacco. His voice is musically metallic, fit for loud laughter and piercing wail and all that may lie between speech and speculation free and plenteous. I do not meet in these late decades such company over a pipe."

When the Cat Was Sacred.

In the middle ages brute animals formed as prominent a part in the devotional ceremonies of the time as they had in the old religion of Egypt. The cat Elurus was embalmed after death and buried in the city of Bubastis because, according to Herodotus, Diana Bubastis, the chief diety of the place, was said to have transformed herself into a cat when the gods fled into Egypt.

Breathing of Insects.

Insects generally breathe through special pores in various parts of their bodies, and if these pores are closed by oil they are suffocated. Any one may test this by dropping sweet oil on the thorax or back of a wasp. It very soon dies. For this reason oil has been found one of the best things to use for the destruction of insects.

Miss Sarah Finley.

WINE OF CARDUI is a thoroughly scientific and modern remedy, meeting the needs of the modern woman in the modern way—without the torture of an operation. Wine of Cardui has cured them in the privacy of their homes and it has found a place in the hearts of American women that no other medicine has found. In their gratitude over 10,000 American women have written letters commending Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui meets their wants as no other medicine does. It sustains the young girl at the shock of her entrance to womanhood. Women who take Wine of Cardui have little discomfort during pregnancy and little pain at childbirth. When the change of life appears they enter a happy, healthy old age. Every month it comes to the rescue to assist Nature in throwing the impurities from the body.

Miss Sarah Finley, of Memphis, Tenn., vice-president of the Palmetto Club of that city, speaks for herself and many friends when she bestows the following praise on Wine of Cardui:

"Among the numerous medicines placed before suffering women for their relief none can touch McElree's Wine of Cardui. It towers above them all as a reliable female remedy. It simply drives pain and disease away and restores health in an incredibly short period. I have taken great interest in this medicine for the past two years, since it brought health and strength to me. I have also recommended it to a number of my friends and they who have used it speak of it in the highest terms and I feel that it is praise well bestowed."

If you are suffering from female weakness Wine of Cardui is the medicine you need.

You can have health the same as Miss Finley if you will take the Wine of Cardui treatment. If you need advice further than the complete directions given on the bottle, address The Ladies Advisory Department, Chattanooga Med. Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

BARBERTON POTTERY PREPARING TO BUILD A LARGE ADDITION

It Will Be Devoted to Art Pottery and the Improvement Will Cost $75,000 to $100,000.

Barberton, Sept. 6.—Another manufacturing establishment is to duplicate its present plant. This time it is the Barberton Pottery company, whose initial work has hardly cooled from the kilns. Surprising as this may be, this is the action which was decided upon by the directors of the company at a meeting held in Akron. Work will be begun on the addition immediately and pushed to an early completion. An additional $75,000 to $100,000 will be spent in the increase of the pottery business in this plant, and as a result the 300 men who are now employed in the plant will be increased to 600.

The new addition will be devoted to the manufacture of art ware. One of the greatest experts in this line in America, Samuel Jenks, will be superintendent of the department, he now being engaged by the company.

Since this man has been secured by the company, which was at the time the large art pottery plant at Zanesville was destroyed by fire, the company has been considering the advisability of expanding into this line of work. Mr. Jenks has been experimenting, and the fruits of his labors are such that he convinced the stockholders of the money to be made in an investment in this line, and the final result came when the action announced was taken Wednesday.

The buildings will either be at the side or the rear of the present structure and will be of the most modern make. George G. Pryor, secretary and general manager of the company, when seen about the building of the structure, said: "At the meetings of the board of directors it was decided to double the capacity of the plant. This addition will be for art ware.

"This department will be under the supervision of Samuel Jenks, who is undoubtedly the best authority on colors and glaze in America. He was superintendent of the Zanesville art pottery up to the time it was destroyed by fire. The management of the Barberton pottery lost no time in securing his services.

"The structure of the plant will be of the same character as the one already built, being a thoroughly fire proof building.

"If the new plant is up to the standand of the one already in operation Barberton may well be proud of her new industry, for it has been built without regard to anything save the convenience of making and the ability to make ware both cheap and well."

The stock of the company is held by some well known men. Among the number are H. B. Camp, O. C. Barber, A. M. Barber, F. M. Atterholt, George P. Good, William A. Johnston, E. M. Buel, Ambrose Cartwright, of East Liverpool, and others equally well known.

A high and low grade of work will be turned out. The high grade will be the best on the market. This will be shown by the fact that it is the intention in the fine work to have the name of the artist on each piece.

SALARIED TEAM FOR NEXT SEASON

Prominent Business Man Proposes To Have Ud-to-Date Baseball Here.

His Plan Is to Form a Stock Company, Hire Manager And Players And Run the Business on Business Principles.

Unless the plans of a most prominent resident of the city fail East Liverpool will next year enjoy the distinction of having one of the strongest amateur base ball teams in the country.

That the fans will support one has been evident not only during the present season, but for years. Among other cities even larger than East Liverpool, where they have salaried teams there are few that give the patronage that local fans contribute. This fact has been carefully considered by the promoter of the new project and he feels confident that he will not lose out. To a News Review reporter, the man, who is prominent in business circles, but who requested that for the present his name be withheld, made the following statement:

"East Liverpool is one of the most enthusiastic sporting towns in the state. It has for years shown a disposition to support any and all things under the sporting head. I believe that the time has come when the people should have a base ball team that it can back with credit and pride. There is but one way for them to have it, and that is to have a team of salaried men, managed by a competent man and run in a manner strictly up-to-date. It is my desire to furnish such a team. I can do it if the people will display their usual amount of interest.

"My plan is simply this: To organize a stock company with a capital of $2,500. The shares will be $1 and one person will be allowed to purchase any number that he desires. This amount of money is desired only to place the team on a strong financial basis at the outset. It will not necessarily take that amount to equip the team in every way, but it will do no harm to have the amount on hand. From the date that the first game is played money will commence pouring into the treasury. The expense of running the team will of course be great, but when the following estimates are considered it will amount to but little:

"There are five months of base ball in a season. A salaried team can play 12 or 14 weeks at home. Figure at the former. Four games per week. A crowd of not less than 800 will attend each game. In the 48 games the gate receipts will amount to $9,600. The salary to be paid the members of the team will average $50 per month. For the three months on which the estimate is made, figuring on 12 men, the salaries will amount to $1,800. The manager will be paid $100 per month.

"Numerous other expenses will be attached, but they will not aggregate enough to let the cost overreach the cash receipts. There will undoubtedly be a reserve fund on hand while the team is out of the city. It may pay expenses while way, as it usually does, but if it does not, there will be a sufficient fund held back to meet all expense and still have a neat sum to be divided among the stockholders. A board of directors will be appointed and they will elect the manager, captain, treasurer, etc. These estimates are made only in an off-hand way and are based on the lowest calculations."

No steps will be taken by the promoter of the project until the present season closes, when it is almost assured that the management of the present team will cooperate with the movement. Success is predicted for all who participate in the project. What the people want is a good team, and if they get it they will do their part.

NEW CLAY PLANTS ARE SPRINGING UP

And the Potteries of Trenton Are Constantly Adding to Their Capacity.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 6.—Trenton is to have another tile company which will cater for some of the trade now enjoyed by the Providential and Trent Tile companies. The name of the new concern is the New Jersey Tile company which filed articles of incorporation at the county clerk's office yesterday.

The company has a capital stock of $50,000, divided into 500 shares of $100 each. The names of the incorporators and the number of shares subscribed by each are: James H. Robinson, 20 shares; William H. Valliner, 20 shares and Katherine A. Robinson, 20 shares, making a paid up capital stock of $6,000. The company proposes erecting a large plant on Muirhead avenue to be devoted to the manufacture of glazed and enameled tile together with the plain embossed and decorated lines. The company will also make a line of earthenware and porcelain specialties. The erection of the present plant will begin at once. The incorporation of the New Jersey Tile company is another of the great advance in clay products during the past year.

The potteries are not only working full time but many are enlarging to meet the demand the large orders have made upon them. During the past three months permits have been taken out for additions to several of the large potteries. The big addition to the plant of the Maddock Pottery company on Third street will be ready for occupancy in about another month. The building is under roof and the kiln shed containing three new sheds is now in use.

The Monument pottery is also building a large addition for the manufacture of earthenware zincs, wash basins and lavatories. The Elite Pottery company's plant in East Trenton which has only been in operation for a month has awarded the contract for erection of another packing shed.

The strength of union potters of this city could not be better estimated than by witnessing their lines in the parade Labor Day. Out of the some 4,000 men in line the potters constituted about 1,000 who represented each of the following locals: sanitary pressers, kilnmen and dippers, turners, throwers and handlers, saggermakers, packers and warehousemen, printers. In the Labor Day parade of 1901, the potters hardly had more than 600 men in line showing an increase of nearly 400 which Vice-President Hutchins has secured since January.

VARYING IDEAS ON THE CODE BILL

East Liverpool Citizens Have Many Different Opinions as to Desirable Law.

PRAISE FOR NASH BILL

Is Spoken By Some, Who Declare It Would Decrease Both Officials Expenses—Legislators Asked to Give the City the Best.

Of the 40 representative citizens who attended the code meeting at city hall last night, no two were of the same opinion with reference to a greater portion of the Nash code as it now reads. To those who were present last evening it is at once apparent that if the views of the legislators are as varied as those expressed at the meeting, no bill, Nash, federal or any other, will be passed this winter.

W. B. Hill was made chairman of the meeting, and about two hours were spent in a discussion of a number of points contained in the measure, and which, it was thought, would materially change the manner of conducting the affairs of East Liverpool.

At the suggestion of J. N. Hanley the chairman read sections of the bill dealing with the legislative portion of the proposed government. The duties of the board of public service were talked over, and all concluded that, while the mayor would be a very powerful official, the plan of placing the police and fire departments in charge of a board was a very good one.

After it had been agreed that the president of council would be the eighth member of council, and that he would have no vote except in the event of a tie or in the absence of some member of the body, it was decided that point was an unimportant one. Seven men expressed themselves as to what the meeting had been called for, and what matters the citizens were interested in. No two of them held the same views. Some one inquired as to the duties of the solicitor and police judge, and the chairman read the clauses. At the conclusion of the reading inquiry was made as to whether the city could afford to pay the salaries provided for in the law, and it was explained by Mr. Hill that there were now 36 men connected with the control of the municipality, while under the proposed law it would require but 22. He thought the new code regulations would not only be more economical, but afford a more satisfactory administration of public affairs.

Dr. Marshall made a few remarks favoring the fee system, and thought the good order of the community would be better looked after if the officials had an inducement in the shape of fees for each arrest. A number of those present could not agree with him.

Mr. Travis said the code was all right, but East Liverpool ought to have something to say with reference to the line of demarkation. He favored 15,000.

J. J. Purinton remarked that a great deal of time was being consumed in a discussion of details, and they were not getting any nearer the real object. He thought the thing to be discussed was whether East Liverpool desired to be a city or a village. If the people favored the latter, then the thing to do was to inform our legislators that we wanted the line fixed at something like 20,000. If we elect to come under the head of a city then let the lawmakers go ahead as they have begun, for we were sure to be in the city class as the bill now reads. He was in favor of the code, and thought the running expenses of the city would not be as high under the law as they are at present. Several citizens agreed with Mr. Purinton, and E. W. Hill took the floor.

Mr. Hill gave it as his opinion that the whole crowd was off the track as to the real question they were there to discuss. It was his belief that it was not a matter of certain sections of the Nash code, but which of the several code bills was best for this city. He rather favored the federal code—that regulation under which Cleveland is governed—and thought the city would receive more benefit from it than by the adoption of the Nash code.

Several men followed Mr. Hill, all stating they knew little of the provisions of Mr. Hill's measure, but that there was but one bill before that meeting—the Nash code—and that it must either be endorsed or rejected.

F. H. Croxall spoke at some length on the financial outlook in case the measure became a law, and put the question in the light that if the proposed new rule was put into effect and would exhaust all our revenue in paying salaries, the citizens of East Liverpool certainly would not favor it.

J. T. Smith raised another point; so did P. J. McKeone, and so it went on for another hour. At the end of that time Mr. Travis thought enough discussion had been indulged in and made a motion that our representatives and senator be requested to vote for the Nash code bill. Mr. Croxall seconded, but the motion was not put for some time. A majority of the citizens present were opposed to the motion as it read, since all were aware the law was not framed by Governor Nash. Many thought the word Nash ought to be stricken from the motion.

H. P. McCarron, to get around the difficulty, amended the motion in this manner: "That we ask our representatives and senator to vote and work for that form of government which, in their judgment, will be best for cities of the smaller size."

Colonel W. C. Watson had an amendment to the amendment and E. W. Hill had three or four substitutes, all written out, but they received no second, and Mr. McCarron's amendment was put, and the motion as amended went through. When it was doctored up and put in shape the sense of the meeting was summed up in something like the following:

"Be it resolved that the senator and representatives of this district are instructed to vote for the code giving the cheapest and best form of home rule government for cities of the size of East Liverpool."

BECAME HOMESICK

Steubenville Boy Who Ran Away Got Tired And Returned to His Home.

Upon being notified a few days since to be on the lookout for William H. Lisely, a boy of 16 years, who ran away from his home in Steubenville, Acting Chief Dawson instituted a search for the missing lad with success. He was informed that the boy might be working around a machine shop and taking the information as a clew the chief kept a close watch among the machinists of the city.

This morning he learned that Lisely had been working at Cain Bros.' shop and that he had left last evening for his home at Steubenville. The boy became repentant and homesick.

HOUSE DISREGARDS GOVERNOR'S WISHES AS TO LEGISLATION

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, Sept. 6.—The house persists in its refusal to abide by the recommendations of Governor Nash. Yesterday the members of that body introduced 10 bills and several resolutions. Speaker McKinnon introduced a resolution to amend the constitution so as to provide for the classification of cities into three classes. If the resolution is adopted the people will vote on it at the fall election in 1903. Representative McDonald, of Montgomery, introduced a resolution providing for the holding of a constitutional convention. The resolution says: "That it is necessary to call a convention to revise, amend or change the constitution of Ohio, and we recommend to the voters of this state to vote at the next election for members of the general assembly, to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1903, for or against such a convention." It was referred to the judiciary committee. It will require a two-thirds vote for adoption.

Representative Meisel, of Cuyahoga, offered a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to provide that each city over 3,500 may adopt its own charter, subject to the restrictions imposed by the constitutional and general laws regarding assessment and taxation. Guerin, of Erie, introduced two buls, one being his federal code measure and the other a bill to repeal the Longworth board of revision law and giving mayor the power to appoint boards of equalization consisting of four members and the county auditor. Representatives Bracken, of Franklin, introduced a primary election bill. It provides a new plan for the holding of primary elections, placing them under the control of city boards of election and requiring nominees to be placed on the primary ticket by petition. It is designed to eliminate alleged iniquitous features from the present laws.

The other bill offered was only of ordinary importance. The senate convened at the proper time, but adjourned without transacting any business. The body will meet again Monday afternoon. The house adjourned until next Wednesday, but the special committee which has the code bills in tow will hold meetings every day excepting Saturday and Monday. The committee went into session immediately after the house adjourned and heard arguments from city solicitors on the code. There are about 20 bills in the house hopper, but it is in nowise certain that those not referred to in the governor's message will be considered. The administration supporters have started a movement to have all measures not dealing with the subjects alluded to in the governor's message squelched in committee. Failure to report them back will accomplish this result.

The senate is adhering close to the lines mapped out by the governor in the matter of confining itself to the matters he desires acted upon. The house committee will cut off argu-

NEGOTIATIONS ON FOR BIG FARM

L. I. Aarons Said to Be After the McDonald Land Opposite Walker's.

A PRICE OF $400 AN ACRE

Set By the Owner But No Deal Concluded—Object of the Proposed Purchase Is Not Disclosed And Is Problematical.

It was learned this afternoon from a source that cannot be questioned that quite recently L. I. Aarons, president of the Homer Laughlin China company, made overtures to purchase the McDonald farm, opposite Walker, and near the town of Newell. Just what was to be done with this large farm by Mr. Aarons could not be learned, as that gentleman was not in the city today, and there was no one who could speak for him.

Allen McDonald, when asked today if the report was true that Mr. Aarons was after his mother's farm, said that it was, but that nothing definite had been done in the matter. Mr. McDonald also stated that a price of about $400 an acre was put on the farm and whether a sale would take place could not be told at this time.

His Assailant, Ryan, Goes to Lisbon Jail to Await Court Action.

Salem, Sept. 6.—(Special.)—Before Mayor Baker this morning, John Ryan, charged with shooting Edward Mackey with intent to kill, was given a preliminary hearing. The mayor held Ryan under $5,000 bond for the grand jury. The prisoner could not furnish the bail, and will be taken to Lisbon jail this afternoon.

Word from Leetsburg states that Mackey is still living, but is in a critical condition. He passed a restless night.

EAST END

A Prominent Citizen Points Out Existing Dangers and the Need of Action.

The matter of constructing a sewer throughout the East End district will be brought before the attention of the council and sewer commissioners before long. Owing to the fact that the population of the East End is growing so rapidly, the suburb is not in a condition that it should be. Private sewers, constructed to the river bank on Ohio avenue cause quite a large amount of filth to flow into the river, a short distance above the water works pump station, and this is not at all good for the general health of the city. A prominent business man of the East End when asked about this matter this morning said:

"Is is very strange for a city the size of East Liverpool, which boasts of having a council that is always doing something for the benefit of the town, to let the East End go and never mention the sewer question. There is but one thing to do, and that is to go before council in a body and demand that some action be taken in this matter at once. The idea of having a storm water sewer and a house sewer combined is not practicable in the East End. This was tried in the city and was found useless.

"The mouth of the East End sewer when built will have to be built above the head of Babb's island, as it would never do to have a sewer opening along the river on Ohio avenue. In the summer the river is so low that there is no current between the island and the Ohio shore, and refuse would lie in the bed of the river, and a terrible odor would arise.

"Take in Helena, for instance, where new residences are being erected very fast, there is no sewer. Filth is allowed to be dumped almost anywhere, and what is the result? Sickness is caused, deaths result, and why? Because the city officials are not giving the East End the attention they should."

Pleasant Party.

A pleasant party was given last evening at the residence of Miss Hulda Bergner, on Ambrose avenue. Quite a number of young people were present, and one of the enjoyments of the evening was dancing. Refreshments were served.

No Word from Absentees.

Although they left the city Tuesday afternoon, no word has been received from Roy Terrence or Harry Manley, of the East End. Friends of these young men believe they have gone to Akron, where each has relatives, and it is believed they have secured employment in the potteries either at Akron or at Barberton. The boys have not written to other friends in the East End, although young Terrence told his mother some time ago that he proposed to take a pleasure trip this fall.

Arranging for Rally Day.

A meeting of the session of the Second U. P. church will be held in the lecture room of the church next Tuesday evening, when it is expected that some important business matters will be considered. Arrangements are being made by the officials of the Sunday school of this church for the Rally day, which will be observed on Sunday, September 28. The service will be held in the auditorium on that morning, taking the place of the regular church service.

Moved From East Palestine.

The household goods of Abner Angle, of East Palestine, were received in the East End yesterday afternoon. The family will occupy the residence on Railroad street formerly occupied by Elmer A. Stevenson, who recently removed his family to Mechanicstown. Mr. Angle was formerly employed as a fireman at the East Palestine pottery, but is now holding a similar position at Laughlin No. 2.

Revival Meetings May Close.

It is expected that the Free Methodist revival meetings at the Neville Institute will close this evening, though no official announcement has been made. A large number of conversions have been reported, and the season is said to have been a sucecssful one. It will not be long until other churches in the East End will begin to prepare for revival meetings.

Membership is 368.

In the story published in this paper last evening of the growth of the Erie street M. E. church during the past three years, a typographical error occured in the present membership of the church. The membership of the church three years ago was 223, and at the present it is 368, instead of 268, which appeared last evening.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

The warning bell at the Mulberry street crossing of the C. & P. needs repairing. It has been sounding since late last night, with no intermission.

Mrs. Robert Finley, of Sebring, is spending a few days in the East End visiting friends.

A number of new sewer pipe drays were received at the East End sewer pipe works this morning.

Miss Mary Davis, of the East End, who has been visiting friends in the southern part of the state for several weeks, has returned home.

A base ball game was to be played at Columbian park this afternoon at 3 o'clock between the East End Grays and the West End teams.

Care of the Stomach.

At no time of year is it so necessary to be careful of the digestive organs as in summer. Vitality is always at a low ebb during a spell of severe heat, and the stomach needs a tonic. BLOOD WINE is highly recommended, because it aids digestion and gives a normal tone and strength to the whole system. For sale by Will Reed, Hodson's Drugstore.

Burglars robbed the house of Misses Christina and Sara Jane Johnson, near Summitville.

David French, aged 79, former resident of Butler township, Columbiana county, died at Flushing, O.

John Hamilton, aged 75, a civil war veteran, took paris green at his home in Salineville. He will recover.

Jean Michael is in jail at Lisbon, awaiting removal to New Castle, Pa., where he is wanted on a charge of theft.

Rev. Dr. E. O. Buxton, pastor of the Trinity M. E. church, Youngstown, has been elected to the presidency of Baldwin university at Berea, O.

Tod King, son of Ed A. King, Lisbon, who is fitting himself for the navy, is now assistant engineer on the Esperango of the Ward line.

After the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Brown in Salineville $800 in paper and gold was found concealed in her home. She had been cared for by a secret order, as she was supposed to be in needy circumstances.

IMPROVED THE GROUNDS

Teacher And Pupils Busied Themselves While Waiting for Books.

Principal William Dorff, of the Pleasant Heights school, has been occupying his time and that of his pupils while they waited the arrival of the books necessary for use during the coming term, in beautifying the grounds surrounding the school building.

The supply of books is said to be on hand, but they have not yet been furnished to this school. There have been a few recitations, but little if any real progress has been made by the pupils in the week ending with yesterday.

The delay in supplying the books, however, has not affected the work of the term to any great degree, as both teacher and pupils have been busy in other lines.

Mr. Dorff and a number of his older scholars cut grass about the building, and in other ways so improved the appearance of the place that the natives can scarcely realize that it once very much resembled a barn 40 miles from nowhere. With several sickles and a rake the grounds surrounding the building were yesterday placed in a conditon most pleasing to the eye.

In addition to this the teacher and pupils have laid out a base ball diamond, and it is probable a number of first-class candidates for positions in the big league will be developed before bad weather sets in.

Coal And Wages Advanced.

Salem, Sept. 6. —(Special)— The strike of the miners employed in the coal banks north of the city, which has been on for a week past pending the signing of the scale by the operators, is reported settled, and the men have returned to work. The miners get an increase. Dealers have advanced the price of coal from 9 cents to 10 cents a bushel.

Chas. F. Craig, corner Market and Fifth streets has a selected line of rubber water bottles, syringes, atomizers, gloves, etc., which he is selling at a very low price, considering the quality of the rubber.

ST. VINCENT'S DANGER

Entire Country Buried Under Great Depth of Ashes and Impossible to Recover Bodies of Thousands of Dead—Martinique Doomed.

Castries, Island of St. Lucia, Sept. 6. - The captain of the steamer Savan, now here, in confirming early dispatches concerning the terrific explosion of the volcanic Soufriere on the island of St. Vincent on September 3, says his vessel ran into a dense cloud of dust when 20 miles off St. Vincent. The darkness was impenetrable, and he changed his course due west in order to avoid the ashes that fell thick and fast.

The steamer Vare reports that at the recent outbreak of Soufriere there were several more valuable plantations on the island completely destroyed in addition to the towns referred to in earlier dispatches, and it is said that the anxiety and utter dejection of the surviving population is general.

Mouth of Crater Enormous.

The continual eruption of Mont Pelee causes the mouth of its crater to grow in size, and it is now of enormous proportions. One of the adjoining mountain peaks to Pelee has fallen bodily into this awful crater. Clouds are driven away from the vicinity of Pelee, and there is nothing but a great column of flame extending far into the sky. At night it has the appearance of a molton stream standing fixed between the earth and the heavens. The entire country is buried under a great depth of ashes, and it will be impossible to recover the bodies of the thousands of dead.

Doomed to Destruction.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Louis H. Ayme, United States consult at Guadeloupe, who is here on sick leave, says that if Pelee blows its head off it would produce a tidal wave that would be appalling. He believes it would destroy cities and villages along the coast of the chain of islands with a population of 750,000, and which would be practically helpless to save themselves. The island of Martinique he believes to be doomed to total destruction, and Guadeloupe is in a worse predicament.

Take Walther's Peptonized Port three times a day and you will have no doctor's bill to pay. Prove this.

Well-Known Woman Dead.

Cincinnati, Sept. 6.—Miss Mary Gamble, who died at Cambridge, England, yesterday, was one of the best known women in this city, where she had lived all her life. She leaves an estate worth more than a million dollars. She gave thousands of dollars annually to the support of church and charity institutions.

Pope Confirms Appointment.

Rome, Sept. 6.—The pope has confirmed the appointment of the Right Rev. John M. Farley, the auxiliary bishop of New York, as archbishop of New York, in succession to the late Archbishop Corrigan, and of the Right Rev. George Montgomery, bishop of Los Angeles, Cal., as coadjutor to the Most Rev. Patrick William Riordan, archbishop of San Francisco, the latter with the right of succession.

A little Walther's Peptonized Port saves big doctor's bills, long sickness, suffering and perhaps death.

TWELVE PAGES.

When the Ohio river is improved and opened to navigation all the year—as it must inevitably be sooner or later, and the earlier the better—it will be the people's highway of commerce. No railroad or other corporation can control or monopolize its privileges. The railroads can be and are compelled to leave open and unobstructed the approaches to the stream where such highways are needed. Encroachments upon its banks are forbidden by federal laws, the river being a part of the national domain. The railroads can and do fight competition in transportation and traffic, but they cannot and dare not fight the government.

The outlook for cheap food in the immediate future is very promising. The general aggregate of the cereal crops, if the weather remains favorable for two or three weeks more, will be greater than was ever known before. This will reduce prices, and at the same time give the producers a large income. Cheap and abundant food means prosperity and happiness for the masses of the people. At present food prices are at a higher level, on the general average, than for many years past. A downward turn would be very agreeable to millions of working people.

Americans are a reading people and the habit of reading appears to be growing. There are reported by the census 18,226 newspapers and periodicals of all kinds in the United States, an increase of 22.3 per cent. from the census of 1890. Of these 2,226 are dailies; 12,979 weeklies, and 1,817 monthlies. The increase in the circulation of all classes of newspapers has more than kept pace with the growth of the city population of the country, being 22.3 per cent. for all publications and 20.7 for population.

Wellsville council and citizens are awake to the importance of river improvement. So is everybody who wants to see the Ohio valley interests advanced. East Liverpool should take the matter up and make her position plain. The "On to Cairo" platform is a good one to stand on.

The Klondike gold fields show a decreased production this year, despite the fact that scientific methods have largely taken the place of primitive processes. Those who want to make fortunes cheaply and easily will do well to keep away from the Klondike.

Honesty and ability are more essential than any form of municipal code. Still, while a code is being shaped, the work should be well done, with careful regard to both present and future needs.

President Roosevelt will be in Ohio today and tomorrow. He will see prosperity and content in abundance, though it may surprise him if he has read Jom-Johnson's platform.

Surprise is expressed at a September snowstorm in Altoona. But that is nothing. Some of the Pennsylvania politicians have been encountering frosts all summer long.

The Ohio Democratic platform prates loudly of the reform. When did Ohio ever witness any reform under a Democratic administration?

Mr. Watterson's suggestion that the Democratic party retire all its old leaders is superfluous. The people have already retired them.

It takes more than a fortune of $5,000,000 to make a statesman, though Tom Johnson thinks otherwise.

Senator Billy Mason apperas to be the only Illinois man at all excited over his campaign for re-election.

Emma Goldman has not committed suicide, more's the pity.

Oyster-eaters are now making faces at the meat trust.

At the West Virginia State Fair, Next Week, Will Be a Great One.

We are going to discuss the speed program of the twenty-second annual West Virginia State Fair and Exposition, at Wheeling, in this little article.

The opening day for the races is Tuesday, September 9, and they continue for four days. There are sixteen events and the aggregate amount of the purses is $5,950. Throughout the programme is a great one, it having been arranged with the greatest care.

Tuesday is announced a 2:13 pace, for $500; a 2:20 trot, for $400; a 2:30 trot, for $400; and a five-eights mile dash for $100.

Wednesday there is a free-for-all pace, for $500; a 2:23 trot, for $400; a 2:19 pace, for $400, and a three-quarter mile dash for $150.

Thursday is the great racing day. The afternoon starts off with a 2:16 pace, for $500; a 2:17 trot, for $500; the great 2:30 pace for the Board of Trade stakes of $1,000, and a mile run for $150.

Friday will also be a good day, with its 2:26 trot, for $400; a 2:23 pace, for $400; a 2:14 trot, for $500, and a seven-eights mile run for $100.

The entries for these contests have closed and no finer horses were ever gotten together.

Excursion rates on all railroads, a fine Fair and lots of amusement. Go to Wheeling Monday. It will pay you in several ways.

AT THE THEATER

One of the most important announcements of the season is to the effect that "David Harum," with its New York production and an extremely strong cast, will be presented at the Grand tonight. This simple announcement will awaken anticipations of pleasure in the minds of many, for nearly everyone has read Westcott's book and found much enjoyment in it. That they will want to see David, Aunt Polly, Deacon Perkins and the other characters who move through the story on the stage seems but natural. The New York run of the play was a record breaker in the matter of receipts, and it claimed attention there for 16 weeks.

There are some theatrical attractions that are not affected in the least degree by the shifting public taste; one of these being Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the great standard American drama, that has retained its hold upon the public for over a decade. Its first production took place in the Troy museum quite a number of years ago; after which, it was produced at the old National Theater, Chatham street, New York, in January, 1853, where it enjoyed a three years' run to enormous business. It will be presented at the Grand Monday night.

CHURCH RE-OPENING

Pastor Jordan Has Returned and Will Take Up Active Work at Once.

Rev. C. G. Jordan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, returned last evening from his seven weeks vacation which he spent near the lakes. Very much refreshed both mentally and physically, the reverend gentleman has taken up his work with a new vigor and zeal and hopes to make the ensuing year one of the most successful in the history of the church. He will occupy the pulpit tomorrow, both morning and evening.

All regular services will be held tomorrow and next week, the church improvements being practically finished and every thing in readiness for an interrupted work during the year.

Since the suspension of services the improvements added to the already elegant church have made it most beautiful. The interior and exterior have each been repaired and improved in a manner truly commendable. On the outside several hundred dollars have been spent, giving the church the appearance of newness and splendor.

Much more time and money was spent on the inside. New carpets have been laid; the walls have been prettily decorated and many other improvements in the way of re-arrangement of the sections are noticeable.

SKULL CRUSHED IN.

Standard Oil Driver Held Up by Highwaymen.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 6.—Chauncey Potter, of Gaysport, this county, was found Thursday night along the road near Loysburg, Bedford county, unconscious and with his skull crushed in. Potter was the driver of one of the Standard Oil company's tank wagons and made frequent trips through the country retailing the oil. He left home Thursday morning and toured a section of Bedford county. He was evidently on his way home. It is believed that he was held up by highwaymen for the proceeds of the day's sales, that he refused and was struck on the head with some blunt instrument, which crushed in his skull. Potter is being cared for at Loysburg.

Word from there last night was to the effect that he could not recover.

TAMPERED WITH THE CONTRACT

Contractor Freshwater Granted an Extension of Six Weeks in Order to Complete Certain Street Improvements—A Heated Session.

The meeting of the city council last night was the hottest that has been held in many months. It began at 7:30 o'clock and lasted till after 11 o'clock, and during that time a large amount of important business was disposed of. The meeting was enlivened by hot debates and interesting tilts.

The council placed itself on record as favorable to the movement to improve the Ohio river and render it navigable the year round. It decided to call a big mass meeting and invite every citizens of Wellsville to attend. This gathering will be held in about two weeks. It is the intention to hold the meeting immediately after the repairs on the city hall are completed. The council will do even more. It has decided also to send delegates to Parkersburg, W. Va., to attend the meeting of the Ohio River Improvement committee. The council seems to be unanimously in favor of the building of a dam below the C. & P. railroad station instead of above it as is now intended.

Contractor Freshwater was given an extension of six weeks in which to complete the pavements on Maple alley and Liverpool street. The work should have been completed a month ago. The contractor was delayed through action taken by the council and others. He will pave Liverpool street first. It is a question whether the railway tracks will be put in the middle of that street or on the side. A resolution to place them in the center was voted down last night. Councilman Henderson proposed the change, claiming it was a clever move on the part of other councilmen to delay the improvement. He threatened to make things interesting if something was not done towards finishing the work before cold weather sets in.

Council also authorized the hiring of a number of teams and additional men to assist the street superintendent in his crusade for cleaner streets. The unpaved alleys and streets of Wellsville have been in a deplorable condition for two years. Not until a few days ago did either the council or the board of health make any move to better conditions. Then the board passed a resolution, which council acted on last night.

Resolutions were also passed requiring residents along streets that are being improved to construct suitable stone walks according to specifications made by the city engineer. On several streets there will be some trouble over this, it is believed.

Former City Solicitor Frank L. Wells appeared before the council as attorney representing the Porter Brick company, which has been furnishing some brick for use in Wellsville. City Engineer Leith and Street Inspector Dalton tested the brick. They reported that it was not as good as the brick made by the Vulcan Clay company, of this city. Council then ordered that nothing but Wellsville brick be used on pavements. Mr. Wells asked that a public test of the brick be made. He claimed that the Porter company has manufactured brick for 20 years, and had never before had any condemned. By taking these condemnation proceedings he said the business of the company had been injured. Council appointed a committee of five members to make the public test. It was intimated that there might tbe some prejudice regarding brick made outside of Wellsville.

For about the hundredth time the old James street retaining wall came up. Council refused to pay for the wall and a committee of three was appointed to investigate. Contractor Rhinehart declared that the contract called for a wall. It was found that the contract in the possession of the city had been altered by unknown parties to exclude any reference to the wall. Rinehart thought he should be paid for the work on the wall. No objection was maded to the bill for paving alone.

A lot of other matters also engaged the attention of council. Included in the big batcth of petitions were a number for improvements to streets.

An Organization Effected and Officers Chosen—Thirty-five Members.

The union boiler makers of this city have recently perfected the organization of a new lodge to be known as Silver lodge, No. 310, B. M. & I. & S. B., of America. Thirty-five members have been enrolled. The regular meeting night will be every Wednesday evening in Aten's hall.

The following officers have been selected: President, Geo. Schaidnagle; vice-president, John McGill; secretary, and treasurer, George Kountz.

Nearly all of the members are employed at the Carroll-Porter Boiler works in the West End.

The Church Steeple Going.

The steeple of the United Presbyterian church now presents a very skeleton like appearance since W. C. Breedlaw (colored) and his assistant have torn down all of the slate and under tar paper. Only the wooden frame work and the extreme top piece remain above the belfry and these will probably be taken down by the middle of next week. A modern church spire is to be erected later. The same top piece and bell will be placed upon it. The entire edifice will soon be remodeled.

Awarded a Contract.

C. C. Ewing has been awarded the contract for furnishing the city with his new patent flush tank feeder which was invented by him and has proven to be a very successful invention. He is to receive $490 for furnishing about 40 flush tanks to the city. The feeders are said to pay for themselves inside of thirty days in the saving of water.

Favorable Action Taken.

Council last evening took favorable action on the petition of Burgess & Co., stilt manufacturers, who have purchased the old soap factory for improving the county road known as Hill street. It is said the company proposes to erect a large addition to the main plant on the Hill street side in due time.

HARVEST HOME PICNIC

All Hancock County Represented In the Gathering at Rock Springs Today.

The Harvest Home picnic at Rock Springs park today is one of the largest picnics held at the park during the entire season. Every part of the county is represented. New Cumberland, Fairview, and other towns are almost depopulated.

The people flocked to the big picnic by rail, by the street cars, in cabs, carriages and automobiles, on bicycles and on foot. Every one who can earn or borrow a dollar is in Chester today.

An excursion train of 14 coaches came in at 9 o'clock. The regular trains carry seven times the usual number of coaches. These are packed until there is not standing room even on the platforms. Some of prominent citizens of New Cumberland present are: Clerk of the Court Armour Cooper, Sheriff C. F. Allison, Senator J. R. Donehoo, Ex-Senator O. S. Marshall, Judge Campbell and Prosecuting Attorney McKenzie.

The sights and pleasures of the park are being enjoyed by thousands, and hundreds are in East Liverpool taking in the sights of the city. It is a great day for Hancock county.

TWENTY BARRELS

Estimated Production of a New Well on Whitehall Farm Near Fairview.

The oil well drilled by the New Cumberland Oil company on the Whitehall farm near Fairview, came in yesterday. The well is estimated as a 20 barrel producer. Another rig is going up on the Lawrence Glass farm, also near Fairview.

Good For Ten Barrels.

The well on the Rose Kinney farm, which was shot about a week ago, was brought in yesterday, and for several minutes oil was thrown quite a distance in the air before the connections could be made with the tank. The well is owned by the Line Island Oil and Gas company, and is making about ten barrels a day. The same company is drilling a well on the W. H. Kinney farm, and is down about 200 feet. Operations have been suspended until additional casing can be procured, as water was struck and filled the casing then in the hole.

Will Rent Room, if Needed.

There will be no meeting of the Grant district school board to consider of the erection of a new building, although such a meeting has been reported scheduled for tonight. The president of the board, Mr. Allison, states that no new buildings will be erected this year. Nothing will be done in the way of securing additional room until after school begins Monday. If it is then found that the present buildings are not large enough to accommodate the pupils a room will be rented somewhere, or else the basement of the present central building will be equipped as for a recitation room.

Epworth League Rally.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church will hold a grand rally Tuesday evening. An excellent program is being prepared. A large crowd is expected at this meeting, not only from Chester, but from the surrounding towns as well. Invitations are extended to the league of the First church of East Liverpool, as well as the leagues of the Georgetown and East End churches.

He won 12 premiums, 8 firsts 3 seconds, and 4 sweepstakes, the premiums amounting to $300. Mr. Pugh's herd bull alone won $65. The herd will next be exhibited at the West Virginia state fair, at Wheeling, then at the Indiana state fair at Indianapolis.

Music and games were enjoyed by all.

BENEFIT CONCERT

By Anthracite Glee Club Arouses Much Interest Among Union Men.

All arrangements have been completed for the reception of the 10 members of the Anthracite Glee club, which comes to Rock Springs next Tuesday and Wednesday.

A number of the local unions holding meetings since the dates were secured have taken action upon the matter and several will attend the concerts in a body. Manager Maxwell, of the park, has arranged for the singers to perform in conjunction with the orchestra, and their numbers will alternate with the selections from the orchestra.

The pottery workers and other working people are enthusiastic in their support of the striking miners, and an effort will be made to outdo the Pittsburg unionists in the matter of financial support. Wellsville working men are preparing for a visit to the park during the stay of the singers, and arrangements are now being made to select a time when all can come at one time. The glee club will undoubtedly receive a hearty welcome and a patronage which will net them a substantial sum.

TRANSFER OF RIGHTS

For Railway to Be Built By B. & O. Is Still Going On.

Colonel Harry Freese, of Canton, who is prominently connected with the plan for building a Baltimore & Ohio railroad spur from Warwick, near Canton, to Smith's Ferry, over rights of way secured some years ago by the Canton & East Liverpool Railway company, arrived in the city this morning, but when seen by a representative of the News Review he had no statement to make.

Col. Freese is now, as he has been in the past, engaged in closing up the transfer of the rights of way of the old company to the Baltimore & Ohio company. This is tedious work in many respects, and as the gentleman does not devote all his time to this work, progress is necessarily slow.

WITH THE WORKMEN IN THE CLAY PLANTS

STRENUOUS DAYS.

"The kilnmen of today do not work one half as hard as they did when I was working at the trade," said an old pottery workman today, whose hairs are now white, and whose age is past the three score and ten mark. "When I was working in the kiln," said the old gentleman, "we went to work at 7 o'clock in the morning, and worked until 6 o'clock in the evening. Not a pottery in the town in those days had more than two kilns, and in those potteries where there was but one kiln, it seemed more like standing before the rolls in a rolling mill than working in a pottery. On more than one occasion, when I would accidently bump against the door or inside of the kiln, I would blister my arm, so hot was the kiln. Even when we drew the kiln one man could draw but four to ten saggers, and then he would come out and the next man would take his place. The hardest saggers to take from the kiln was the first one the kilnman went after, because he was cool, and he then worked his way toward the door. They do not draw today as in the old times. In the winter time we only worked until dark, but we started at 7 o'clock in the morning just the same. We made from $1 to $1.25 a day then, and the manufacturers paid their men every three months; that is, a settlement in full was made at that time. The Croxall pottery on Second street, was the first to commence to pay its men every two weeks. That was during the war. Two regiments were recruited in this town early in the civil war, and good workmen were scarce. Workers were at a premium. One of the manufacturers who had lost a large number of his workmen by them enlisting said: "We will take every workman from the Croxal pottery." When that firm got wind of the intent a consultation between the partners was held, and it was decided to adopt a new system of paying their men. The employes were called into the office one afternoon, and told that if they would remain with the firm they would receive their wages every two weeks, something that was unheard of in the town before. That was enough. All the men remained with the firm, and it was but a short time until all the manufacturers in the city were compelled to follow the policy adopted by the Croxall company."

THAT ROOFING PLANT.

Information is given out that a plant for the manufacture of roofing tile is to be established at Irondale, and it is stated that certain members of the East Ohio Sewer Pipe company, of that town, are interested. Some months ago the machinery was removed from the tin mill anr it is understood the old buildings will be utilized for the tile factory. As the structures cover considerable area, they would afford ample space for the purpose. For the section of country in which Irondale is located, including Jefferson county, which is considered somewhat of a center for clay-working establishments, the business of manufacturing roofing tile would be rather a new departure, but at the same time there is no apparent reason why the venture should not prove a success, in view of the fact that the Irondale fire clay is of a very plastic character and would doubtless mold satisfactorily in almost any kind of a die. There is also an abundance of this material adjacent to the tin mill property. It is also a matter of fact that roofing tile may be manufactured successfully from this material, and that with a fair margin of profit if the business is properly conducted, as it no doubt would be in this instance, since some of the parties said to be interested in the new enterprise are known to be thorough-going business men.

PRESIDENT HERBERT RESIGNS.

A surprise was occasioned at a meeting of Kilnmen's local, No. 9, last evening at Brotherhood hall when President Richard Herbert tendered his resignation of that office. He was asked to serve out his term, but to this he would not agree. No reason was given for the action of Mr. Herbert, and the local was never more surprised than when the secretary read the resignation. Thomas Neal, a kilnman at the C. C. Thompson pottery, was appointed to fill the unexpired term. Several applications for membership were presented at this meeting and several investigating committees were appointed, which will make reports at the next meeting.

NEW BARBERTON LOCAL.

It is expected that President A. S. Hughes, of the Brotherhood, will soon go to Barberton for the purpose of organizing a new local among the workmen of that shop. When asked today if he had set any date for going there Mr. Hughes said that he had not, but that a local would be organized there soon. When this is done there will not be a town in this part of the country, it is said, where a pottery is located, in which a local of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters cannot be found. This certainly show how the membership of the Brotherhood is increasing.

MACHINERY ARRIVING.

The first of the machinery for the new plant being built by the East Liverpool Brick Manufacturing company arrived at the plant yesterday. There was but one carload, and it will be several days before it can be unloaded from the car and placed in the building. A portion of the engine, boiler and grinding room is about completed, and this is where the first machinery will be placed.

SIX MONTHS OLD.

Although a more detailed account of the improvement that is contemplated to be made at the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery by the East Liverpool Potteries company was published in this column six months ago, from plans prepared by Architect Adolph Fritz, a local paper last evening told the same story, under a four-line head. Truly the News Review files are read with interest.

DID NOT APPEAR.

Although they were expected in the city last Monday, President A. M. Moreland, of the Union Potteries company, of Pittsburg, in company with Vice President Frank W. Fowler, of the same company, they have not appeared at the office of the local plant as yet. They are now expected any day, and upon the most important business, that of making improvements to the Union.

READY TO OPERATE.

The East Ohio Sewer Pipe company, of Irondale, has placed in operation one dry pan and the stiff-mud brick machine and bricks are being turned out for use in constructing additional kilns. It is the purpose to make several kilns of these before sewer pipe making is started. The latter department of the factory, however, is virtually ready to operate.

INNOVATION.

A section of roadway is to be paved near Steubenville with vitrified fire-clay brick, the latter to be furnished by the Toronto Fire Clay company. The total amount of their bid was $12,000, which is $3,000 lower than the figures of a competitive bidder, who was also a local man.

MAKING THIN WARE.

It is reported that the capital stock of the New Castle Pottery company at New Castle will be increased. It is now said that at least two new kilns will be erected instead of one. The company is as busy as can be and has never as yet had a chance to get into the manufacture of the thin ware. It is for this purpose that one of the new kilns will be erected.

DID NOT MATERIALIZE.

Although Packers local, No. 25, held an interesting session last evening, some matters that were expected to be brought before the meeting were deferred for one week. An oversight of some detail work was the cause of this, and much business that was to be transacted last evening will be looked after at the meeting next Friday evening.

KILNDRAWERS' MEETING.

The kilndrawers will meet this evening in Brotherhood hall. It is understood that a number of new members will be obligated at this session.

AMONG THE POTTERS.

The Huntington pottery, the last one on Long Island, is now being dismantled and the buildings torn down. The pottery is said to have been in operation 100 years or over.

The American Land & Devolopment company is opening some clay mines in North Carolina that it is said present clay that for whiteness and quality in burning hard is hard to equal.

The operative potters of Sebring, who took part in the Labor Day parade at Alliance and won the prize of $10, have donated the money to the benefit of the anthracite miners in Pennsylvania.

A few days ago two children built a fire in a barn across the alley from the plant of the Boone Pottery company, Boonsboro, Ia., and thirty minutes later the pottery was destroyed. J. G. Holmes, proprietor, will re-build the plant at once, putting up brick buildings.

A freight car, containing nothing but freight for merchants of this city, was totally destroyed by nre in the Conway yards yesterday afternoon. A message to this effect was received in this city yesterday afternoon by Station Agent George A. Wassman, but the list of shipments and the consignors was not known in this city.

The loss, however, will not fall to the local merchants, for claims will be presented to the railroad company either by them or by those who made the shipments. The car destroyed was known to railroad men as a transfer car.

BRIDGEVILLES WERE NOT IN IT

EXPERIENCE VS. YOUTH

A Good Pitcher With Good Backing Enables the Home Team to Have Everything Its Own Way—Game Abounded in Good Plays.

They were certainly playing some. Bridgeville looked like spurious coin when the game was finished. They were not at any time in the wagon. At the end of the first half things had the appearance of an interesting contest, but when the locals got through with their half a far different aspect was presented. From that time on only one team played the true article of the game.

Manager Walsh simply had a good twirler with good backing. He got together one of the festest lineups seen this season. The outfield was there; also the infield. And Gehring's pitching was superb. Three hits only were made off the new man. He sent them over in a style never before seen by the Allegheny county boys. Like a pack of children they beat the wind. What they will do today when they go up against Maley is hard to say.

It was simply a gang of youths against an aggregation of men well acquainted with the game. And there are few that don't like to witness expert playing even if one side is there only as coachers. The locals got the bulk of the errors. But they made up for that in numerous creditable stunts.

Webb alone made a play that was worth the price of admission. It was in the seventh. Kenny had reached first and was speeding toward second when Webb performed the feat that will make him dear to the hearts of at least 400 people. Down through the diamond, with fire flying in every direction, was the ball going that was met by Mayer. Webb was playing close to first base and all thought that he certainly would never connect with the whizzing sphere. But Bibb, ever confident, with lightning rapidity, glided over the smoothness, reached down with his ungloved paw, grabbed the ball, jumped on second, whirled around, and with an unerring aim planted the ball in Grandpa Heckathorn's hands. A double play. And it was made so quickly that half of the fans could not realize exactly what had occurred. Maag went wild over the play and clasped the hero in his arms in a truly romantic manner. This was the first and only real inning.

Peacock landed at first on an error by Webb. Lynch went out. McLaren hit for two bases, scoring Peacock. Maley dropped Callahan's high fly, and McLaren scored. Mayer went out to Chick in middle. Callahan scored on the throw in. C. Kenny was hit. He went out, being forced by F. Mayer. Maag managed to get hit again. Godwin, after making a successful bunt and a pretty slide, was called out.

The crowd almost went up over Dennis' decision. They remembered his failing, however, and let the matter stand with only a few pointed remarks. Reark placed one near the fumbler at third. Nist dropped a pretty hit over second and scored two runs. Heckathorn drove one between first and second. Nist scored. Emmerling walked. Heckathorn scored. Maley went down a fielder's choice. And Emmerling scored on the choice. Webb was hit. Gehring also walked. Maag did not forget to get hit once more and thereby scored Maley. Godwin retired the side on an easy one to third. The rest of the game was all East Liverpool.

Godwin put the usual amount of ginger in the game by his appearance on the field. He had no chances to make any sensational plays. But he did some good work allee samee.

Maag almost made a record. Two runs, three hits, two putouts, five assists and only one error.

Along with his great double Webb got a run, a hit, five putouts, five assists and a ——.

Nist played part of the game in left field and finished up behind the bat. He is all right in either position. In the latter he has a reputation. For a long time he was one of the star catchers in the Three I. league.

Colonel Heckathorn swung that game limb of his in the regular grand stand way. He pulled it along with extraordinary efficiency. One run, two hits, 15 putouts, one assist and a couple of errors. He remains the treasure of the ladies.

Reark and Maley had very few chances.

Considering the fact that it was McCafferty's first attempt, he did excellent work. He bids fair to be a pitcher.

M. Kenny was the whole show among the visitors. He plays a nice game and stands in with the fans.

Supposed Suicide.

Peoria, Ills., Sept. 6.—Major William S. Brackett, of this city, was found dead in bed yesterday morning with a bullet hole through his head. It is supposed Mr. Brackett killed himself because of despondency over family troubles, having secured a divorce from his wife recently. Mr. Brackett was a major in the Illinois national guard and had large mining and grazing interests in Montana.

Has Been the Study of the Doctors of the Old School and the Doctors of the New School, and both proclaim that nothing is more effective to the digestive organs than pure pepsin in order to get all the nutriment out of the food partaken of and assimulated to the system.

NEXT COMES

the proclamation that if this treatment is accompanied by a proper tonic to meet the effects of the unusual work upon the digestive organs such as pure port wine.

Then the Worst Case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia

must succumb to the combined action of pepsin and port wine, The happy thought of such a common-sense remedy is represented in

ORGAN RECITAL

Delighted a Large Audience of Music Lovers at St. Stephen's Church.

Not in many months has there been assembled together in this city so great a number of music loving people as at the free organ recital given last evening at the St. Stephen's Episcopal church. So large was the attendance that extra chairs had to be provided and many besides were compelled to stand.

Mr. Edward Macrum is organist of All Saint's church, New York, and when an opportunity was given to hear him play in this city, his friends who have watched with satisfaction his progress from boyhood, showed their interest by appearing en masse. As is well known the organ in the St. Stephen's church was a gift of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and this is the first of a series of free recitals which will be given once a month throughout the coming winter.

Quite a number of selections were rendered by Mr. Macrum, all of which brought out the full expression of the instrument, and each number was heartily appreciated by the audience. Three solos occured at intervals in the program. Miss Alice Dixon sang "Abide With Me," and Miss Everson sang, "The Hills of God," both in admirable voice. Miss Millicent Thompson literally captivated the hearts of the audience by her renediction of "Come Unto Me." Her voice is magnificent in quality and of broad range. During the intermission a silver collection was taken for the benefit of the church choir. Mr. Macrum was presented with a bouquet of beautiful flowers.

At the conclusion of the program the audience arose and sang the National anthem.

MOVING NORTHWARD

SURVEYORS CONTINUING THEIR WORK ABOUT NEGLEY.

Believed to Be Working in the Interests of Pittsburg-Cleveland Trolley Project.

Surveyors who have been working on the east side of the north fork of Beaver creek claim they are working in the interest of a street railway company, and thihs is all the information that can be gleaned from them. These surveyors have been working in the vicinity of Fredericktown for some weeks, but they are now directing their lines toward Negley.

It is said these men are members of the same surveying party who have been working in the interest of a Pittsburg company, whose intention is to build a road from Six Mile Ferry to Cleveland. Persons from this city who interviewed some of the surveyors while they were working in the vicinity of Georgetown claim it is the same party which is working toward Negley.

Although many attempts have been made to secure a statement from the heads of the party, these gentlemen refuse to talk, either of who they are representing or of their destination. It may be that the West Point & Northern Railroad company is interested in these surveys, but no statement from representatives of hat company in this city can be obtained.

NEW JERSEY CHARTER

Practical Demonstrations Are a Pronounced Success—Patents Granted.

Practical demonstrations at the plant of the Gas Apparatus and Construction company at Chester were completed last Monday, and the plant is now closed. Two reasons are assigned for this, one of which is that some needed repairs are to be made at the plant at once, and then because Judge Williams, the inventor of the process, has been forced to enter a Pittsburg hospital for the purpose of having another operation performed on his eyes, which will result in his sight being completely restored. The practical demonstration was to last but five weeks, and when that time ended last Monday, gas in its different stages was produced at from 40 to 100 per cent. pure. Judge Williams has been allowed a patent for his process, and the patent papers will be taken out as soon as he is discharged from the hospital.

It is the intention to organize a company under the laws of New Jersey which will hold a half interest in the patent. A trustee will be selected by the local company, which will most likely be a Trust company, and this trust company will look after the sale of rights and do other detail work for the local company. A meeting of the stockholders in this city will be held soon, when all these matters will be considered. The making of gas under the process invented by Judge Williams is pronounced a success.

Charles A. Smith, of this city, who has been spending several days in Cleveland attending the races, returned home this morning.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back For An Old One—How It Is Done In East Liverpool.

Sometimes the back aches with a dull, indescribable feeling making you weary and restless; sometimes pain shoots across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use plastering or rubbing the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. To exchange a bad back for a new and stronger one, follow the example of this East Liverpool citizen.

Mr. Wm. Anderson, of 305 Lisbon street, says: "During the civil war I enlisted and served three years in the Forty-second Ohio infantry. From the exposure during the war I attributed the severe aching and weakness in the loins and muscular rheumatism of recent years which all seemed to center in my kidneys. In the morning when first getting up I was very dizzy until I had moved around for a time and my nervous system became affected, causing a fluttering and fullness around the heart. Seeing an advertisement in the paper I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the W. & W. pharmacy and took them. A few doses gave me relief. The improvement was gradual and continued as the medicine got thoroughly into my system. I firmly believe that Doan's Kidney Pills will in every case as they did in mine, prove the justness of the claims made for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

LIFE PLANT.

J. G. Cotton writes from New Philadelphia, O., the following praise for the great tonic, LIFE PLANT:—

New Philadelphia, O., Feb. 22, 1902

Life Plant Co.,

Messrs:—Last September I was attacked with Sciatic rheumatism. It was so painful as to allow me to sleep very little, could not stand on my feet ten minutes at a time without severe pain. I was very much alarmed as I had the same trouble a number of years ago and was unable, though attended by the best medical skill, to get rid of it for two and a half years, during which time I could perform no labor. A friend told me that LIFE PLANT was a sure cure for rheumatism. I took two bottles and it cured me; I have had no return of it since. I am not only pleased, but surprised as well at the speedy cure.

Very truly,

THE OLDEST POTTERY A FAMILIAR LANDMARK IN EAST LIVERPOOL

Building, Now the Croxall Property, Erected For Hotel Purposes—A Pottery Since 1844.

What may now be called the oldest pottery building in this city is that located at the corner of Washington and Second street, and owned by the Croxall Pottery company. It is no other than the old "Mansion Pottery," Although originally built for hotel purposes it was never used as such and for years has been used for a clay shop.

It is said that in 1838 this building was erected, but not as it stands today, it has been remodeled to some extent, and when the property was bought by its present owners in 1857, from Salt & Mear, who at that time operated a small yellowware shop, having but one kiln, the pottery was just as large as any in the city. The story of the sale of this old shop is one of interest, and was told by Mr. John Croxall to the News Review today. He said:

"When the firm of Salt & Mear wanted to sell Joseph Cartwright and myself agreed to take the plant. The price I cannot recall just now, but it was somewhere between $75,000 and $9,000. Not one cent of cash changed hands. All they wanted was ware, and we agreed to their demands. We shipped them so many cazks a month until the plant was paid for, and it did not take many years to do this.

"The old plant was operated by Mr. Cartwright and myself for about eight or ten years, and during that time we built an additional kiln, much larger than the kiln the old firm used.

"The old building was built originally by John Patrick who acted in the capacity of a financier and preacher. At that time there were not more than 300 persons residing in the town, and a cross country railroad scheme was put on the market. Patrick established a bank, and then proceeded to organize a company for the purpose of building a railroad from this city to Asthabula. The name of the company is said to have been the East Liverpool and Ashtabula Railway company. Work was commenced on the road out the California Hollow, but the company soon stopped operations and nothing has been heard of the matter since.

"With visions of a railroad the need of an up-to-date hotel was shown. This was built at the corner of Washington and Second streets. The same foundation as laid then is seen by hundreds who pass this building daily. It is one of those foundations that were made to stay, and it is practically as good as the day it was finished."

The firm of Croxall & Cartwright, some years after securing control of the building, made some changes in the architecture and remodeled the roof. Before this was done, space was provided on what today would be called the third floor for sleeping purposes. Mr. Croxall termed this part of the building the chicken loft. It was nothing but one large room, with no partition for single or double rooms, and it was so arranged that, if used for hotel purposes, and the house was crowded, beds could be placed in a row in the "loft" and many beds at that. The laths placed on the building when it was first built are there today. Nothing but strong oak laths were used.

A few changes have been made about the old frame building, but the fact that it was built for hotel purposes is quite evident, when one takes a trip through it. It was in 1844 that the property was sold to Salt & Mear for pottery purposes by Mr. Patrick.

The work done in this building today is most interesting, and, except that will be viewed with interest by those not familiar with the old fashioned way of making pottery.

Mr. Croxall, the senior member of the Croxall Pottery company, is the oldest living manufacturing potter in the west, and, it might be rightly said in the United States. He is now in his 79th year, and he came to this city from England in 1844. He first obtained employment at the old Bennett pottery as a kilnman. In those days firms paid at the rate of $1.25 a day, and made quarterly settlements.

Engineer and Fireman Killed and Flagman Seriously, Perhaps Fatally, Injured.

Pittsburg, Sept. 6.—By the breaking of a coupling in a southbound train on the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston railroad near West Brownsville late Thursday night two men were killed and another fatally injured. The broken section collided with a train that was following.

W. J. Roberts, engineer, 25 years old, of 2703 Carson street, this city, died yesterday afternoon while being taken to the West Penn hospital.

Thomas Burmester, fireman, 23 years old, of Carrick, Pa., died in the West Penn hospital yesterday afternoon.

Samuel McAllister, 28 years old, flagman, of Lenox street, Uniontown, has fracture of skull and many cuts and bruises.

The entire cab of the engine was smashed in. The engineer, fireman and flagman all were buried in the wreckage. Others of the train crew rushed to their assistance and dragged them from the wreck. They were hurried to this city with all speed.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Money Unstable—Railroad Bonds Showed Good Tone.

New York, Sept. 6.—At the opening yesterday the stock market reflected little of Thursday's reactionary tendency, though the undertone was somewhat heavy in view of the unstable money market and lower prices from London. Norfolk and Western's strength was due to favorable forecasts regarding the annual report, and Pennsylvania's gain, which was not long maintained, was attributed to the collapse of the tunnel franchise opposition. The comparative inactivity of Reading common, which was heavy throughout, resulted, it was believed, from the impression that the probable contest for control had been settled. The Chesapeake and Ohio pool was checked by reason of the road's poor showing for the latter part of August, but closed with a fractional gain. Wabash issues advanced on news of a favorable judicial decision.

Irregularity followed another squeeze in call money, which worked nominally as high as 10 per cent, but actually not higher than 8½, and fell off as low as 3½.

The sub-treasury's debit balance at the clearing house of over $1,000,000 was chiefly due to heavy payments for the navy and $250,000 for account of Klondike gold. Today's bank statement will, it is believed, show a further loss of surplus reserves, but is not expected to reflect in full the $6,000,000 loss to the sub-treasury and the interior by local institutions. London was again prominent in yesterday's operations, though selling on balance.

Railroad bonds showed a good tone throughout the day, but the market was less active. Total sales, par value, $3,220,000.

U. S. old 4s, coupon, advanced ⅞ and the new 4s, registered, declined ½ per cent on the last call.

Most Successful Meet In History of Famous Track

"THE AMERICAN ASCOT"

THE racing season just ended at the famous "Queen of Spas," Saratoga, N. Y., was the most successful in the history of the Saratoga racing association from every point of view. The entries and attendance established new records, and horse owners from all parts of the country have carried off goodly shares of rich prizes. "The Ascot of America" is the title applied to the establishment, and every person that attended the races will readily state that the com parison with the great English course is not a high flight of imagination, but is justified by facts.

The fashionable world was strikingly in evidence at Saratoga—in fact, dominating everything else—and the consensus of opinion is that not even in the days of the old Saratoga Racing association and historic Monmouth park, at Long Branch, N. J., when the two brothers Jerome, the late Pierre Lorillard, the late August Belmont, William H. Travers, David Dunham Withers and John Hunter led the racing way, has so aristocratic an atmosphere pervaded a course on this side of the Atlantic.

To the persons familiar with the Saratoga track of old the innovations in the "new Saratoga" are plainly evident. On all sides are seen the results of the carefully studied plan of improvement outlined and carried into effect by President William C. Whitney, of the association, and his immediate official associates, F. R. Hitchcock, vice president; H. K. Knapp, secretary, and Andrew Miller, treasurer. The board of directors is composed of William C. Whitney, R. T. Wilson, Jr.; T. Hitchcock, F. R. Hitchcock, Andrew Miller, H. K. Knapp, Perry Belmont, W. W. Worden, J. H. Alexandre, Philip J. Dwyer, Jack G. Follansbee, J. H. Bradford and J. G. Heckscher, the first five named comprising the executive committee.

At a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars the grand stand, clubhouse, track and paddock have been renovated and rebuilt, and at the present time there is no course in the country better calculated to charm the eye and satisfy the desire of its patrons. The groves of beautifully foliaged trees, the expansive, well kept greensward and the beds of blossoming flowers form an ensemble inspiring nature lovers, and the harmonious scheme of architecture blends gracefully into the scene.

GEORGE GOULD AND HIS TWO SONS AT THE SPA.
[Mr. Gould may race thoroughbreds. The boys, Kingdon and Jay, are famous as polo players.]

There are three tracks at Saratoga, the dirt track, the turf course, inside the former, and on the level infield is the course for steeplechasers. The turf track will not be used at all this year, for it is the intention to allow the grass to have a full year's growth in order that it may become firmly rooted. From the clubhouse is obtained a superb panoramic view of the three spreading arenas, and its verandas always present a festive scene, with its gathering of jauntily attired men and daintily gowned women. Like the enlarged grand stand now seating 6,000 people, the clubhouse is so situated as to avoid the afternoon sun, which formerly shone directly into the eyes of spectators, causing no little discomfort, and in appointment both buildings are well prepared to provide for the refreshment and convenience of the visitors. The old paddock has been torn down and a new one built, which is 220 feet long, 80 feet wide and contains twenty-five stalls.

On the opposite side of the tracks, across from the clubhouse and grand stand, are the stables of many prominent New Yorkers who race their horses at the spa. This settlement is called "millionaires' row," and under the picturesque, low slanting roofs are sheltered practically every well known equine thoroughbred in the east, and a worthy delegation from the west.

The Saratoga stables have accommodations for about 1,500 horses, almost as many as those that can be housed at Sheepshead Bay, New York, the largest racing establishment in America, and probably the most imposing of the private establishments there is that of August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey club. Mr. Belmont has spent a large fortune on his headquarters there. He has built a half mile track for the exercising of his horse, which encircles his stables, and access to the buildings is had by means of a tunnel under the course, thus permitting his horses to have uninterrupted sway during their training operations. The tunnel is lighted by electricity and connects with the main racing track. The action of Mr. Belmont in establishing a permanent stable at Saratoga on a somewhat elaborate plan is significant of the increased interest in racing affairs at the spa and of the added importance of the position the course has attained under the new regime. Other prominent factors in American racing will doubtless follow Mr. Belmont's example, and these, together with Mr. Whitney's estate there, will form a notably colony.

George Gould created somewhat of a sensation at the spa by stating his intention of buying part of the stable of Clarence H. Mackay, whose retirement from the turf, caused by the death of his father, John W. Mackay, has aroused widespread regret. Should Mr. Gould form a racing stable, he will receive a royal welcome, for he is a thoroughly representative American millionaire sportsman. The eldest son of the late Jay Gould is a striking contrast to his father, who never identified himself with sports, choosing rather to devote his entire attention to his financial interests.

JOCKEY BULLMAN.
[Bullman's work at Saratoga places him close to the top of the list of winning riders.]

The Saratoga races are a splendid preparatory course for the autumn meeting of the Coney Island (New York) Jockey club at Sheepshead Bay. Two-year-olds are particularly catered to at the spa, and a rare opportunity is afforded to form an opinion as to the identity of the probable winner of the Futurity, the stellar two-year-old event run at the opening of the meeting. The Sheepshead Bay races, which are now on, will continue until the middle of September.

ALWAYS THE LAWYER.

Stuck to Legal Phraseology Even While Seasick.

Justice Giegerich of the New York supreme court, who has a fine summer home on Staten island, is very fond of sailing, and a few days ago he invited a friend of his, a lawyer, to go down the bay with him. At the start the wind was quite brisk, but soon freshened into a gale and caused the little craft they were in to toss and roll in a manner that soon caused the lawyer's features to twist into expressive contortions.

Justice Giegerich, noticing his friend's plight, laid a soothing hand on the latter's shoulder and said:

"My dear fellow, can I do anything for you?"

"Yes, your honor," replied the lawyer in plaintive tones, "you will greatly oblige me by overruling this motion."—New York Times.

Baseball Comment

GENERAL BELIEF THAT BIG LEAGUES ARE TO COMBINE

A Twelve Club Circuit ❖ Details of the Scheme

THE baseball mill is grinding slowly, but surely, and recent developments are such as to warrant the belief that movements of a momentous nature are developing in the relations of the National and American leagues. The principal topic of discussion is the proposed combination of the two leagues into a twelve club circuit. While those "in the know" have been aware for some time that the rival organizations have had such an object in view, the general public was taken wholly by surprise when the information came to the surface.

The gist of the twelve club circuit plan is as follows:

Soden, Brush and Hart compose the executive committee of the National,

BIG JOHN ANDERSON OF THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS.

and, according to the story, it is the intention of the triumvirate to establish one big team in Chicago, St. Louis, Boston and Philadelphia. The consent of the majority of the American league magnates is said to have been secured for the scheme, and the names of Auten of Boston, Hedges of St. Louis and Angus of Detroit are prominently mentioned as being favorable to the scheme.

Committee Favors Plan.

The committee has adopted the scheme and agreed to report favorably on it. Hart has offered to buy or sell Comiskey. Hitches are expected in Philadelphia, Chicago and Cleveland. Philadelphia disapproves of John T. Brush and his workings; Johnson's influence in Cleveland is said to operate against the plan in that city, and Comiskey wants to stay in the game in Chicago. It is understood, however, that Hart has assured Comiskey that whichever buys or sells the baseball war will be stopped in the Windy City.

The National league magnates maintain that the matter can be easily adjusted. They say Auten, of Boston American league franchise, is National league at heart, that the St. Louis public is overwhelmingly in favor of the National league and that the St. Louis and Detroit controllers of stock will buy or sell at a good figure. Hart and Brush are said to have visited all the American league eastern cities with this object in view, and the time is ripe for consolidation.

A well known Chicago authority says:

"Plans have been laid for some time and nearly matured for the consolidation of these leagues into what will be known hereafter as either the National-American or the American-National league. Immediately after the close of the baseball season, or as soon thereafter as circumstances will permit, a conference of the presidents of the baseball clubs of the two leagues will be called by Mr. Brush. League officials will be barred from the session, only club magnates being admitted. The proposition to end the war between the organizations in an amicable manner will then be presented to them and a vote taken to cast the clubs together into one organization. There are twelve cities in the two circuits now, so that none of them need be dropped."

When asked about the proposed consolidation, Colonel John I. Rogers of the Philadelphia National league club said:

"You can say that it is all news to me, and I cannot believe that such a plan has even been outlined. I did not attend the meeting, so I am not in a position to say whether or not the project was discussed. I do not believe it was and think the story is one of the same kind that retired me from baseball. I have not been offered a price for my stock, nor have I been approached to sell. It is a bad time just now to dispose of baseball holdings. If our club had a chance to win the pennant, we could get a good price for our stock, but with a losing team the value depreciates. I cannot imagine where such reports originate, but they hit wide of the mark.

"I have lately been in communication with a prominent American league magnate, who suggested an amicable arrangement. I told him that such a plan could not be considered until the American league returned what they had stolen from us. First, restitution and then amicable adjustment. If we have peace, it must be with honor."

Mack Has a Laugh.

Connie Mack ridiculed the story of a consolidation. "I think you will find the Philadelphia Athletics at the same old stand next year," said he. "I guess this is another 'white elephant' story. White elephants are attractive things. At least the people like to come out to Twenty-ninth and Columbia avenue to see them, and we have never been asked to give anybody his money back.

"When I saw Ban Johnson in Chicago the other day, he was so jolly over the American league situation that he refused an invitation to come on to Atlantic City; said he was happy enough where he was. This amalgamation story is likely to make Ban laugh so hard that he will take on ten pounds more avoirdupois, and he is so fat now that his life is in danger."

"Dummy" Hoy's Retirement.

William Hoy, better known as the "Dummy," who recently decided to retire from baseball, is one of the most interesting figures that ever graced the national game. He was popular as center fielder on Comiskey's pennant winning White Sox during the seasons of 1900 and 1901 and signed with Cincinnati this year. With the various changes in the Cincinnati reds which finally culminated in the signing of Joe Kelley and the letting out of the veteran manager, "Bid" McPhee, "Dummy" got his release. Almost as soon as he was given his notice he was the recipient of many offers, but those from major league clubs were not high enough, and Hoy has ever declared that he would never again play in minor league company, but would quit the game as soon as he was unable to keep a position in fast company. Hoy began playing ball in 1886 in Oshkosh, Wis., and since that time has played in almost every team in the National league. His longest service in the National was in Cincinnati, where his career finished. He is reputed to be wealthy.

"The baseball public has a very superficial knowledge of the game," said a seasoned member of the Chicago National league team, "and the estimate of patrons of the relative value of players to a club is positively painful. Why, I have frequently heard a player praised for a performance for which he should have been censured, and again I have seen cases where an infielder was roasted for not handling a grounder cleanly and making a put out when, by a grand effort, he managed to knock it down and prevented a runner from scoring from second."

CYCLING

Arthur Zimmerman has decided to return to the cycle path. He will shortly sail for France, where he has contracted to appear in a number of paced exhibitions and to ride as team mate of the great Jacquelin, whom Zimmerman induced in 1893 to give up his work in a repair shop to race on the cycle track.

Zimmerman's return to racing will be a great surprise. He is now the proprietor of a large hotel at Point Pleasant, N. J., and as mine host made a successful debut.

RUN DOWN.

When a phrase is coined out of world wide human experience it is apt to be brief and expressive. We are "run-down" we say in the endeavor to describe a relaxed physical condition, and all the terminology of medicine could not more expressively describe the actual condition than that every day phrase. It suggests the clock, perfect mechanically, but failing to record the passage of time because it is run-down.

People who have that tired out, run-down feeling will find new life in the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This great medicine is far more than a tonic. It cures diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food of which alone all physical strength is made.

"The reason I delayed writing was because I wanted to wait one year after I had taken the medicine before giving my statement, and now I can send a good, conscientious testimonial," writes Mr. Chas. H. Sergeant, of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio. "During the summer and fall of 1896 I became all 'run-down,' nerves were out of order and stomach out of order. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thanks to you for your advice, I used six bottles; and since I stopped taking it about one year ago, I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and have been able to work every day. My appetite is good, I can eat three square meals a day, and I do not feel that miserable burning in the stomach after eating. My blood and nerves are in good shape, and, well—in fact, I think I am in pretty good running order."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels active and healthy.

Expensive Courtship.

Recently a young Frenchman of good family, but very poor, fell in love with a banker's daughter, and, obtaining a letter of introduction to her father, called on him. He found him at home, and a pleasant conversation followed.

As he talked, however, the young man fumbled with a gold coin, the only money he possessed, and when he rose to take leave he removed it from his waistcoat pocket and put it, without thinking, into his trousers pocket. As he was strolling home he looked for the coin, but, alas, it was not to be found, for there was a small hole in his trousers pocket, and as soon as he had put it in it fell noiselessly on the velvet carpet in the banker's drawing room.

As he sorely needed the money the young man, though much against his will, resolved to go back and inquire about it.

"Yes," said the banker as he entered; "I found a gold coin on the carpet as soon as you left the room, and I was not surprised, for I lost a similar coin in that very place two days ago. This, therefore, is my money, and we will now look for yours."

The banker smiled as he spoke, but the penniless young man turned his back on him and abruptly left the house.

The Gleaners.

The old custom of gleaning in the harvest fields, which recalls the Biblical story of Ruth and Naomi, is not obsolete in England, and in Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and the neighboring counties, as soon as the wheat is gathered in the late days of August, there may be seen in the newly cleared fields numbers of women and children diligently picking up one by one the scattered ears and forming them into neat little sheaves which they carry in their hands until large enough to be bound up. When the daylight fails, all the booty is bound up in cloths and carried home on the heads of the gleaners. At home they thrash it out by hand and sell the grain or use it for their chickens. The gathering of a half peck is usually a full day's work for a child, and often a woman spends a whole day in gathering very little more. Gleaning, however, is looked upon somewhat in the light of a picnic. The mother and children leave home in the morning, take with them food for the day and stay out in the fields until nightfall.

Watch Owner's Pride.

"Then you do not regard him as trustworthy?"

"I should not go so far as to say he is not trustworthy, but he is the kind of man who will set his watch at 11:30 o'clock and then call your attention to the manner in which it keeps time when the 12 o'clock whistle blows."—Washington Star.

Crown Jewel Tragedies

Precious Baubles The Cause of Many Crimes

The famous jewels of the earth, some of which ornament the crowns of European monarchs, have nearly all been the cause of crimes. The immense wealth represented by a sparkling stone seems to arouse man's cupidity and tempt him to commit the most brutal acts to gain its possession.

Among the British crown jewels there is one stone which far outshines the rest. This is the famous Kohinoor, or Mountain of Light. Its history can be traced back to the thirteenth century, but it was not until the famous Mogul emperor in the eighteenth century possessed it that exciting events began to cluster around it.

THE CAPTAIN THREW THE MAN INTO THE SEA.

When Nadir the Conqueror seized the treasury at Delhi, the great diamond was found to be missing. A woman betrayed to him the secret that Mohammed, the Mogul emperor, was wearing it hidden in his turban.

Nadir hit on a clever trick to seize the stone without further quarreling. At a grand festival he took advantage of an oriental custom to ask the emperor to exchange turbans. The unlucky Mohammed had no choice. He gave the turban and stone up quietly. After Nadir's death the gem passed to his son, Shah Rokh, who was in his turn conquered by Aga Mohammed. This scoundrel put the unfortunate Rokh to frightful tortures to make him give up the secret of where he had hidden the gem. At last he blinded him, but even then the wretched man held out. In a fury Mohammed had Rokh's head shaved and poured upon it boiling oil. The miserable man died under the torture without revealing the whereabouts of the diamond.

Another of its owners, Shah Zaman, hid the stone and was tortured by his brother to show where it was hidden. He, too, died without letting it be known. After his death it was discovered quite by accident imbedded in the plaster of the murdered man's cell and worn by the murderer, Shah Seyali. Will it be believed that his victim's fate overtook Seyali? He lost his eyes, but kept the stone.

Runjit Singh was the Kohinoor's next owner. He, too, gained it by force and fraud. When his time came to die, so convinced was this ruler that the stone brought with it nothing but ruin that he ordered it to be placed in the eye of an idol, but as he was signing the warrant he died, and after his death the great diamond fell into English hands.

Every crown jewel in Europe possesses at least one world famous diamond, and there is not one of them the record of which is not stained with crime. Even that which has had the fewest adventures, the enormous Braganza of Portugal, was found by convicts. It is a Brazilian stone and is, if genuine, by far the greatest diamond in the world. It weighs 1,680 carats, which would make its value $28,224,000.

But it is whispered it may be nothing but a white topaz.

No royal stone has been responsible for worse villainy than the Pitt, now known as the Regent diamond. It was found by a slave in India in 1701. It weighed 401 carats.

To hide it its finder wounded his leg and hid the gem in the bandage. He escaped to the coast with his prize. There he met a sea captain, to whom he confided his story. The captain inveigled the slave aboard his ship, stole the stone and threw the wretched man into the sea.

The captain then sold the stone to a diamond merchant for $5,000 and drank himself to death. The latter sold it to Mr. Pitt for $100,000. It proved the plague of his life. He was constantly haunted with the fear of being robbed. So he sold it to France, and it became one of the crown jewels of that country. It was afterward valued at $2,400,000.

During the revolution it was stolen from the Garde Meuble, but soon after an anonymous letter declared that it was hidden in a ditch in the Champs Elysees, and there, sure enough, it was found. After being pledged to the Dutch government it was again recovered and is still among the remnants of republican France's crown jewels.

Among the jewels of the Austro-Hungarian empire is a yellow diamond of enormous size and purest luster. It is known as the Florentine or Austrian yellow. It is one of the oldest diamonds known, its early history being hidden in the mists of antiquity. Once it belonged to Charles the Bold of Burgundy. He lost it at the battle of Morat in 1476. It was picked up by a peasant, who took it for a crystal and sold it for a few pence.

Its new owner, a priest, got a few shillings for it from a merchant of Berne named May. The latter knew he had a prize and sold it for 20,000 crowns to the Fugger family. Then Henry VIII. of England bought it, but his daughter Mary gave it to her husband, Philip of Spain, and through him it reached Austria.

The Great Sancy's early history, like that of the Florentine, is wrapped in mystery, but few things are more curious in the history of crown jewels than the way in which the diamond gravitated back to its original Indian house.

Once it adorned the cap of Henry III. of France. This monarch had become quite bald at the age of twenty-six and wore the cap to conceal this deficiency. From him it passed to Henry IV., who sent it to Switzerland to raise money on it. On the way the servant who carried it was waylaid and murdered, but not until he had swallowed the diamond. The Saucy then became the property of Queen Elizabeth of England, and for a century it graced British diadems until James II. sold it in 1695 to Louis XIV., and it became a French crown jewel.

Stolen at the same time as the Regent, it was next heard of in the possession of the Demidoffs in Russia and was by them sold to a Swiss named Leveat. A quarrel took place about the price and ended in a celebrated lawsuit in 1832. The Demidoffs won the suit and later sold the stone to the famous Parsee merchant, Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy. In 1867 it was again back in Paris for sale. It was an Indian rajah who bought it, and for the third time the Great Saucy is on its native soil.

Girl Caught Bullet With Her Teeth

Rosa J. Starrett, a thirteen-year-old girl of Bath, Me., is the heroine of a most remarkable feat.

Rosa actually caught with her teeth a .32 caliber bullet fired from a pistol held within two feet of her face, and that shapeless piece of metal dropped harmless from her mouth as the frightened child recovered from the shock and cried out to her mother.

Rosa is the daughter of Woodbury Starrett, a ship carpenter, and assists her mother at light housework when not at school. Mr. and Mrs. William Lounsbury, who had been boarding at the Starrett house, recently removed to another part of the city. Immediately upon the departure of Mrs. Lounsbury Rosa, accompanied by her brother Royal, eleven years of age, went to the vacant room. The boy noticed a revolver on the bureau. Rosa picked up the weapon, saw that it was loaded and replaced it, but the little brother took it up and moved to the window to examine it.

As they stood, scarcely two feet apart, the boy pulled the trigger, and the self acting revolver was discharged.

The bullet entered at the right side of the girl's mouth, cutting a furrow nearly an inch in length along the top of the lower lip, and struck the eye-tooth in the jaw. The tooth was splintered into fine pieces, while the next tooth was removed as smoothly and artistically as it could have been pulled by the highest priced dentist.

Two more teeth were knocked from the jaw, but not completely severed, and there the bullet stopped.

Surgical skill has already removed most of the powder marks from her face, and only a scar where the bullet entered her lip and the vacancy caused by the loss of the four teeth will remain as permanent reminders of an accident which could not be repeated without fatal results once in a million times.

The bullet is flattened to a ragged piece of metal, showing clearly the marks of the broken teeth. But for the remarkable fact that it struck the jaw exactly in line with the row of teeth and proceeded along that line so accurately that it struck each succeeding tooth squarely, and so did not swerve to either side, it must have made a terrible wound.

Hare and Dog Both Dead.

Last year during one of the courses run for the Waterloo cup a dog was seen to collapse suddenly and lie down. On reaching the spot the judges found that the animal was quite dead. Heart disease had killed it. More remarkable still, a few yards in front lay the hare, untouched, but also stone dead from a similar cause.

What Carlyle Wrote of Tennyson.

When the Cat Was Sacred.

In the middle ages brute animals formed as prominent a part in the devotional ceremonies of the time as they had in the old religion of Egypt. The cat Elurus was embalmed after death and buried in the city of Bubastis because, according to Herodotus, Diana Bubastis, the chief diety of the place, was said to have transformed herself into a cat when the gods fled into Egypt.

Breathing of Insects.

Insects generally breathe through special pores in various parts of their bodies, and if these pores are closed by oil they are suffocated. Any one may test this by dropping sweet oil on the thorax or back of a wasp. It very soon dies. For this reason oil has been found one of the best things to use for the destruction of insects.

Miss Sarah Finley.

WINE OF CARDUI is a thoroughly scientific and modern remedy, meeting the needs of the modern woman in the modern way—without the torture of an operation. Wine of Cardui has cured them in the privacy of their homes and it has found a place in the hearts of American women that no other medicine has found. In their gratitude over 10,000 American women have written letters commending Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui meets their wants as no other medicine does. It sustains the young girl at the shock of her entrance to womanhood. Women who take Wine of Cardui have little discomfort during pregnancy and little pain at childbirth. When the change of life appears they enter a happy, healthy old age. Every month it comes to the rescue to assist Nature in throwing the impurities from the body.

Miss Sarah Finley, of Memphis, Tenn., vice-president of the Palmetto Club of that city, speaks for herself and many friends when she bestows the following praise on Wine of Cardui:

"Among the numerous medicines placed before suffering women for their relief none can touch McElree's Wine of Cardui. It towers above them all as a reliable female remedy. It simply drives pain and disease away and restores health in an incredibly short period. I have taken great interest in this medicine for the past two years, since it brought health and strength to me. I have also recommended it to a number of my friends and they who have used it speak of it in the highest terms and I feel that it is praise well bestowed."

If you are suffering from female weakness Wine of Cardui is the medicine you need.

You can have health the same as Miss Finley if you will take the Wine of Cardui treatment. If you need advice further than the complete directions given on the bottle, address The Ladies Advisory Department, Chattanooga Med. Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
